River Plume

LIKE A GIANT chimney pouring out a cloud of smoke, St. Joseph river on Monday of this week was disgorging this plume of silt-darkened water into Lake Michigan at St. Joseph. Herald-Palladium Aerial Photographer Adolph Hann captured this picture from an altitude of 3,000 feet. A surface current on the lake carries the darker river water in a northwesterly direction from piers at the harbor mouth. As water mingles with clearer lake water, the dark shade gradually turns lighter in the distance (top). St. Joseph river water normally is darker than lake, but wide difference here suggests silted water from rain upstream last week was reaching the river mouth Monday. (Adolph Hann aerial photo)

Public Pensions Crush Taxpayers

By LEE MITGANG
Associated Press Writer

Every man, woman and child in the United States paid $170 in tax dollars last year to cover the steadily mounting pension costs for the nation's city, state and federal employees.

Many experts are warning that the country simply cannot bear the burden. They say the public pension debt could sink cities, states and even the federal government under a mountain of ill-considered promises and generous benefits.

The per-capita tax bill included $45 for the cost of state and local pensions alone. The annual bill for these pensions has gone up more than fivefold in the past 15 years — from $1.6 billion to a current $9.1 billion.

The other $125 of the tax burden was for federal employee pension plans, according to the National Taxpayers Union, a private, nonprofit research group. The group estimates that Americans will pay about $25 billion this year to cover the current retirement costs of federal employees.

Even these figures don't reveal the whole bill because they do not cover what Americans owe public workers in form of future pension commitments.

The taxpayers union estimates that the 21 major federal employee pension plans owe all members, either active or retired, $499 billion more than the plans have on hand. This is $2,485 in unfunded debt for every American, money that over the years will have to be covered by tax dollars.

At the city level, each resident in Boston owed city workers $1,725 as of this year in unfunded pension debts. In Pittsburgh, the per-resident bill was $735; in Los Angeles, $588; in Miami, $431; in Chicago, $375; in Atlanta, $368; and in New York City, $1,000, according to a study of state and local plans by the bond brokerage firm of John Nuveen & Co. The national average per capita pension debt to city workers was $900.

The study shows that each state resident in Massachusetts owes state employees $867 in unfunded pension debt. In Washington, the debt is $440; in Illinois, $276; in California, $214; in Wisconsin, $195; and in New York State, $148. The national average per capita pension debt for the 50 states is about $500.

The figures result from dividing the "unfunded liability" of a particular pension plan by the city or state population. The unfunded liability is simply the difference between the pension fund's assets, and an actuarial estimate of what the fund will eventually have to pay to all its participants, either active or retired.

In general, the lower the unfunded liability, the closer the plan is to being on a sound footing. Ideally, there would be no unfunded liability, meaning that if the plan were to shut down, it could pay all its debts in cash on the spot. Texas, Georgia and New Hampshire have state systems that are fully funded.

Some, like the three city plans in Washington, D.C., are funded on a "pay-as-you-go" basis; they do not estimate their future debts and obligations and have built up huge, unfunded liabilities.

Even Colonies Had Problems

By Associated Press

The closest this nation ever came to a coup d'etat was over public pensions. In 1777, a year after America declared its independence, revolutionary officers asked the Continental Congress to grant a pension of half pay for life to all officers who served during the entire war. Gen. George Washington warned that a pension debt of that magnitude would surely "sink the colonies." He was to learn that freedom costs money. After the war was won, the officers gathered in Newburgh, N.Y., and threatened to march on Philadelphia if their pension demands were not met. Congress relented and granted the soldiers a pension of five years' full pay.

Mrs. Helen Anthony Carver Dies

Local Woman Noted For Philanthropies

Mrs. Helen Caroline Anthony Carver, 1408 Manley court, St. Joseph, died Saturday in Borgess hospital, Kalamazoo. She died on her 80th birthday after an illness of two and a half years.

Mrs. Carver was the owner of the Anthony Oil company, Shreveport, La., and former owner of Heath company which she sold in 1966. She and her first husband Howard E. Anthony bought Heath company when it was in bankruptcy in the 1930s, moved it to Benton Harbor where it became the world's largest producer of electronic kits for home assembly.

Howard Anthony was killed in 1964 in a private plane crash in Tennessee that took the lives of five other people.

In 1958, Mrs. Anthony married Joseph E. Carver who survives.

Mrs. Carver shunned public acclaim, but she was widely known for various philanthropies.

She was an active partner with Howard Anthony in management of Heath company. Heath was founded in Chicago by Ed Heath as a supplier of aviation parts. Heath also produced the Parosol airplane in kit form which became the first "Heathkit."

Heath was killed in 1931 while testing a Parosol. The company was moved to Niles and went bankrupt in the depression. Howard and Helen Anthony purchased the assets at a trustee's sale.

The Anthony's continued the Heath name in aircraft accessories after moving the company to Benton Harbor.

Just before World War II, Heath marketed a radio receiver that was the start of the company's shift from aviation parts to the growing electronics industry.

The company prospered after World War II by marketing war surplus materials and expanding its Heathkits into radio and hi-fi mail order business.

Today, Heath company is located on Hilltop road, St. Joseph. It has half a million square feet of floor space and employs about 1,100 people in St. Joseph. Heath is a subsidiary of Schlumberger, Ltd.

Mrs. Carver had many interests outside of her business life, but two of her strongest causes were the Salvation Army and Humane Society.

Will Aid Refugees

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials plan to use some $180,000 in federal funds to ease the plight of Michigan's 1,251 Southeast Asian refugees currently on welfare. Records show nearly half of Michigan's 2,700 Southeast Asian refugees, most from Viet Nam, are either supported wholly or in part by some form of welfare. A $5 million federal program, launched by the Department of health, Education and Welfare last week, should funnel the $180,000 to the state to fund jobs and provide language and vocational training for the refugees who have been unable to find employment. HEW officials say grants will go to any agency working with refugees which can come up with a jobs program.

The Narrowing Affluence Gap

Since World War II, Americans have grown accustomed to being the most prosperous people on earth. Wage rates in the United States were far above those prevailing in Western Europe, even after the postwar recovery period. This country's edge in per capita personal income seemed almost to be an economic imperative.

Now, however, the affluence gap — more properly, the labor-cost gap — between America and Europe has narrowed almost to the vanishing point. As Robert Ball observes in Fortune, Americans "find it hard to grasp that the U.S. has become a cheap-labor economy compared to some European countries. While straight wages, by and large, are still higher in the U.S., the proliferation of fringe benefits and social-security costs borne by employers in Europe has pushed total labor costs higher there."

Figures released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) in January tell the story. According to the bureau's preliminary estimates the hourly compensation of production workers in the United States and nine other countries as of mid-1975, Canadian workers earned an average wage of $5.11 an hour — 30 cents more an hour than the average American workers. Workers in the eight remaining countries earned less.

A different picture emerged when fringe benefits were added to wages to arrive at total compensation per hour. By this measure, workers in Sweden and Belgium received more than those in the United States, while Canadian, West German and Dutch workers were just behind their American counterparts.

With wage and benefits per hour worked added together, here are the amounts for the chief industrialized nations: Sweden $7.12, Belgium $6.46, United States $6.22, Canada $6.20, West Germany $6.19, Netherlands $5.98, France $4.57, Italy $4.52, United Kingdom $3.20, Japan $3.10.

The BLS defines total compensation as follows: "all direct payments made to the worker (pay for time worked, pay for vacation holidays, and other leave, all bonuses, and pay in kind) plus payroll deductions for any kind, before employer expenditures for legally required insurance programs and contractual and private plans."

Fringe benefits add only about 30 per cent to basic wages in the United States. But they add 68 per cent in Italy, 68 per cent in Belgium, and 64 per cent in France and the Netherlands. The four-week paid vacation is standard in Western Europe, for example, and some workers receive five. Sweden plans to make the fifth week statutory for all employees in 1977. Moreover, European workers generally have more paid holidays than American workers.

In a sense, though, these figures are misleading. Most Europeans are taxed much more heavily than Americans are, leaving them with proportionately less take-home pay. This is especially true in Britain and Sweden.

Prices, too, tend to be considerably higher in Europe than in the United States. A recent survey conducted by Business International, a Swiss-based American company, found that living costs in 13 foreign cities — eight of them in Europe — are greater than in New York City. An average two-bedroom apartment in Zurich rents for $650 a month. Food and transportation in Stockholm cost 50 per cent more than in New York.

Comparatively speaking, then, the United States and its products are now bargains for many Europeans. Increases in European travel to the United States and in American exports to Europe may well result.

It's A Sad Conclusion

Rep. G. V. Montgomery, chairman of the House Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia, and a man who has done more personal searching for the fate of the MIAs than probably any other member of Congress, sadly has concluded hope has run out for the thousands of American servicemen unaccounted for in the Vietnam war. "Like so many others," Montgomery told a meeting of MIA families, "I wanted to believe they were still alive, so I did. We must face the cruel, but hard, facts that our MIAs lost their lives in the service of their nation."

Even so, the congressman urged American officials to continue pressing for a Vietnamese accounting of the missing and checking any clues which might determine their fate.

Honoring The Founders Can Be A Problem

Presidential proclamations about commemorating things or that come and go, usually without much public awareness. They have become too frequent to arouse the kind of response proclamations from the Chief Executive once received.

President Ford has issued one which could prove the exception. Oct. 9 henceforth will be honored as "Leif Erickson Day," in honor of the claim that Norsemen preceded Christopher Columbus and his hardy crew to these shores by several centuries.

The fact of the matter is, history is hazy about who reached the shores of the Americas first. There have been claims by many nationalities, and evidence of sorts has been offered to support almost all of them.

What is known is that the Columbus voyage of 1492 began a series of voyages to the New World, culminating in its settlement and development. Ethnic feelings can be strong, however, and the argument over who was first continues.

The Leif Erickson proclamation, in which Congress concurred, could engender some heat because it has been set two days before Columbus Day. Perhaps it is just as well. If the trend continues, adding a few more days to the list could turn October into Founders Month.

Just As He's Getting Over One Big Bash —

Ralph Nader Is Critical Of Profile By Columnist

EDITOR'S NOTE: Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has taken exception to a profile of him by NEA Washington columnist Tom Tiede which appeared in this newspaper in July. Nader sent out the following letter:

Editor,
Tom Tiede's recent column on our activities is so replete with mistakes that he deserves to be rescued from his own disservice to readers. Herewith is a partial correction list:

1. We have recognized, contrary to his misstatement, many positive performances or groups in this country; in fact, we put some of these descriptions in a book entitled "So Proudly We Hall" (by Kenneth Lasson, Grossman Publishers, 1975). If you had asked, Tom Tiede, you would have learned.
2. College students do not send us money from their school fees and never have; they finance their own citizen groups, called public interest research groups, with such contributions all over the country. They fund the groups and run them by themselves. Tiede could have easily verified this if he had wanted to.

3. The press is not manipulated to praise our views; can you give any examples, Mr. Tiede, or are you simply trying to be humorous?
4. We do not favor greater control over law abiding private industry; only more law and order against corporate crimes, consumer gouging, monopolies, pollution and other similar violations against the public.

5. We never lobbied for the seatbelt buzzers. We lobbied for seatbelts and now for the even more effective air bag systems.
6. We never lobbied for the interlock seatbelt system; that control over law abiding private industry; only more law and order against corporate crimes, consumer gouging, monopolies, pollution and other similar violations against the public.

7. We don't think it is arrogant to go to court to defend the rights of airline passengers with confirmed reservations who find there are no seats available for them when they reach the gate. The airlines know how to deal with the no-show problem without penalizing the passengers who do show up. One airline, Eastern, found an answer several years ago to the no-show problem by offering conditional reservations to passengers who would normally be overbooked.
8. Like Tiede's other statements, there is no evidence for absurdly asserting that stopping airline overbooking increases airline rates.
9. Massachusetts election officials were not accused of "conspiring" to put my name on the presidential primary ballot. I criticized them for arbitrarily taking the names of non-partisan public figures and putting them on the ballot to make the primary more interesting to voters. This is unfair both to partisan candidates on the ballot and non-partisan citizens who, without even being consulted, are placed on a particular party (Democrat in this case) ballot.
10. Even journalists, under the first amendment, are not permitted by the law to engage in actionable libel. Mr. Tiede knows this and should have shared it with readers.
11. We advocate more competitive free enterprise and more consumer owned businesses, such as consumer cooperatives. Mr. Tiede's identifying our views with those of Mr. Galbraith's on the economy indicates that he has trouble reading as well as writing accurately.

There are other errors in his column but the ones just described are sufficient to suggest that the columnist may have missed his calling. He should try fiction, clearly labeled as "Tom Tiede's Tall Tales."

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —
Mrs. Sandra Granke, of route 1, Hills road, Benton Harbor, was announced the winner this morning of the Miss Benton Harbor Centennial Queen contest. George Romney is to crown Sandra Granke of the centennial celebration tonight following the opening performance of the centennial spectacular at Filds-trap Field.

— 25 Years Ago —
Coloma — It's "Glad" time in Coloma now as hundreds of acres of the gladioli, second only to the rose as a popular cut flower, come into bloom in this area, and Coloma prepares for its three-day big show and festival. Visitors to the three-day festival which begins tomorrow with a parade and fireworks, were assured of seeing more of the beautiful "Glad" flowers here than they have ever seen before in any one place.

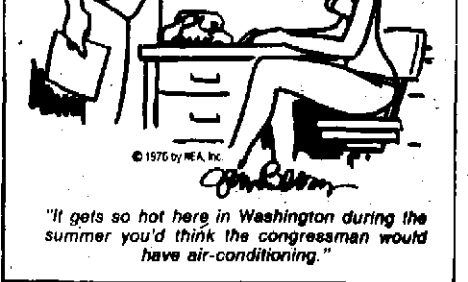

— 50 Years Ago —
The Enders company, West Main Street, Benton Harbor, today announced plans for extensive improvements to be undertaken in the immediate future and which make the establishment one of the largest retail stores for women in southwestern Michigan.

Homer Harper, twin city architect, began the process of moving today from his office at Main and Sixth streets, Benton Harbor, into a suite on the fourth floor of the new Fidelity building.

— 75 Years Ago —
While Arthur Brown of St. Joseph was riding horseback across the Napier bridge at 8:30 last evening the horse suddenly frightened and turned suddenly to one side, hitting against the bridge railing with such force as to tear it away bodily. Both horse and rider fell headlong sixty feet to the river below. By a miracle neither was seriously injured and managed to swim ashore.

Berrien Springs — The location of the Emanuel training school at this village from Battle Creek last month was the signal for the overthrow of the largest democratic stronghold in Berrien county. For 40 years Oranoke township has bid defiance to the Republican party by rounding up a Democratic majority. The spring election will end the rule of the Democrats. The reason will be the increased vote in the village, by the addition of 200 college men including professors and students, all of whom, it is reported, are Republicans.

Baffling Case Of Letter 'B'

WASHINGTON — Little did Sherlock Holmes realize when he arrived in Washington last week that he was about to confront one of the most baffling mysteries of his career. He suspected the worst however; the cable to him from U.S. authorities was unusually brief, and he deduced that a government communication that is brief is also guarded and hence into a matter beyond the routine.

He was greeted at the airport by an official car and taken directly to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. There he was introduced to a distinguished group of scientists who he presumed had just finished a working lunch.

"How may I be of service?" Holmes wondered.
The scientists pointed to a large photograph on the table. "This is a picture of the surface of Mars as taken by our Viking spacecraft yesterday. It is the same as every other picture we've received, save one feature. Here, on this rock, do you see it Mr. Holmes?"

"It appears to be a character of the alphabet."

"Precisely, the letter 'B'."

"Quite remarkable."

"Mr. Holmes, we have been studying the letter for nearly 24 hours. We've gotten opinions from MIT, from USC, even from CBS, but so far we have found nothing to explain it. Can you help us at all?"

Holmes put his magnifying glass to the photograph.

Holmes turned to the door. "Quickly," he said, "we haven't a moment to lose." And with the scientists in tow he raced from the building on a madcap investigation of the capital not designed for settling pasta. His objective: "When you have eliminated everything else," he explained tersely, "the solution must be what remains."

He talked with officers at Brookings Institute, the Bureau of Printing, the Botanical Gardens, even Bethesda High School. His final stop was the Civil Service Administration, which he said was suspect in this matter because of its historic propensity for expending the symbol of the bureaucracy to ever new worlds.

Hours later, Holmes and the scientists returned to NASA where the famed detective requested a soundproof room and double security at the exits. He was asked if he needed a podium but he declined, saying he never drank during a case. At length he called for attention.

"The letter," he announced gravely, "is not of this world."

There was utter silence.

"Keep in mind that the letter on the rock was not photographed until several days after the Viking landing. The rock had been photographed repeatedly during the period, but the symbol was not there. I surmise it was placed, as a warning, when the camera was not looking."

"As a warning? What kind of warning?"

"Gentlemen, the letter 'B' stands for: Betty for President."

"Which means ... ?"

"Which means, my good fellow, that there is not only life on Mars, but intelligent life. The lady would be my choice as well."

"But that's impossible."

"Correct," Holmes said, slipping on his deerstalker cap, "she's not even running. Nevertheless, the Martians seem insistent. And in view of this I would suggest that you not do anything to cause panic. It would be better if you told the public the letter is an optical illusion — at least until after November."

Running Mate Gap Significant

WASHINGTON — Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Richard Schweiker aren't the first presidential and vice-presidential candidates to try to paper over a vast ideological gulf in the name of expediency, nor are they likely to be the last. Bringing together diverse points of view is what successful politics is all about, Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale, in fact, have been hastily closing a much smaller but still very real philosophical gap.

But the Reagan-Schweiker combination is more awkward than most, because Reagan's power base is ideological and because he has promised repeatedly to pick a running mate of similar conservative persuasion. And in an era when voters are highly suspicious of politicians, it seems intolerably opportunistic of Schweiker, who has such a liberal voting record he made Richard Nixon's enemies list, to say now that he is suddenly so inspired by Reagan's wonderful leadership he can happily embrace conservative positions he has spent his career opposing.

The basic trouble with the ticket is that it has no credibility. Schweiker's performance on NBC's "Meet the Press," his major national television debut as Reagan's running mate, made this painfully clear.

To illustrate, here is one important example. Reagan has opposed Federal funding for children's day-care centers. Schweiker is the co-sponsor, with Mondale, of a comprehensive bill to subsidize such centers on a large scale as well as health, nutritional, educational and other services for low-income families.

But the merits of the issue have been entangled in right-wing politics, so that it has become a sort of litmus test of conservatives versus liberals. The conservatives have derided federally supported day-care centers as "socializing" the upbringing of children and an intrusion of family life. The emotional rhetoric which has surrounded the issue ignores the fact that day-care centers do not take any responsibility for child-rearing away from parents. On the contrary, they make it possible for a working mother to provide better care for her child, who might otherwise be unsupervised while she earned a living.

Schweiker glibly abandoned his previous support for the Federal Child Care Act. He conceded that the lack of adequate, properly staffed and moderately priced day-care centers is a major national problem, which is major because he no longer thought it necessary for the Federal government to help because Reagan would "find ways to involve the private sector."

What nonsense. The reason there is a shortage of day care is that the private sector can't make any money running centers that mothers can afford. Centers in other words, aren't sufficiently profitable.

Kissinger

In Pakistan

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto held talks today that could decide whether Pakistan continues to get American aid and arms.

A senior American official told reporters traveling with Kissinger that American aid and arms sales to the longtime Asian ally are jeopardized by Bhutto's plans to buy French equipment to reprocess used nuclear fuel.

U.S. law requires a cutoff in aid to a nation which receives a reprocessing plant without agreeing to place it under international control, because the plutonium produced as a byproduct could be used to build nuclear weapons. U.S. officials suspect that the Pakistanis want to operate their own reprocessing plant so they can match India's atomic bomb.

The Narrowing Affluence Gap

Since World War II, Americans have grown accustomed to being the most prosperous people on earth. Wage rates in the United States were far above those prevailing in Western Europe, even after the postwar recovery period. This country's edge in per capita personal income seemed almost to be an economic imperative.

Now, however, the affluence gap — more properly, the labor-cost gap — between America and Europe has narrowed almost to the vanishing point. As Robert Ball observes in Fortune, Americans "find it hard to grasp that the U.S. has become a cheap-labor economy compared to some European countries. While straight wages, by and large, are still higher in the U.S., the proliferation of fringe benefits and social-security costs borne by employers in Europe has pushed total labor costs higher there."

Figures released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) in January tell the story. According to the bureau's preliminary estimates the hourly compensation of production workers in the United States and nine other countries as of mid-1975, Canadian workers earned an average wage of $5.11 an hour — 30 cents more an hour than the average American workers. Workers in the eight remaining countries earned less.

A different picture emerged when fringe benefits were added to wages to arrive at total compensation per hour. By this measure, workers in Sweden and Belgium received more than those in the United States, while Canadian, West German and Dutch workers were just behind their American counterparts.

With wage and benefits per hour worked added together, here are the amounts for the chief industrialized nations: Sweden $7.12, Belgium $6.46, United States $6.22, Canada $6.20, West Germany $6.19, Netherlands $5.98, France $4.57, Italy $4.52, United Kingdom $3.20, Japan $3.10.

The BLS defines total compensation as follows: "all direct payments made to the worker (pay for time worked, pay for vacation holidays, and other leave, all bonuses, and pay in kind) before payroll deductions of any kind, plus employer expenditures for legally required insurance programs and contractual and private plans."

Fringe benefits add only about 30 per cent to basic wages in the United States. But they add 88 per cent in Italy, 69 per cent in Belgium, and 64 per cent in France and the Netherlands. The four-week paid vacation is standard in Western Europe, for example, and some workers receive five. Sweden plans to make the fifth week statutory for all employees in 1977. Moreover, European workers generally have more paid holidays than American workers.

In a sense, though, these figures are misleading. Most Europeans are taxed much more heavily than Americans are, leaving them with proportionately less take-home pay. This is especially true in Britain and Sweden.

Prices, too, tend to be considerably higher in Europe than in the United States. A recent survey conducted by Business International, a Swiss-based American company, found that living costs in 13 foreign cities — eight of them in Europe — are greater than in New York City. An average two-bedroom apartment in Zurich rents for $650 a month. Food and transportation in Stockholm cost 50 per cent more than in New York.

Comparatively speaking, then, the United States and its products are now bargains for many Europeans. Increases in European travel to the United States and in American exports to Europe may well result.

It's A Sad Conclusion

Rep. G. V. Montgomery, chairman of the House Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia, and a man who has done more personal searching for the fate of the MIAs than probably any other member of Congress, sadly has concluded hope has run out for the thousands of American servicemen unaccounted for in the Vietnam war.

"Like so many others," Montgomery told a meeting of MIA families, "I wanted to believe they were still alive, so I did. We must face the cruel, but hard, facts that our MIAs lost their lives in the service of their nation."

Even so, the congressman urged American officials to continue pressing for a Vietnamese accounting of the missing and checking any clues which might determine their fate.

Honoring The Founders Can Be A Problem

Presidential proclamations about commemorating this or that come and go, usually without much public awareness. They have become too frequent to arouse the kind of response proclamations from the Chief Executive once received.

President Ford has issued one which could prove the exception. Oct. 9 henceforth will be celebrated as "Leif Erickson Day," in honor of the claim that Norsemen preceded Christopher Columbus and his hardy crew to these shores by several centuries.

The fact of the matter is, history is hazy about who reached the shores of the Americas first. There have been claims by many nationalities, and evidence of sorts has been offered to support almost all of them.

What is known is that the Columbus voyage of 1492 began a series of voyages to the New World, culminating in its settlement and development. Ethnic feelings can be strong, however, and the argument over who was first continues.

The Leif Erikson proclamation, in which Congress concurred, could engender some heat because it has been set two days before Columbus Day. Perhaps it is just as well. If the trend continues, adding a few more days to the list could turn October into Founders Month.

Ralph Nader Is Critical Of Profile By Columnist

EDITOR'S NOTE: Consumer advocate Ralph Nader has taken exception to a profile of him by NEA Washington columnist Tom Tiede which appeared in this newspaper in July. Nader sent out the following letter:

Editor,

Tom Tiede's recent column on our activities is so replete with mistakes that he deserves to be rescued from his own disservice to readers. Herewith is a partial correction list:

1. We have recognized, contrary to his misstatement, many positive performances or groups in this country; in fact, we put some of these descriptions in a book entitled "So Proudly We Hail" (by Kenneth Lasson, Grossman Publishers, 1975). If you had asked, Tom Tiede, you would have learned.

2. College students do not send us money from their school fees and never have; they finance their own citizen groups, called public interest research groups, with such contributions all over the country. They fund the groups and run them by themselves. Tiede could have easily verified this if he had wanted to.

3. The press is not manipulated to praise our views; can you give any examples, Mr. Tiede, or are you simply trying to be humorous?

4. We do not favor greater control over law abiding private industry, only more "law and order" against corporate crimes, consumer gouging, monopolies, pollution and other similar violations against the public.

5. We never lobbied for the seatbelt buzzers. We lobbied for seatbelts and now for the even more effective air bag systems.

6. We never lobbied for the interlock seatbelt system; that was done by the Ford Motor Company which, among several reasons, did not want to install air bags.

7. We don't think it is arrogant to go to court to defend the rights of airline passengers with confirmed reservations who find there are no seats available for them when they reach the gate. The airlines know how to deal with the no-show problem without penalizing the passengers who do show up. One airline, Eastern, found an answer several years ago to the no-show problem by offering conditional reservations to passengers who would normally be overbooked.

8. Like Tiede's other statements, there is no evidence for absurdly asserting that stopping airline overbooking increases airline rates.

9. Massachusetts election officials were not accused of "conspiring" to put my name on the presidential primary ballot. I criticized them for arbitrarily taking the names of non-partisan public figures and putting them on the ballot to make the primary more interesting to voters. This is unfair both to partisan candidates on the ballot and non-partisan citizens who, without even being consulted, are placed on a particular party (Democrat in this case) ballot.

10. Even journalists, under the first amendment, are not permitted by the law to engage in actionable libel. Mr. Tiede knows this and should have shared it with readers.

11. We advocate more competitive free enterprise and more consumer owned businesses, such as consumer cooperatives. Mr. Tiede's identifying our views with those of Mr. Galbraith's on the economy indicates that he has trouble reading as well as writing accurately.

There are other errors in his column but the ones just described are sufficient to suggest that the columnist may have missed his calling. He should try fiction, clearly labeled as "Tom Tiede's Tall Tales."

Baffling Case Of Letter 'B'

WASHINGTON — Little did Sherlock Holmes realize when he arrived in Washington last week that he was about to confront one of the most baffling mysteries of his career. He suspected the worst however; the cable to him from U.S. authorities was unusually brief, and he deduced that a government communication that is brief is also guarded and hence into a matter beyond the routine.

He was greeted at the airport by an official car and taken directly to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. There he was introduced to a distinguished group of scientists who he presumed had just finished a working lunch.

"How may I be of service?" Holmes wondered.

The scientists pointed to a large photograph on the table. "This is a picture of the surface of Mars as taken by our Viking spacecraft yesterday. It is the same as every other picture we've received, save one feature. Here, on this rock, do you see it Mr. Holmes?"

"It appears to be a character of the alphabet."

"Precisely, the letter 'B'."

"Quite remarkable."

"Mr. Holmes, we have been studying the letter for nearly 24 hours. We've gotten opinions from MIT, from USC, even from CBS, but so far we have found nothing to explain it. Can you help us at all?"

Holmes put his magnifying glass to the photograph.

Holmes turned to the door. "Quickly," he said, "we haven't a moment to lose." And with the scientists in tow he raced from the building on a madcap investigation of the capital net designed for settling pasta. His objective: "When you have eliminated everything else," he explained tersely, "the solution must be what remains." He talked with officers at Brookings Institute, the Bureau of Printing, the Botanical Gardens, even Bethesda High School. His final stop was the Civil Service Administration, which he said was suspect in this matter because of its historic propensity for expanding the symbol of the bureaucracy to ever new worlds.

Hours later, Holmes and the scientists returned to NASA where the famed detective requested a soundproof room and double security at the exits. He was asked if he needed a podium but he declined, saying he never drank during a case. At length he called for attention.

"The letter," he announced gravely, "is not of this world."

There was utter silence.

"Keep in mind that the letter on the rock was not photographed until several days after the Viking landing. The rock had been photographed repeatedly during the period, but the symbol was not there. I surmise it was placed, as a warning, when the camera was not looking."

"As a warning? What kind of warning?"

"Gentlemen, the letter 'B' stands for: Betty for President."

"Which means ... ?"

"Which means, my good fellow, that there is not only life on Mars, but intelligent life. The lady would be my choice as well."

"But that's impossible."

"Correct," Holmes said, slipping on his deerstalker cap. "She's not even running. Nevertheless, the Martians seem insistent. And in view of this I would suggest that you not do anything to cause panic. It would be better if you told the public the letter is an optical illusion — at least until after November."

Running Mate Gap Significant

WASHINGTON — Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Richard Schweiker aren't the first presidential and vice-presidential candidates to try to paper over a vast ideological gulf in the name of expediency, nor are they likely to be the last.

Bringing together diverse points of view is what successful politics is all about. Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale, in fact, have been hastily closing a much smaller but still very real philosophical gap.

But the Reagan-Schweiker combination is more awkward than most, because Reagan's power base is ideological and because he has promised repeatedly to pick a running mate of similar conservative persuasion. And in an era when voters are highly suspicious of politicians, it seems intolerably opportunistic of Schweiker, who has such a liberal voting record he made Richard Nixon's enemies list, to say now that he is suddenly so inspired by Reagan's wonderful leadership he can happily embrace conservative positions he has spent his career opposing.

The basic trouble with the ticket is that it has no credibility. Schweiker's performance on NBC's "Meet the Press," his major national television debut as Reagan's running mate, made this painfully clear.

To illustrate, here is one important example. Reagan has opposed Federal funding for children's day-care centers. Schweiker is the co-sponsor, with Mondale, of a comprehensive bill to subsidize such centers on a large scale as well as health, nutritional, educational and other services for low-income families.

But the merits of the issue have been entangled in right-wing politics, so that it has become a sort of litmus test of conservatives versus liberals. The conservatives have derided federally supported day-care centers as "Sovietizing" the upbringing of children and an intrusion of family life. The emotional rhetoric which has

Schweiker glibly abandoned his previous support for the Federal Child Care Act. He conceded that the lack of adequate, properly staffed and moderately priced day-care centers is a major national problem, which must be solved. But he explained that he no longer thought it necessary for the Federal government to help because Reagan would "find ways to involve the private sector."

What nonsense. The reason there is a shortage of day care is that the private sector can't make any money running centers that mothers can afford. Centers in other word, aren't sufficiently profitable.

Sailboaters Rescued From Lake Michigan

BY RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Two sailboaters swept overboard by Lake Michigan waves cresting to 10 feet Saturday night were rescued by two young men who swam through the turbulence off St. Joseph's Tiscornia beach.

St. Joseph police credited the rescue to Peter Gorton, 23, of 278 Fisk road, Fairplain, and his friend Ronald Pfeiffer, 25, of Midland, Mich.

Rescued were Craig Bennett, 29, of 4465 Fikes road, Hagar township, owner of the 22-foot O'Day model sailboat, and George Blasy, 39, of 4184 Morton avenue, Stevensville.

Police said Bennett and Blasy suffered numerous bumps and bruises, but were released after treatment at Memorial hospital. Police said it's believed that Bennett was unconscious for a short time, while being pulled from the lake.

A call for help was received at 9:06 p.m. after Gorton and Pfeiffer saw the boaters in distress and raced to a call box for emergencies located on the north pier. City police, sheriff's officers and a Coast Guard boat responded.

Bennett and Blasy told city police later that they were moving toward the piers, using a 7.5-horsepower outboard auxiliary motor. The motor stalled, and the sailboat drifted toward shore, nearly bumping the north edge of the north pier. It then drifted away from the pier, northward, parallel to shore, police said.

Gorton and Pfeiffer ran along the shore and into the shallow water to hold the bow of the boat seaward. They said the boaters then were able to get the motor started again and moved out toward the Coast Guard boat.

"Suddenly, those huge waves began washing over the boat," Gorton said. "The man at the bow (Bennett) was swept overboard, after being bent over by a wave," Gorton said. Then, Blasy who tried to reach Bennett was swept overboard.

This occurred 110 yards offshore, Gorton and Pfeiffer estimated. Gorton swam out and located Bennett, while Pfeiffer swam to Blasy.

The sailboat drifted back toward shore until it was grounded in shallow water. More waves knocked off the motor, which later was reported recovered. The Coast Guard boat was reported unable to move in close enough to fetch the boaters from the water.

Gorton and Pfeiffer said they are good swimmers and hold YMCA swimming and first aid certificates.

Gorton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gorton, and was home for a brief visit from a summer job at Hartwick Pines state forest near Grayling.

Gorton also is doing graduate work toward a master's degree at Central Michigan university, Mt. Pleasant. His major is outdoor recreation and field biology.

Pfeiffer is a CMU graduate currently employed by the Michigan Department of agriculture in Midland county. Gorton and Pfeiffer became friends at CMU and Pfeiffer was visiting Gorton over the weekend.

Gorton said he ran to his truck on Tiscornia beach Saturday night, pulled off pants and shoes and donned a flotation jacket before entering the water. Pfeiffer said he didn't wear a jacket, but had on a heavy sweater that caused "real problems."

Waves were estimated at seven to 10 feet and the wind out of the northwest registered up to 25 miles an hour, it was reported. The water temperature at the beach was recorded at 62 degrees, police said.

The disabled sailboat was pushed to deeper water Sunday and towed to dock by the Coast Guard.

Describing the lake Saturday night, Gorton said:

"The water appeared to be some 12 feet deep, but the waves kept knocking me backward. I got a hold on the man (Bennett), but every time I moved toward shore, I would be pushed outward. There seemed to be a pretty big undertow."

Gorton said when he arrived to where he could walk in the water he "put a cross carry" on the boater and carried him to land.

Gun Mishap Injures Man In Both Legs

A Skokie, Ill., man was hospitalized Sunday after accidentally shooting himself in both legs, Berrien sheriff's deputies reported. Listed in "good" condition today at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, was Miles Ula, 63. Deputies said the shooting took place at a home Ula owns at box 280A, Brownstown road, Sawyer. Ula told deputies he was checking his .38 caliber revolver when it discharged. Deputies said the bullet entered his left leg just above the knee, passed through breaking a bone and lodged in Ula's lower right leg.

Regular BH Commission Meeting Slated Tonight

The Benton Harbor city commission is set to hold its first regular meeting tonight since May 17. The commission held a special meeting last Thursday when four newly-elected members were sworn in. Regular meetings since May 17 were aborted because the commission couldn't muster a quorum of five members as a result of the May 18 recall and absenteeism of commissioners who weren't recalled. The commission now has eight members and one vacancy — the seat of Mrs. Helen Ford who was recalled last Tuesday. Tonight's meeting is scheduled for 7:30 at city hall.

Regular meetings since May 17 were aborted because the commission couldn't muster a quorum of five members as a result of the May 18 recall and absenteeism of commissioners who weren't recalled. The commission now has eight members and one vacancy — the seat of Mrs. Helen Ford who was recalled last Tuesday. Tonight's meeting is scheduled for 7:30 at city hall.

Two Young Girls Reported Bitten By Same Dog

Two girls, visiting their grandparents in Royalton township were bitten several times Sunday allegedly by the same dog, Berrien sheriff's deputies said.

Christina Parkes, 7, and Kelly Parkes, 4, were treated for bites about the face and neck at Memorial Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, and released. They and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Parkes, Roseville, Mich., were visiting the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wagner, 1511 East Marquette Woods road, when the incident occurred about 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Wagner told deputies she saw the dog attack Christina by jumping on the girl from behind. Mrs. Wagner said she chased the dog away and took Christina into the house to check her wounds. Kelly, who remained outside, was then bitten, and the same dog was seen running away.

Deputies said the medium size, mixed breed dog, was identified as belonging to Lowell

Reisic, 4680 Bacon School road, Royalton township. Deputies said the dog was chained by its owner after the incident and investigation was to be turned over to the Berrien dog warden. Deputies reported the owner said the dog had been inoculated against rabies.

Benton Woman Injured

A Benton township woman was hospitalized and a passenger in her car received apparently minor injuries in a two-car collision Sunday morning, state police of the Benton Harbor post said.

Reported in "good" condition today at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, was Helen Maxine Irwin, 51, 2016 Meadowbrook road. The passenger in her car, Darlene Kay Bezley, 29, also of 2016 Meadowbrook, was released after treatment.

Driver of the other car, who was unhurt, was identified as Roy J. Lampkin, 24, Mt. Clemens, Mich. Troopers said the collision occurred about 9 a.m. on M-139 at the exit ramp from I-94, Sodus township. Helen Irwin was cited for failure to yield the right of way, troopers reported.

Want To Slash Your Tax Bill? Take The First Steps Today

This year, early planning is essential for big savings next spring. New tax credits, revised deductions for dependents and education costs are just a few fresh IRS rulings that can slash your 1976 tax bill. But only if you take steps today. In her five-part series starting today on the markets page of this newspaper, financial expert Sylvia Porter leads you through the maze of new provisions. Can you deduct the cost of your child's education if he or she receives a scholarship or student loan? How do rising Social Security benefits affect deductions you get for parental support? You'll find all of this and more in Sylvia Porter's five-part series starting today.

Women Athletes Myths Debunked

NEW YORK (AP) — The range of injuries to women athletes is for the most part no different from that to male athletes, according to surveys conducted by Dr. Christine E. Haycock and Joan Gillette, trainer at the University of Nevada in Las Vegas.

"Those very few injuries that appear to be unique to women are based on anatomical and biological differences," Dr. Haycock told colleagues at the 13th annual Alumni Night meeting of the College of Medicine at Downstate Medical Center (State University of New York) in Brooklyn.

Some of the myths Dr. Haycock, Downstate class of 1962, debunked were that "women are the weaker sex," that women athletes develop "bulging muscles" and that women are apt to be injured for life and run their lives, particularly if they indulge in contact sports.

Chapel Vows

The Carrie Upton chapel of the First Congregational United Church of Christ, St. Joseph, was the setting July 31 for the wedding of Kathryn Ann Kuschel and Dr. Richard A. Greene. The Rev. Robert Jacobson of Leslie, formerly of Benton Harbor, performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Bernhardt M. Kuschel, 172 Clardelle drive, Benton Harbor. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan W. Greene of Barrington, Ill.

Miss Debra Greene, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Mrs. Patrick Murray, sister of the groom, was matron of honor.

Serving as best man was Judge Patrick Murray. Ushers were Dr. John Duda and Thomas Gillard.

A reception was held at Berrien Hills Country club, Benton Harbor.

Following a wedding trip to Mexico, the couple is residing at 3622 Lakeshore drive, St. Joseph.

The bride, a graduate of Michigan State university, is employed as a teacher at Washington elementary school by the St. Joseph public school system. Her husband attended Michigan State university and is a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Dentistry where he received a post-graduate degree. He is an orthodontist practicing in St. Joseph.

Women Athletes Myths Debunked

NEW YORK (AP) — The range of injuries to women athletes is for the most part no different from that to male athletes, according to surveys conducted by Dr. Christine E. Haycock and Joan Gillette, trainer at the University of Nevada in Las Vegas.

"Those very few injuries that appear to be unique to women are based on anatomical and biological differences," Dr. Haycock told colleagues at the 13th annual Alumni Night meeting of the College of Medicine at Downstate Medical Center (State University of New York) in Brooklyn.

Some of the myths Dr. Haycock, Downstate class of 1952, debunked were that "women are the weaker sex," that women athletes develop "bulging muscles" and that women are apt to be injured for life and run their looks, particularly if they indulge in contact sports.

Dryer Removes Wrinkles

Permanent press and man-made fiber knits, folded for storage, in a suitcase or hung in a crowded closet may be a bit crumpled.

In most cases, the problem can be resolved by tumbling the clean, dry items on the last 10 minutes of a permanent press cycle, which provides air only to ease wrinkles.

Some dryers provide an "air" setting, one features a setting, specifically designed to restore fabrics to their present shape.

In each case, tumble a few items at a time and take them out of the dryer as soon as it stops.

Sentiment Seen For Blue Jeans

NEW YORK (AP) — Blue jeans are kept until they literally fall apart, not only for utilitarian purposes and economy reasons but because of sentiment attached to a pair, according to a group of young college students from over the country.

The 14, in New York as guest editors of "Mademoiselle Magazine," expressed their feelings about their favorite pair of jeans at a luncheon in their honor given by the Denim Council.

"My ugly old pair with the snag on the left knee acquired while climbing a barbed wire fence during my first deer hunt is my favorite," Carol Ann Fensholt, University of Wisconsin, said. A jeans wearer all her life, she currently has four pairs.

The special pair of denims Jilaire Henrie of Utah State university identifies with is "the pair I wore all over Europe, now all covered with paint."

"My favorite pair are the ones I bought just before I went to high school," claims Becky Voight of Mills college in Oakland, Calif. "I wore them all the way through and the memories of those denims run deep."

One young woman's cherished jeans are only a memory now. Gina Stone of the Rhode Island School of Design said, "I accidentally left them on a shelf that was above my eye level in a youth hostel in Switzerland."

Jan Arnold of Evergreen State college in Washington has had a "pair of Levis that were given to me from someone else, that are much too short, but I roll them up and make them look very different."

Then there is David Schonauer, University of California, Berkeley. "I come from a farm. All people from farms in California wear blue jeans. They therefore all have special history to me."

Only one of the group said there wasn't any sentiment attached. "Each pair is usually worn until they are in rags," says Mary Margaret Long, University of Michigan.

Litter Pan Confines Odor

A new type of litter pan for cats is made of molded plastic in two parts.

The design confines odors, hides wastes and prevents litter spills. The top portion can be removed for emptying the pan and washing the unit. Generously sized, 16 inches wide, 22 inches long, 18 inches high, it is available in blue, yellow, brown, avocado or white.

Breaks Sex Barrier

NEW YORK (AP) — Catherine Hunter, a Canadian-born marketing consultant, publicist and free-lance writer, is the first woman to be admitted as a member of the Canadian Men's club here.

Miss Hunter, who is a columnist for the London-based Cosmetic World News magazine, formerly lived in Toronto and Kitchener, Ontario.

The purpose of the club is to further amicable relations between Canada and the United States. It was organized originally by Canadian doctors who wanted to keep their ties to Canada and the British Empire. It dates to 1885 but was formally incorporated in 1903.

LAWTON — Mr. and Mrs. Max L. McKee, route 1, Lawton, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house hosted by their children and grandchildren Sunday, Aug. 15.

Friends and relatives are invited to the event, which will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus hall in Paw Paw.

The former Ethel Bartlett and McKee were married Aug. 15, 1926, at the Methodist church in Hartford. The Rev. M. Howard performed the ceremony.

The couple has five children, Mrs. Gerald (Maxine) Burthans of Lawton, Leonard McKee, Keith McKee and John McKee, all of Kalamazoo, and Mrs. William (Carmen) Thornton of Otsego. There are 14 grandchildren.

McKee is a retired musician, farmer and truck driver. His wife is semi-retired and works for two monument companies in St. Joseph.

The couple has lived in Lawton for 35 years.

McKee is active in Masonic

FIRST IMPRESSIONS count. It is said — an important fact to remember when you plan your decorating. When the first thing visitors see when they enter your home? Unless your home doesn't have one, it's the entry hall.

A lot can be done with an entry hall, even a very small one. Because space is limited, you can go dramatic with color and pattern, as in a wallpaper. There won't be too much of it. Or a mirror or a picture, or a small table, can be used, with a handsome mirror over it to enlarge the space visually. The chair or table provides a place to put car keys and other small things you carry into the house or field every day. And making use of an entry to gain extra storage is a real space saver.

If you don't have a separate entry hall, you can often create one. A long chair, bench, or a handsome framed mirror, or looking for a complete suite of furniture, the chances are good you'll find what you want in our display. Come in, browse at your leisure, and we'll show you the way.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Many Cold; Few Frozen

Dear Ann Landers: I liked your reply to "Bedroom Trouble Up North," the man who wanted to know if he should ask his wife to wear sexy undergarments to bed, like a garter belt and black nylon stockings.

If that was MY wife she would ask, "Under my pajamas or over them?" In our 25 years of marriage she hasn't made the slightest effort to make our sex life anything but routine. The woman refuses to read any books on the subject, because she "wouldn't look at that kind of garbage." Counseling is out. She says it's for sex maniacs. Otherwise she's a wonderful person, beautiful and intelligent and I love her very much. What's the answer? — Hungry

Dear H.: What's the question? I've said it before and I'll say it again. Many are cold but few are frozen. It's up to YOU to thaw the doll out. Turn on the heat, Buster.

Upset Wedding

Dear Ann: Recently our daughter was married. We struggled between giving her an exquisite wedding and what we could afford. What we could afford. To keep the guest list as small as possible, only adults were invited. Those who asked if they could bring their children were firmly but politely told, "No." All guests were invited to both the wedding and dinner.

Ten minutes before the ceremony, I saw a guest walk in with her son and his girlfriend whom we had never met. I was boiling, but said nothing. Our carefully arranged seating plan for the dinner had to be changed at the last minute. A very expensive day had become more expensive by $70 because of this uninvited boy (whom I hardly knew) and his girlfriend, a total stranger.

Are my feelings of resentment justified? Is there something I could have or SHOULD have done when the uninvited pair showed up? — Still Seething

Dear S.S.: Nothing. You were trapped, dearie. To have turned away the couple would have been gross.

I can understand your feelings of rage but the whole thing is history now, so forget it. Let's crown the clod "Mrs. Chutzpah of 1976" and call it a day.

Human Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I enjoy

FOR TUESDAY, AUG. 10, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Opportunities you fall heir to today are not likely to be developed to their full potential. However, you'll still come out better than when you started.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your formula for success is to rely solely on your skill and talents. Dame Fortune doesn't want you to lean on her today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This could be a productive day if you don't try to juggle too many balls at one time. Be explicit about your goals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Issues could confuse you today. The solution: Step back a little and get a better perspective. You could be too close to the forest to see the trees.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Situations where you are involved with others today could be rather complicated, especially moneywise. Proceed slowly, one step at a time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your penchant for detail may block out the big picture today. Try to grasp things as a whole, not just one insignificant aspect.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You're not too lucky with long shots today. Bet only on sure things. One of the surest things is to roll up your sleeves and work for what you want.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Don't let your dull mood early in the day lead you to turn down a social invitation. You could meet someone very nice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Hunches should not be permitted to override your logic today. Intuition can't hold a candle to reasoning.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Early in the day you're going to be extravagant and wasteful, which is out of character for you. Keep this in mind if you shop.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll have a chance today to convert a nonprofitable situation into something of value. The stage will be set in a very unusual way.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be persistent and patient in your endeavors today. Don't be dismayed by setbacks. The reversals are only temporary.

your column very much. It has helped me, but not in the same way it has helped most other people. I came from a foreign country and learned how to read English from your articles. Your true-to-life writing is easy to follow. You don't use big words like many other writers.

I hope you will accept a suggestion from me because I see the world through the eyes of a newcomer. I happen to know your column appears in many foreign cities because I have seen it in my travels to Tokyo, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Mexico City and Caracas.

Would you please not publish letters about teenage girls getting with child, married women who have affairs with the boss, husbands who ask their wives to wear black stockings to bed and other things that make Americans look immoral and crazy? Thank you very much. — Your Good Friend

Dear Friend: The letters that appear in my column are human problems. They come from every one of the 50 states, as well as from Canada, Bermuda, Nassau — in fact from all over the world. There is no such thing as "an American problem" or "American

The man I am about to marry had his spleen removed after an automobile accident. He is in perfect health, but he lives in fear that he has no right to be married because of this injury. Can you reassure him? — Miss E. W., Ark.

Dear Miss W.: The anxiety level must be high in any person who has had an injury so severe that it required removal of the spleen.

This anxiety is sometimes referred to as a "post-traumatic" neurosis. It needs gentle and sympathetic understanding to free a person from such fears.

It is difficult for many people to understand that such a vital organ can be removed without disrupting the normal functioning of the body.

The spleen lies in the abdomen, underneath the rib cage on the left side. Its functions are many. It is involved with the manufacture of red and white blood cells. It plays a role in the destruction of red blood cells that have exhausted their function.

Bacteria in the blood stream are captured by the spleen and destroyed. The spleen can, under unusual circumstances, hoard a ( ) large quantity of blood, to be released when there is a special body requirement for it. With these and many more contributions of the spleen to good health, it is understandable why your fiancé's concern should be as great as it is.

However, let me assure you both that provisions have been made in this wonderful body of ours for other organs to take over the functions of the spleen when it is removed.

His health and longevity should in no way be affected by the removal of his spleen.

Is there any relationship between the life span of a person and graying of hair or wrinkling of skin? — Miss G.R., N.C.

Dear Miss R.: I don't believe there is any relationship. All of us in the practice of medicine have seen prematurely gray people in their twenties who live out normal lives.

The wrinkly appearance of the skin may be caused by a variety of reasons, none of which in any way affects the state of health or life span.

Some myths exist about this. One is the misconception that marked wrinkling of the skin also indicates the fact that there are changes in other organs of the body comparable to the wrinkling. This is not so.

Not Quite So 'Peachy'

It's a peachy time of year, though less so than usual in Michigan this year, reports Maryann Beckman, consumer marketing agent of Kalamazoo.

Runners have been abounding that the peach crop has been wiped out and there won't be any peaches. Such is not the story. True, some individual growers and orchards have few, if any, peaches but others have more than at first anticipated. Totally, the 1976 Michigan peach crop is forecast at somewhat over 50 per cent of a total crop, due to early freeze damage and less than ideal growing conditions since the last frost hit in May.

But panic is not necessary, for even though prices may be up slightly over a year ago, there will still be many peaches, as well as many varieties, from which to choose until mid-September. According to Extension fruit agents, it appears that some of the hardest hit varieties were the early varieties, including the favorite Red Haven, which is 40 per cent of the total crop.

Red Havens will soon be over (probably this week), so they should be looked for quickly and carefully. Red Havens have been plagued with split pits this year — a phenomenon that occurs when there are few peaches on a tree. All the growth for a whole tree of peaches goes into the few peaches and they simply grow too rapidly and too much per peach, causing the pit to bulge and finally split. The split pit doesn't affect flavor much but split peaches must be used quickly for they start to rot from the inside and it's difficult to remove the pits.

Red Havens will be replaced with many other mid-August varieties, such as Richhaven, Glohaven, Holehaven, Cresthaven, Kalhavens and others. This will be the best year to try some new varieties, such as the popular Redskin variety that comes in late August and early September to join Elberta. The Redskin is the variety most closely resembling Red Haven.

When peaches look good, they will probably taste good. Quality peaches are firm, mature, well-formed, free from decay and injury and are firm-ripe. Most need further ripening at room temperature (out of direct sunlight) to become their juicy, eating best, but they should be watched carefully for they "go" quickly.

A creamy yellow to gold color under the red "blush" on the skin should be present. Of the skin is a sign of variety rather than quality. Hard peaches with green background color are immature, lack flavor and will never ripen properly and therefore should be avoided.

There is no need to peel peaches these days for most are defuzzed soon after picking, either by soft brushes or by the washing process. Because of the tender skins, peaches can be sliced without peeling. Freezing peaches unpeeled, however, often results in tough skins when thawed.

When freezing peaches it's a good idea to know that one pound of peaches equals three medium size peaches or two cups sliced peaches. Two and one-half pounds of peaches are needed for two pints canned or frozen. A bushel gives 24 to 36 pints canned or frozen, depending on quality, size and whether halved, sliced or closely packed. One medium peach contains only about 46 calories so they're excellent for dieters. All Michigan peaches are excellent for pies, desserts, salads and for eating out of hand.

Oswald: "The 'I' in our code word ARCH, which stands for 'How can I make my contract,' causes declarers to make some mighty fancy plays."

Jim: "Here's one. South ruffs the second heart and sees that he needs a lot of luck in the spade suit if he wants to bring his contract home. He draws trumps and is pleased to see that they broke 2-2. Then he lays down his ace of spades in the hope of dropping an honor. This doesn't happen, but a resourceful South considers that 'I' in ARCH."

Oswald: "There is one extra chance, but he has to risk a two-trick instead of one-trick set. He must lead a diamond and finesse dummy's jack."

Jim: "This works and he is in business. He ruffs another heart, enters dummy with the king of diamonds, ruffs dummy's last heart, cashes his ace of diamonds in order to discard one spade from dummy and leads a low spade."

Oswald: "The defense is helpless. If West rises with the king of spades he drops his partner's queen. If West ducks his partner takes his queen, but has to lead a heart to give South a ruff and discard."

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader wants to know how the Jacobys value a singleton honor. Also how others do.

We simply count one point less so that a singleton ace counts as 2, a singleton king as 2, a singleton queen as 1 and a singleton jack as 0. We will answer this question further in our columns of the week of Aug. 16.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Oswald: "The 'H' in our code word ARCH, which stands for 'How can I make my contract,' causes declarers to make some mighty fancy plays."

Jim: "Here's one. South ruffs the second heart and sees that he needs a lot of luck in the spade suit if he wants to bring his contract home. He draws trumps and is pleased to see that they broke 2-2. Then he lays down his ace of spades in the hope of dropping an honor. This doesn't happen, but a resourceful South considers that 'H' in ARCH."

Oswald: "There is one extra chance, but he has to risk a two-trick instead of one-trick set. He must lead a diamond and finesse dummy's jack."

Jim: "This works and he is in business. He ruffs another heart, enters dummy with the king of diamonds, ruffs dummy's last heart, cashes his ace of diamonds in order to discard one spade from dummy and leads a low spade."

Oswald: "The defense is helpless. If West rises with the king of spades he drops his partner's queen. If West ducks his partner takes his queen, but has to lead a heart to give South a ruff and discard."

ASK THE JACOBY'S

A Wisconsin reader wants to know how the Jacobys value a singleton honor. Also how others do.

We simply count one point less so that a singleton ace counts as 3, a singleton king as 2, a singleton queen as 1 and a singleton jack as 0. We will answer this question further in our columns of the week of Aug. 16.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

PHILADELPHIA EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Catholics Cheer Ford Abortion Stand

AP Religion Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — President Ford's oblique denunciation of abortion apparently pleased most of 100,000 persons gathered for the closing ceremony of a worldwide Roman Catholic assembly.

Most of those assembled in John F. Kennedy Stadium stood to applaud and cheer when Ford told the International Eucharistic Congress on Sunday that he shared the church's concern about "increased irreverence for life."

Ford, an Episcopalian, said, "The supreme value of every person to whom life is given by God is a belief that comes to us from the Holy Scriptures confirmed by all the great leaders of the church."

Some church members had been hoping the President would take a stronger position and perhaps support a constitutional amendment to forbid abortion — a step favored by the Catholic church's U.S. bishops.

Bishop Miguel Rodriguez of Arecibo, Puerto Rico, said the President was merely courting the Catholic vote. "It was opportunistic, the same old thing," he said.

But in general, the reaction was "obviously very positive," said Bishop Walter Curtis of Bridgeport, Conn., a member of the U.S. Bishops' pro-life committee.

Mgr. John Busco of Philadelphia said the President's speech "endeared him to the bishops and people."

Pope Paul VI, speaking via satellite, also took part in the ceremonies Sunday, which included stately pageantry, processions and soaring music.

Pope Paul spoke from Bolzano, Italy, said to be the site of a 13th century miracle that restored a doubting priest's faith in Christ's real presence in the Eucharist, or Holy Communion — the focus of the congress.

The Pope said that sacrament "makes us one family, brothers and sisters, united in solidarity."

The congress, first such gathering in the United States in 50 years, centered on the Eucharist as sustenance for spiritual health and for work toward peace and justice in the world.

The closing of the eight-day spiritual assembly prompted leaders to predict that it would give new fervor to the church in serving God and humanity.

William Cardinal Baum of Washington said it provided a "marvelous deepening" of faith and would have a continued "invigorating effect on the life of the church."

Bishop Francis J. Mugavero of Brooklyn, N.Y., said the assembly would have a "tremendous effect on the life of the church throughout the world, particularly in the United States."

Bishop Michael Harty of Killaloe, Ireland, described it as "a great morale boost."

The assembly took up the theme of hunger — physical as well as spiritual — and served as a spirit-lifting prelude to a U.S. Catholic gathering in Detroit next October on liberty and justice. That National Catholic Conference in Detroit will be the first in modern times with elected representation from all the church's dioceses.

The majestic closing worship of the assembly here, a pontifical mass, was concelebrated by the papal legate, James Cardinal Knox of the Vatican, and 500 cardinals, bishops and priests from many lands.

Some of them were atop an altar four stories high, built on the stadium's north bleachers. Others were grouped on the field below.

Rain that had fallen all morning stopped just as heralds trumpeted their call. "The Church of Jesus Christ is assembled for worship."

Mounted color guards and a parade of national and state heritage groups moved out on the track around the field, as banners waved and bands played.

Three Die In Michigan, Wisconsin Air Crashes

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — Two persons who had left the annual fly-in of the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) here were among three persons killed in air crashes in Wisconsin and Michigan during the weekend.

In one accident, a light plane attempting to land at Wittman Field, scene of the EAA fly-in, crashed early Saturday, killing Julie Herbenar, 16, of Detroit, Mich., a passenger in a Piper Cherokee piloted by Cindy Williams, 19, of El Paso, Tex.

A spokesman at an Oshkosh hospital said Miss Williams and another passenger, Ralph Noack, 19, of Appleton, were treated for minor injuries and released. Both are students at Texas A and M.

David Kerr, assistant manager of Wittman Field, said the plane crashed about 7:30 a.m. when it came down short of the east-west runway marking and stalled. He said the right wing hit the ground, and the plane flipped over and exploded. Authorities said the pilot and Noack escaped while Miss Herbenar, who was in the rear seat, was trapped in the burning wreckage.

The plane had taken off from Appleton en route to Wittman Field, where the EAA fly-in was in its closing weekend.

Later Saturday, a home-built plane which had left the fly-in crashed shortly after taking off from an airport at Menominee, Mich., killing two persons.

The victims were the pilot, Robert Sater, 62, of San Pedro, Calif., and Jerry Zoelner, 38, of Menominee.

Menominee Police Chief Donald Campbell said Sater had just rehearsed at the Menominee County Airport and was taking Zoelner for a brief ride before heading on to Mackinac Island with his wife and another California couple, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weeks, who were accompanying the Saters in an identical plane.

The plane crashed on the northeast side of Menominee near Michigan 35, about two miles from the airport and 30 or 40 feet from a house.

Witnesses said it sounded as though the plane's engine was having trouble before the craft plunged to the ground.

EAA president Paul Poberezny said the fatal Wittman Field crash was not related directly to his association because Miss Williams was an observer, not a participant in the EAA activities.

Alcoholism Expensive, Says Ford President

BRIGITON, Mich. (AP) — Alcoholism is better understood than it used to be, but still costs the American people $2 billion a year, said Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford Motor Co.

In dedication ceremonies Saturday for a new wing at Brighton Hospital, which treats alcoholics, Iacocca credited government, business and labor for changing society's attitude about alcoholism.

But Iacocca contended that "neither government programs nor new buildings can eliminate alcoholism. Our most power resource in the campaign against alcoholism is people who care."

Iacocca said "not enough people realize that the disease imposes a cost on the American people of some $2 billion annually ... This disease is no respecter of title or person. It can disable an executive just as readily, just as totally as a working man or woman."

pharmacist who founded the Revco discount drug chain, has vanished. His wife says the last time she saw him was on their 12th wedding anniversary seven weeks ago.

But police said Mrs. Shulman told them she feels her husband will return when he gets ready, and she has not filed a missing persons report.

Shulman, 50, a onetime Detroiter and former president of Cook United Inc., was reported last seen June 18, on the couple's 12th wedding anniversary. He had told associates he was going downtown on business.

Mrs. Shulman confirmed that her husband withdrew $20,000 from a bank account and left behind a power of attorney so she could run a drugstore they opened last year in suburban Mayfield Heights.

She said he also left a note saying, "You will never understand or forgive me for this" and gave instructions where his car could be found parked at a downtown hotel.

Besides the money, all Shulman took with him were two suits and an expired passport.

"There's really nothing I can do," Mrs. Shulman said. "My thoughts are that after some rest, he will return."

Mayfield Heights Police Sgt.
Lawrence McHugh said that Mrs. Shulman told police "she thought he was under mental strain and left for personal reasons."

McHugh added police do not believe foul play was involved,
affairs in such neat, careful order.

"The man put quite a lot of thought into what he did. No way did he leave his wife hurting," McHugh said.

Mrs. Shulman also is a former Revco executive who worked closely with her husband in his new store "13 to 14 hours a day, seven days a week," a family friend said.

McHugh said police would probably find it "awfully difficult" to locate the missing millionaire.

"He's not a drinker, carouser, or woman-chaser," he said.
"Unless someone recognizes a photograph, it'll really be hell to find him."

Shulman's first wife, Barbara, obtained an uncontested divorce in 1962, after charging that he left home in 1960, saying he was going on a business trip.

He called the next day to tell her he wanted a divorce, she said.
Shulman started Revco in 1956 with four Detroit stores, later expanding the firm to 117 outlets in four states. He lived in La Jolla, Calif., for several years after his retirement, later moving to Cleveland to open the new store.

New Home Mortgage Plan

Buyer May Pay More

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Traditional home mortgages with fixed monthly payments are giving way in scattered areas of the country to experimental plans designed to make it easier for would-be buyers to get loans. And the new types of mortgages usually wind up costing consumers more money.

The Federal Home Loan Bank
Board reported that at the end of the first quarter of this year there was $466 billion in outstanding mortgage debt on one-to-four-family, nonfarm residential properties. About half the debt was owed to savings and loan associations.

Most of the mortgages were written in traditional form. The average annual interest rate, as of June, was just under 9 per cent.

Richard Marcis of the board's Office of Economic Research said the use of nontraditional mortgage forms, including variable rate loans where the amount of interest is allowed to fluctuate, is still "relatively limited."

At the same time, he said, the variable rate loan has been adopted by 10 state-chartered savings and loan associations in California. These institutions have loaned $2 billion on variable rate mortgages in 18 months, he said. (Note: federally chartered savings and loan associations are prohibited from offering variable rate mortgages; the situation at state-chartered institutions differs from state to state.)

Another alternative, called the graduated payment mortgage, has been proposed by Sen.
Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass.
Under this plan, the rate of interest would remain constant, but the size of the monthly payment would fluctuate. It would be relatively low at the beginning — making things easier for young people just starting out — and would increase over the years as inflation and experience push up earning power.

David Strachan of the American Bankers Association said the interest rate on the traditional mortgage is based the cost of money to the bank now and over the life of the loan.
With a variable rate mortgage, Strachan said, "the bank can operate a lot closer to the actual cost of money." Allowing the interest rate to fluctuate also makes mortgages competitive with other types of loans which usually have higher interest rates.

Oliver H. Jones, executive vice president of the Mortgage Bankers of America, said, "The hard fact is that thrift institutions must be provided with a method of balancing their money costs with their money income...."

To attract the deposits which are a major source of mortgage money, a thrift institution such as a savings and loan association must pay an interest rate that is competitive with other investments. Bankers contend this is more difficult when the institution is locked into a long-term loan returning a fixed amount of money.

A variable rate mortgage,
Jones said, gives the borrower
"a slightly lower initial interest rate, but one that would vary, up or down, with the future cost of money to the lender."

Up or down? Theoretically, of course, the interest on a variable rate mortgage could decrease. Practically, however, most bankers admit it will probably go up. "You would probably have to pay more every six months," Strachan said. Regulations covering variable rate mortgages do include ceilings, however, limiting the amount that the interest rate can increase and the frequency with which it can rise. Strachan said the maximum increase is usually about 2 per cent.

How does that 2 per cent
translate into dollars and cents?
Strachan said the average mortgage is for about $30,000 and is issued for 25 years, although the mortgage is usually renegotiated after 10 or 12 years as families relocate.

Suppose you get a $30,000 mortgage for 25 years at 8.75 per cent. Your monthly payments would be $248.90. If you paid out the entire mortgage and did not sell your house, the principal and the interest would cost you just over $74,000.

If the interest rate increased to 9 per cent, the monthly payment would be $252. If it went up a maximum 2 per cent (assuming state usury laws allowed the mortgage rate to rise over 10 per cent) the monthly payment would be $256.20.

Police Crack Detroit Area Rape Ring

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — State Police believe they have cracked a suburban Detroit rape ring, whose members drive around in cars, abduct women and repeatedly molest them before dumping the victims.

Sgt. John Flis of the Romeo State Police post said Saturday the rapists include seven or eight white men, based in Mount Clemens, who drive to Detroit and grab women, most of whom are black.

Flis said six men have been arrested so far, helping to break up the ring, which authorities said has been operating for several months. All six are in their 20s. Three of them are from Washington, Mich., two are from Sterling Heights and a fourth is from Utica.

Flis said police in the suburban communities of Utica, Shelby Township and Sterling Heights have reported rapes committed under the same circumstances. He also has received calls from other Wayne and Oakland County communities where similar crimes have occurred in the past few months.

Four of the men in custody have been charged in Sterling Heights with the rape of a 23-year-old Ecorse woman who was abducted from a Detroit bus stop July 30.

The other two men police believe are part of the ring were arrested Aug. 3 on assault and battery charges in Detroit after a police surveillance team caught them beating up a woman.

Police said the rapists verbally abused the women as well as physically assaulting them, telling some of them they were being raped to pay for the rapes of white women by black men.

Some of the women who were forcibly assaulted were prostitutes, said Flis.

Flis said other women were told that their assailants made their livings by providing women for other men to rape.

Flis and Det. Tommy Burtwell of the Sterling Heights police department say they believe the arrests made so far will solve at least three more rapes being investigated in the Sterling Heights area.

One of the four under arrest, a 23-year-old man from Washington, was charged with rape and kidnapping after being identified by a Highland Park woman who was seized at gunpoint as she stood by her disabled car July 28 on Woodward Avenue, about a half mile from her home.

Hope Fades For Massive Detroit Subway System

WASHINGTON (AP) — It doesn't appear likely Mayor Coleman Young will get the subway system he wants for Detroit, according to political observers.

Government officials say Detroit probably won't get the federal funds it needs to go ahead and start construction on a massive subway system.

Robert Patrickelli, director of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, said most of $1.8 billion remaining for transit development projects probably won't be allocated for new lines.

"As things stand now, most of that money will have to go toward preventing further deterioration of older existing systems like those in New York, Philadelphia and Boston," he said.

"We probably will fund three people-mover systems in various cities, but there are about 36 requests pending."

Hurricane May Spare Carolina Coast

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — Hurricane Belle, packed with 110 mile-per-hour winds, moved northward today on a course that would spare North Carolina's vulnerable Outer Banks from the storm's strongest winds. At midmorning, the small-but-potent storm was moving at 20 miles per hour, about 60 miles south-southeast of here, aimed at a brush with the Outer Banks and the Virginia Capes and toward a head-on collision with Long Island, N.Y., and southern New England. "If it keeps on coming straight north without any deviation it will pass somewhere 25 miles to 30 miles east of Hatteras," said John Hope of the National Hurricane Center in Miami. A close brush with the Outer Banks could produce hurricane-force winds of 74 miles per hour or more and tides as much as five feet above normal, Hope said.

"We don't want to take them (Hatteras) off the hook at all,"

Hope said. "The slightest deviation to the west would produce winds of over 100 miles per hour and much higher tides." Many of the 10,000 tourists estimated to have been on the narrow string of islands were evacuated without incident before daylight.

Others visitors, along with many of the 2,500 to 3,000 permanent island residents, stood their ground as gale-force winds and torrential rains rained in ahead of Belle.

Gale-force winds — 49 to 54 miles per hour — extended 50 miles from the storm's center.

By 9:30 a.m., high tides were spilling water across stretches of road along the Outer Banks. At Kill Devil Hills, north of Nags Head, 200 evacuees were jammed into a fire station. Many had to stand as children spread out on the floor with blankets. Others stretched out on fire engines.

Lynn Fox, 27, a registered nurse, said the majority were tourists. "Some of the people are afraid," she said. "They've never seen a storm like this and they don't know what to expect." Most of the school buildings on the islands were either full or near capacity with persons seeking shelter.

The 75-mile strand of islands known as the Outer Banks are a thread-like line of sand dunes, sea oaks and isolated villages, and include the Cape Hatteras National Seashore. The banks have been battered and shaped by fierce storms throughout the past. The islands are dotted with federal campgrounds and modest-sized motels. Officials closed the campgrounds Sunday and ran special ferries to evacuate those willing to leave — mostly tourists. Several thousand permanent residents, believing they had faced worse storms before, stayed behind to protect property and watch the impending show.

Public Pensions Piling Up Fast

was her, the longer the pension bill remains unpaid, the larger it grows. The public pension debt grows with every salary increase, every rise in inflation, every drop in the stock and bond markets, with changes in life expectancy rates and retirement patterns. Taxes pay for some of those increases, pension plans for others and public employees themselves pay a portion.

A look at Washington, D.C.'s pension systems reveals some of the problems in acute form. The cost of paying pensions for 10,000 policemen, firemen, teachers and judges, both active and retired, was $60.7 million in fiscal 1976, about $80 per resident.

It is predicted that by 1981, if nothing is done, the annual cost of financing the plans will be $80.3 million, $103 in taxes per resident.

The total Washington, D.C. pension tab, the unfunded debt, is $1.8 billion, or $2,400 per resident.

The U.S. military retirement pension system cost American taxpayers $1.8 billion in 1967. In 10 years, that cost has risen nearly fivefold to $8.4 billion, the figure projected by the Department of Defense for fiscal 1977. That's $40 per American this coming year in federal taxes.

If present trends continue, the cost of U.S. military retirement paid by taxpayers will be $11.3 billion in 1980 and $20.9 billion by 1990, the Defense Department estimates.

While no public pension plan has gone bankrupt in modern times, the fiscal difficulties of New York City and a congressional probe of the problem have put the spotlight on governmental pension debts. A recent study by the University of Michigan called these debts "a fiscal time bomb ticking away at the fiscal integrity of many of our cities."

Among the issues being raised by private and government researchers are:

—What caused city, state and federal pension costs to rise so rapidly in the last 5 or 10 years?

—Are public employees "ripping off" the taxpayer for overly generous benefits?

—Can financially strapped cities and states pay the pension bill as costs promise to climb ever higher?

—What can pension administrators, local politicians or federal regulators do to ensure that tomorrow's taxpayers aren't hit with a crushing tax burden that could squeeze out vital public services?

A congressional task force has for the past year and a half been trying to determine the depth of the public pension problems.

Its interim report, published March 31, says there were about 6,141 state, local and federal plans covering 15.3 million civilian and military employees as of 1975.

Of that total 6,078 plans were maintained by state and local governments covering 10.3 million full and part-time workers. Public pension plans had a combined $106.5 million in assets at the end of 1975, invested mainly in corporate stocks and bonds, according to Securities and Exchange Commission statistics.

The Commerce Department said in April that during 1975, the plans paid out an estimated $6.6 billion in benefits to about 1.7 million retirees, an average of $3,880 per retiree.

The focus of most studies under way is not the risk of bankruptcy, as was the case in private plans which have been known to fail. Rather, the emphasis is on rising benefit levels, which Robert Tilove, a pension expert for the firm of Martin E. Segal Co. in New York estimates are now roughly double those paid the average privately employed worker.

In some places, the basic pension plus Social Security benefits add up to more than what the worker got while working. According to figures compiled by pension expert Prof. Bernard Jump of Syracuse University, general city employees in Detroit can receive retirement benefits equal to 106 per cent of their final year's disposable income, assuming 30 years' service and retirement at age 62.

Denver general employees can get 102 per cent at age 65, and in both New York City and Philadelphia a 62-year-old retiree could get 118 per cent.

Political expediency has led to some of the current problems. Rapidly growing municipal union strength and militancy in the '60s and '70s added to the trouble.

After publicity about crime in the nation's capital, Presidents Johnson and Nixon authorized the hiring of 2,000 additional District police, bringing the present total to 5,000.

A Washington policeman with 20 years' experience can retire at 50 per cent pay. He may well be young enough to get another job and live to collect a second pension, plus Social Security.

The Washington pension deal was not the work of city government, but of the U.S. Congress which until recently ran all the municipal affairs of the city.

In many cities, however, particularly New York, mayors have agreed to lavish pension promises in order to keep labor peace. The city officials can argue they have held the line on salaries, while leaving the financing of high benefits for future retirees to future mayors.

The so-called actuarial assumptions on which estimates of a pension plan's total cost are based have been thrown off by economic and social changes of the past decade. The assumptions include what a worker's final salary will be, how long he will live after retirement, when he retires, what the inflation rate will be, what the fund's investments will earn in the stock and bond markets. Many city and state plans have not adjusted their assumptions to the fact that workers live longer after retirement. Worse, there has been a sharp trend toward allowing early retirement at full pension, something quite rare for a private worker.

It is estimated that permitting a worker to retire at 62 instead of 65 raises the cost of his pension by one-third. Retirement at age 60 costs the pension plan 50 per cent more. At age 55 the cost doubles; at age 50 the cost to the plan rises 200 per cent.

The rise of inflation in the 1960s and 1970s has prompted nearly all federal pension plans and many state and local plans to grant postretirement cost-of-living adjustments.

In a study of nine major cities, Jump found that only two — Washington, D.C. and Los Angeles — grant a liberal enough cost-of-living adjustment to keep pace with inflation. Most cities and states put a cap on how large the annual adjustment can be. Otherwise, liberal New York City has banned such adjustments altogether for employees hired after 1968 and another generous pension city, Philadelphia, has no adjustment whatever.

By far the best cost-of-living scheme is offered to federal retirees. Ed Husted, chief actuary of the U.S. Civil Service Retirement Plan, says that since Dec. 1965 when retirement pay was first allowed to keep pace with the Consumer Price Index, postretirement allowances have added an extra $31.4 billion to the pension fund's unfunded debt. That means each American owes federal servants $157 just from those allowances.

By 9:30 a.m., high tides were spilling water across stretches of road along the Outer Banks. At Kill Devil Hills, north of Nags Head, 200 evacuees were jammed into a fire station. Many had to stand as children spread out on the floor with blankets. Others stretched out on fire engines.

Lynn Fox, 27, a registered nurse, said the majority were tourists. "Some of the people are afraid," she said. "They've never seen a storm like this and they don't know what to expect." Most of the school buildings on the islands were either full or near capacity with persons seeking shelter.

The 75-mile strand of islands known as the Outer Banks are a thread-like line of sand dunes, sea oats and isolated villages, and include the Cape Hatteras National Seashore. The banks have been battered and shaped by fierce storms throughout the past. The islands are dotted with federal campgrounds and modest-sized motels. Officials closed the campgrounds Sunday and ran special ferries to evacuate those willing to leave — mostly tourists. Several thousand permanent residents, believing they had faced worse storms before, stayed behind to protect property and watch the impending show.

Public Pensions Piling Up Fast

washer, the longer the pension bill remains unpaid, the larger it grows. The public pension debt grows with every salary increase, every rise in inflation, every drop in the stock and bond markets, with changes in life expectancy rates and retirement patterns. Taxes pay for some of those increases, pension plans for others and public employees themselves pay a portion.

A look at Washington, D.C.'s pension systems reveals some of the problems in acute form. The cost of paying pensions for 19,000 policemen, firemen, teachers and judges, both active and retired, was $69.7 million in fiscal 1976, about $90 per resident.

It is predicted that by 1981, if nothing is done, the annual cost of financing the plans will be $88.3 million, $103 in taxes per resident.

The total Washington, D.C. pension tab, the unfunded debt, is $1.8 billion, or $2,400 per resident.

The U.S. military retirement pension system cost American taxpayers $1.8 billion in 1967. In 10 years, that cost has risen nearly fivefold to $8.4 billion, the figure projected by the Department of Defense for fiscal 1977. That's $40 per American this coming year in federal taxes.

If present trends continue, the cost of U.S. military retirement paid by taxpayers will be $11.3 billion in 1980 and $20.9 billion by 1990, the Defense Department estimates.

While no public pension plan has gone bankrupt in modern times, the fiscal difficulties of New York City and a congressional probe of the problem have put the spotlight on governmental pension debts. A recent study by the University of Michigan called these debts "a fiscal time bomb ticking away at the fiscal integrity of many of our cities."

Among the issues being raised by private and government researchers are:

—What caused city, state and federal pension costs to rise so rapidly in the last 5 or 10 years?

—Are public employees "ripping off" the taxpayer for overly generous benefits?

—Can financially strapped cities and states pay the pension bill as costs promise to climb ever higher?

—What can pension administrators, local politicians or federal regulators do to ensure that tomorrow's taxpayers aren't hit with a crushing tax burden that could squeeze out vital public services?

A congressional task force has for the past year and a half been trying to determine the depth of the public pension problems.

Its interim report, published March 31, says there were about 6,141 state, local and federal plans covering 15.3 million civilian and military employees as of 1975.

Of that total 6,076 plans were maintained by state and local governments covering 10.3 million full and part-time workers. Public pension plans had a combined $106.5 million in assets at the end of 1975, invested mainly in corporate stocks and bonds, according to Securities and Exchange Commission statistics.

The Commerce Department said in April that during 1975, the plans paid out an estimated $6.6 billion in benefits to about 1.7 million retirees, an average of $3,880 per retiree.

The focus of most studies under way is not the risk of bankruptcy, as was the case in private plans which have been known to fail. Rather, the emphasis is on rising benefit levels, which Robert Tilove, a pension expert for the firm of Martin E. Segal Co. in New York estimates are now roughly double those paid the average privately employed worker.

In some places, the basic pension plus Social Security benefits add up to more than what the worker got while working. According to figures compiled by pension expert Prof. Bernard Jump of Syracuse University, general city employees in Detroit can receive retirement benefits equal to 106 per cent of their final year's disposable income, assuming 30 years' service and retirement at age 62.

Denver general employees can get 102 per cent at age 65, and in both New York City and Philadelphia a 62-year-old retiree could get 118 per cent.

Political expediency has led to some of the current problems. Rapidly growing municipal union strength and militancy in the '60s and '70s added to the trouble.

After publicity about crime in the nation's capital, Presidents Johnson and Nixon authorized the hiring of 2,000 additional District police, bringing the present total to 5,906.

A Washington policeman with 20 years' experience can retire at 50 per cent pay. He may well be young enough to get another job and live to collect a second pension, plus Social Security.

The Washington pension deal was not the work of city government, but of the U.S. Congress which until recently ran all the municipal affairs of the city.

In many cities, however, particularly New York, mayors have agreed to lavish pension promises in order to keep labor peace. The city officials can argue they have held the line on salaries, while leaving the financing of high benefits for future retirees to future mayors.

The so-called actuarial assumptions on which estimates of a pension plan's total cost are based have been thrown off by economic and social changes of the past decade. The assumptions include what a worker's final salary will be, how long he will live after retirement, when he retires, what the inflation rate will be, what the fund's investments will earn in the stock and bond markets. Many city and state plans have not adjusted their assumptions to the fact that workers live longer after retirement. Worse, there has been a sharp trend toward allowing early retirement at full pension, something quite rare for a private worker.

It is estimated that permitting a worker to retire at 62 instead of 65 raises the cost of his pension by one-third. Retirement at age 60 costs the pension plan 50 per cent more. At age 55 the cost doubles; at age 50 the cost to the plan rises 250 per cent.

The rise of inflation in the 1960s and 1970s has prompted nearly all federal pension plans and many state and local plans to grant postretirement cost-of-living adjustments.

In a study of nine major cities, Jump found that only two — Washington, D.C. and Los Angeles — grant a liberal enough cost-of-living adjustment to keep pace with inflation. Most cities and states put a cap on how large the annual adjustment can be. Otherwise, liberal New York City has banned such adjustments altogether for employees hired after 1968 and another generous pension city, Philadelphia, has no adjustment whatever.

By far the best cost-of-living scheme is offered to federal retirees. Ed Husted, chief actuary of the U.S. Civil Service Retirement Plan, says that since Dec. 1965 when retirement pay was first allowed to keep pace with the Consumer Price Index, postretirement allowances have added an extra $31.4 billion to the pension fund's unfunded debt. That means each American owes federal servants $157 just from those allowances.

Amusement Park Stirs Land Boom

CLIMAX, Mich. (AP) — Plans to build a $30 million amusement park near Battle Creek already are stirring land speculation in portions of Calhoun and Kalamazoo counties.

"Climax is going to be in for quite a surprise," says Robert C. Hill, manager of the First National Bank ranch in Climax. Cedar Point, Inc., said last week it plans to build a large amusement park on 700 acres of land with the opening planned for 1978.

"I don't think the people here have realized yet what the total effect on the community will be," the banker said.

Hill reported an abandoned gasoline station along Interstate 94 sat empty for two years but a half-dozen purchase offers for the property were received the same day Cedar Point announced its plans.

Climax is just three miles from the park site and Hill predicted nearby land will be "snapped up."

Carter Can't Account For Some Funds

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

PLAINS, Ga. (A) — Jimmy Carter says his campaign cannot provide documentation to say how it has spent about $150,000. He made the statement Sunday after the Los Angeles Times published a story in which Carter's national administrator, Paul Hemmann, was quoted as saying the Carter campaign may have to return $150,000 of the $3 million in federal matching funds it has received because of financial reporting irregularities.

Carter also said he was not personally aware of an incident cited by the Times, in which an Oakland, Calif., minister claimed the Carter campaign had given a total of $5,000 to four black ministers in the Oakland-San Francisco Bay area for their support of Carter.

But Carter said he believes some persons who had received campaign funds for legitimate purposes had occasionally pocketed the money.

"I don't have any doubts that somewhere in a massive campaign that's nationwide in scope, there are those who keep part of the money, both black and white people," Carter said. "That's something that's almost impossible to prevent."

"Obviously, it hurts me politically. We've tried to minimize this kind of campaign abuse in every way possible. All our leaders, both black and white, are thoroughly indoctrinated on the question of avoiding any source of abuse."

Carter said he has asked campaign treasurer Robert Lipschutz to investigate the allegations, and he promised he would release Lipschutz's findings to the press.

Today, Carter embarks on a week of speech-making, with a major consumer address in Washington to a group organized by Ralph Nader. After his speech to the Public Citizens Forum, the Democratic presidential candidate was scheduled to spend most of the afternoon meeting with congressional leaders and freshmen congressmen. He returns to Plains tonight.

Nader traveled to Plains Saturday for a discussion of consumer issues with Carter. He said the consumer-related positions of the nominee were the best of any presidential candidate in recent decades. Carter said today's speech would largely consist of subjects which he and Nader discussed.

Friends may call at the Dey-Florin funeral home, St. Joseph. Memorials may be made to the church.

Libertowski Now Faces Prosecution In Berrien

Gerald Libertowski will be prosecuted on a murder charge in Michigan, despite the fact that he was found innocent by an Indiana jury Friday in a similar case, Berrien Prosecutor John Smietanka said this morning.

Despite the Indiana verdict in a case involving a missing woman, Smietanka said "We feel that we have a stronger case, and that's about all I'm going to say."

On Friday a St. Joseph County Superior Court jury, following a week-long trial, found Libertowski innocent of first-degree murder in connection with the November, 1973, disappearance of Janice Langs, 21, reportedly a former girlfriend of Libertowski.

Libertowski is charged in Berrien county with open murder in connection with the disappearance of Mrs. Janis Sanders, of Niles, Mrs. Sanders, who was last seen in July of 1975, was also described as a former girlfriend of the defendant.

Smietanka said that neither of the alleged murder victims have been found.

Libertowski, 34, of South Bend, is being held without bond in the St. Joseph county jail on the Berrien charge. If he waives his right to an extradition hearing, he could be arraigned as soon as today, said Smietanka. If the man demands a hearing, it could take as long as four months to get him into Berrien courts, Smietanka explained.

ALMOST HALF STATE'S WEEKEND ROAD TOLL

Five Killed In Area Traffic Accidents

BY STEVE McQUOWN
Assistant State Editor

Five people were killed in southwest Michigan traffic accidents over the weekend, accounting for nearly half of the 11 people killed in weekend road mishaps throughout the state. The victims were:

Lisa Duran, 2, Dowagiac, killed when she darted in front of a dump truck near here home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carpenter, 2301 Indian Lake road Niles, fatally injured in a two-car crash near Berrien Springs Saturday night.

Sherry L. Strange, 16, Chesterton, Ind., who died Saturday night in a one-car crash near Galien.

Thomas R. Wiltedink, Wyoming, Mich., who died in a one-car crash north of Plainwell early Sunday morning.

The deaths of the Carpenters and the Strange girl, separate accidents, brought Berrien county's traffic toll this year to 23, while the Duran girl's death boosted the Cass county toll to 11 and the Wiltedink death brought the Allegan road toll this year to 10.

Dowagiac city police said Lisa

Duran was killed about 3:20 p.m., Saturday, when she darted in front of an oncoming dump truck on East Prairie Road street at the Perry street intersection, about a block from the hospital in Niles about 12:47 a.m., Sunday, and Mrs. Carpenter was pronounced dead on arrival at Berrien General hospital at Berrien Center about 12:30 a.m., Sunday, according to state police from the Niles post.

Passengers in the Carpenter car, the victims' son James, 22, and his wife Sally, 22, of 804 McOmber, Dowagiac, were injured in the crash, as was Mrs. Zirk.

James Carpenter was reported in guarded condition this morning at St. Joseph's hospital in South Bend, Ind., and his wife was listed in serious condition at Memorial hospital in St. Joseph.

Mrs. Zirk was listed in good condition at Memorial hospital.

Police said they believe the elder Mr. Carpenter was driving his auto eastbound on Pokagon road when the collision occurred with the Zirk car, northbound on M-140, in the intersection.

The Carpenter car went down a 7 1/2-foot embankment, trapping the passengers inside, police said.

Officers said the Carpenter vehicle had the right-of-way at the intersection. The accident remains under investigation, police said.

Sherry L. Strange, 16, of Chesterton, Ind., was fatally injured when the car in which she was a passenger went out of control on a curve in Galien township and crashed into trees. The accident occurred about 9:45 p.m., Saturday, on Hudson Lake road, about two tenths of a mile north of the state line.

The victim and three other passengers were trapped in the car for about an hour, according to state police from the New Buffalo post.

Police said the driver of the car was Jeffrey Gebert, 18, Westville, Ind., was listed in good condition today at Pawating hospital in Niles.

Other passengers were Daniel Luke, 18, Chesterton, listed in serious condition at St. Joseph's hospital in South Bend, and

Task Force Established To Battle Alcohol Abuse

BY MARK BODIN
Staff Writer

Jack DeLong, alcohol program supervisor for the Berrien county health department, has announced the formation of a Twin City area task force to study implementation of Michigan's Substance Abuse Assistance Act's requirements.

"The task force believes the best method of handling this law is to develop a non-hospital but medically staffed facility in the community," DeLong commented.

DeLong said the new act requires persons observed by law enforcement officers or the public as intoxicated from alcoholic beverages to be taken in for treatment instead of being arrested for drunkenness.

"Public intoxication will also no longer be considered a criminal offense when the law takes effect Oct. 1, 1977, DeLong added.

DeLong said the law's major requirement is the establishment of a community operated facility to examine and care for intoxicated persons until they become sober. A medically supervised treatment program aimed at curing those who are seriously affected by alcoholism must also be provided, he noted. There are 26 members on the task force, DeLong said. They are also studying several procedures which may be used to follow the Substance Abuse Assistance Act's requirements.

"The task force believes the best method of handling this law is to develop a non-hospital but medically staffed facility in the community," DeLong commented.

NILES COUPLE KILLED: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carpenter of 2301 Indian Lake road, Niles, were among five people killed in southwest Michigan traffic accidents over weekend, according to police. The Carpenters were fatally injured in two-car crash southeast of Berrien Springs Saturday night.

Phyllis Zasso, 17, Valparaiso, listed in good condition at Pawating.

The accident remains under investigation, police said.

Thomas R. Wiltedink, 19, Wyoming, Mich., was the driver of a car that Allegan sheriff's deputies said apparently missed a curve on 10th street north of Plainwell about 3:40 a.m., Sunday. The car rolled over several times and both the victim, and his passenger, Richard M. Brown, 24, Grand Rapids, were thrown some 140 feet, according to deputies.

Brown suffered only minor injuries, deputies said while Wiltedink was pronounced dead on arrival at Pipp Community hospital in Plainwell.

Restless in Sleep-- Tired Tomorrow!

There seems to be a growing group of people who complain they are "always tired." We looked to St. Joseph's Dr. Ackerman for an answer to this beguiling problem.

"Before I answer," says Dr. Ackerman, "let me say that if you have the impression that the 'always tired' feeling is always the result of a deficiency of some important substance in the blood, that impression may well be wrong."

"I don't care what that commercial says," Dr. Ackerman comically states. "There are other possible causes and it is two of them that I would ask you to give some thought."

Consider "lazy blood vessels," he asks.

"Should I drop a cork in a narrow stream where there is a fast current, the cork will float rapidly," Dr. Ackerman illustrates.

"Should that stream bed suddenly widen to a pond, the cork will float lazily along."

"Now if that cork were a blood corpuscle in the blood stream, carrying oxygen to some needy cell or if it were a particle of nutrition for that cell, you can imagine what would happen. The cell would tire before it received its nutrition," Dr. Ackerman says.

"Without getting so technical that I must give a complete description of the circulatory system and the function of the heart," says Dr. Ackerman, "let me simply ask you to observe that when the muscles in the walls of the blood vessels are generally too relaxed, the circulation of nutrition bearing blood to the cells is slowed too much. Some call it sluggish circulation. I used the term 'lazy blood vessels'."

Dr. Ackerman then points to a statement by Loyola University's Physiology specialist, Dr. William Zoelhof:

"In order that the tissues be adequately supplied with nourishment and at the least expenditure of energy, a close correlation must exist between the nervous mechanism governing the heart and that controlling the size of the blood vessels."

Certainly then an upset in that nerve mechanism of tissue nutrition is an important factor in that 'always tired' feeling, Dr. Ackerman notes.

"I mentioned two reasons for that 'always tired' feeling," says Dr. Ackerman. "The second is Unrelaxed sleep."

He points out that to feel fully refreshed and equal to the next day's tasks, one must be fully relaxed in sleep.

"I could go on at some length," says Dr. Ackerman, "but suffice it to say, the person who's always tired would probably get pretty bored over medical fact and supposition."

He's tired, he "runs out of gas" easily, he plots in a sofa when he gets home and can hardly force himself to pay attention to his family and job," Dr. Ackerman states.

"So I ask that he . . . or she . . . remember just one thing. Being 'too pooped to pop' is not normal. Chances are that it's a condition that won't clear itself up, nor will energy pills and additives clear up the cause of the problem."

"I've had many patients drag themselves into my care," says Dr. Ackerman. "Frankly, it peps me up to see them swing back into stride."

Dr. Ackerman maintains offices at 3918 Red Arrow Hwy., St. Joseph (Telephone 429-1700.)

ALMOST HALF STATE'S WEEKEND ROAD TOLL

Five Killed In Area Traffic Accidents

Assistant State Editor

Five people were killed in southwest Michigan traffic accidents over the weekend, accounting for nearly half of the 11 people killed in weekend road mishaps throughout the state. The victims were:

Lisa Duran, 2, Dowagiac, killed when she darted in front of a dump truck near her home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carpenter, 2301 Indian Lake road Niles, fatally injured in a two-car crash near Berrien Springs Saturday night.

Sherry L. Strange, 16, Chesterton, Ind., who died Saturday night in a one-car crash near Galien.

Thomas R. Wilterdink, Wyoming, Mich., who died in a one-car crash north of Plainwell early Sunday morning. The deaths of the Carpenters and the Strange girl, separate accidents, brought Berrien county's traffic toll this year to 23, while the Duran girl's death boosted the Cass county toll to 11 and the Wilterdink death brought the Allegan road toll this year to 10. Dowagiac city police said Lisa

Duran was killed about 3:20 p.m., Saturday, when she darted in front of an oncoming dump truck on East Prairie Road street at the Percy street intersection, about a block from the hospital in Niles about 12:47 a.m., Sunday, and Mrs. Carpenter was pronounced dead on arrival at Berrien General hospital at Berrien Center about 12:30 a.m., Sunday, according to state police from the Niles post.

Passengers in the Carpenter car, the victims' son James, 22, and his wife Sally, 22, of 606 McOmber, Dowagiac, were injured in the crash, as was Mrs. Zirk.

James Carpenter was reported in guarded condition this morning at St. Joseph's hospital in South Bend, Ind., and his wife was listed in serious condition at Memorial hospital in St. Joseph.

Mrs. Zirk was listed in good condition at Memorial hospital.

Police said they believe the elder Mr. Carpenter was driving his auto eastbound on Pokagon road when the collision occurred with the Zirk car, northbound on M-140, in the intersection.

The Carpenter car went down a 7 1/2-foot embankment, trapping the passengers inside, police said.

Officers said the Carpenter vehicle had the right-of-way at the intersection. The accident remains under investigation, police said.

Sherry L. Strange, 16, of Chesterton, Ind., was fatally injured when the car in which she was a passenger went out of control on a curve in Galien township and crashed into trees. The accident occurred about 9:45 p.m., Saturday, on Hudson Lake road, about two tenths of a mile north of the state line.

The victim and three other passengers were trapped in the car for about an hour, according to state police from the New Buffalo post.

Police said the driver of the car was Jeffrey Gebert, 18, Westville, Ind., was listed in good condition today at Pawating hospital in Niles.

Other passengers were Daniel Luke, 18, Chesterton, listed in serious condition at St. Joseph's hospital in South Bend, and ticketed. Police said the youngster was pronounced dead at the scene by a Cass county deputy medical examiner, Dr. Charles Koudele, Dowagiac.

The traffic death was the first in the city since Sept. 14, 1974.

Clarence Carpenter, 66, and his wife Elsie, 58, were fatally injured when their car collided with another car about 11:35 p.m., Saturday, at the intersection of M-140 and Pokagon road in Berrien county's Berrien township.

Driver of the second auto was Mrs. Carl E. (Constance) Zirk, 34, route 1, box 370, Tannery drive, Coloma. She was alone in her car, police said.

Carpenter was pronounced dead on arrival at Pawating

Task Force Established To Battle Alcohol Abuse

BY MARK RODIN
Staff Writer

Jack DeLong, alcohol program supervisor for the Berrien county health department, has announced the formation of a Twin City area task force to study implementation of Michigan's Substance Abuse Assistance Act.

DeLong said the new act requires persons observed by law enforcement officers or the public as intoxicated from alcoholic beverages to be taken in for treatment instead of being arrested for drunkenness.

Public intoxication will also no longer be considered a criminal offense when the law takes effect Oct. 1, 1977, DeLong added.

DeLong said the law's major requirement is the establishment of a community operated facility to examine and care for intoxicated persons until they become sober. A medically supervised treatment program aimed at curing those who are seriously affected by alcoholism must also be provided, he noted.

There are 26 members on the task force, DeLong said. They are also studying several procedures which may be used to follow the Substance Abuse Assistance Act's requirements.

"The task force believes the best method of handling this law is to develop a non-hospital but medically staffed facility in the community," DeLong commented.

There will be problems at first in establishing a facility, but in a short time I believe the community will be pleased with the results in money and time saved by local government."

The law does not remove criminal penalties for drunken driving. People stopped for drunken driving will still face court action.

DeLong also noted the law is intended to relieve both police and the courts of the great amount of time spent on alcohol related offenses.

DeLong said he is acting chairman of the task force.

Taylor, both of Berrien Fifth District court; Rae Ann and Paula Carothers, both of the Human Resources commission.

Also, Andrew Rodez, Benton Harbor police chief; Russel White, Benton township community development department; Rev. Arnold Bolin, Berrien County Council of Churches; Edgar Morris, alcohol education officer, Berrien county health department; and Tom Bartley, Whirlpool Corporation.

Citizen representatives are: Mary DeFoe; Robert Flippo; Dorene Hamilton; Debbie Jewell; Kathryn Kirkdorfer; William Klum, and Donna Sickles.

Republican Wrangling Is Beginning In Kansas City

By WALTER E. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Ford wants a one-battle, candidate-to-candidate showdown with Ronald Reagan at the Republican National Convention, but the challenger may seek preliminary tests on issues or rules before the delegates vote on a presidential nominee.

The convention vanguard set to work today to draft a platform and consider a rules dispute that could affect the presidential nomination itself.

Although the opening gavel was still a week away, Republican wrangling was quick to begin.

There were signals that the Reagan camp will seek preliminary votes, in committees and probably at the convention, in hopes of demonstrating strength that might be persuasive with wavering delegates on the roll call that really counts — the one that will choose a nominee for the White House.

In a closely divided convention, with uncommitted

Republicans holding the balance of nominating power, preliminary victories could provide momentum and bargaining points to be used in dickering for delegates.

Managers for both Ford and Reagan have claimed more than the 1,130 delegates needed to win nomination. One side is going to be proven wrong when the roll is called on Aug. 18.

The Associated Press count shows Ford with 1,103 delegates legally bound or publicly committed to him, Reagan with 1,055, and 121 uncommitted.

That measures nominating strength; the lineup on preliminary votes cannot be assessed. "I think we probably have more delegates willing to vote for us on procedural matters than they do," said Lyn Nofziger, convention director for Reagan. But he said the Reagan camp would do more head counting before deciding whether to force such tests.

On platform questions, the stakes are largely psychological. Platforms usually are written and forgotten. But on one rules issue, the verdict could be vital.

That is the question of whether delegates from 20 primary election states are bound by state laws or party rules to vote in accord with the election returns, or whether they can switch candidates or abstain from voting on the initial ballot.

If they can, it would boost Reagan's chances, although no one knows exactly how many delegates bound to Ford under current rules would prefer to vote for the conservative challenger.

Ford supports a convention rule that would declare the delegates bound by the primaries. Reagan manager's oppose it. "We're not going to accept it the way it was written," Nofziger said. He said that is likely to be a focal point of pre-convention controversy.

Nofziger said the Reagan organization has no plans to pick fights on the platform, "but the platform is going to have to be acceptable to us as well as to Ford."

But fights there were. A preliminary platform meeting Sunday turned from a one-hour formality into a three-hour hassle, with one Reagan supporter protesting plans to have drafting sessions behind closed doors, and others complaining that Ford delegates had been appointed as subcommittee chairmen.

The Reagan side won the latter dispute. The platform committee voted 42 to 38 to have subcommittees elect their own chairmen.

Ford, meanwhile, repeated in an interview that he has no intention of naming a vice presidential choice until he wins the presidential nomination, which he said he will.

"We have more than the 1,130 delegates we need and we're going to get more," the President said at Camp David, Md.

John P. Sears, Reagan's campaign manager, says much the same thing about his own convention drive.

While the presidential contest went on, so did the vice presidential speculation. Ford said he will select a running mate who fits his ideology and supports his programs. He said it wouldn't be Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania, already named by Reagan as his vice presidential choice.

The President said he doesn't want the vice presidency to be a factor in the presidential nomination. "I would rather have the contest between me and Gov. Reagan settled between him and me," Ford said.

Ford also said he thought Reagan had hurt his own chances by naming Schweiker. But Nofziger said the move had gained Reagan votes. "I think it's probably been a plus," he said.

Ford said his aides have contacted more than a dozen potential vice presidential nominees and that they are preparing financial and health records to be submitted if they are among the final prospects.

Secretary of Commerce Elliot Richardson said he was on the list and willing to run. "I think I could help in various ways," he said on NBC's Meet the Press. "... I think President Ford needs to reach beyond the Republican party for independent and some Democratic support."

Former Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally denounced Republican critics who have raised questions about him as a vice presidential prospect because of his role in the administration of Richard M. Nixon. Connally called it cannibalism.

"I was not part of Watergate," he said on ABC's Issues and Answers.

"... I think it is highly questionable whether I would accept the vice presidency if it was offered to me," he said. But he also said, "I am not going to take myself out of it."

60,000 Michigan Workers Missing

By Associated Press

Unemployment experts disagree on what happened to 60,000 workers who lost their jobs during the depth of the recession two years ago.

The 60,000 persons have not found new jobs in Michigan, aren't actively looking for work and don't appear on the unemployment rolls.

They may have left the state, says Michigan Employment Security Commission Director S. Martin Taylor.

But David Verway, a Michigan State University researcher, says that might not be the case.

"Nobody knows," says Verway, associate professor in the research division of MSU's Graduate School of Business Administration. "The loss in the labor force might be people who are still here and waiting for the job market to improve."

Michigan still has about 200,000 fewer jobs than it did two years ago while the rest of the nation re-achieved its pre-recession employment peak last February.

Verway estimated that the state's labor force dropped 1.5 per cent since last year. That compares with an average 2 per cent gain in other states.

"The average unemployment rate for Michigan over the first six months of this year was 9.7 per cent," said Verway. "But if you added in the missing workers it would be more than 11 per cent."

Cold Front Gives State Real Chill

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

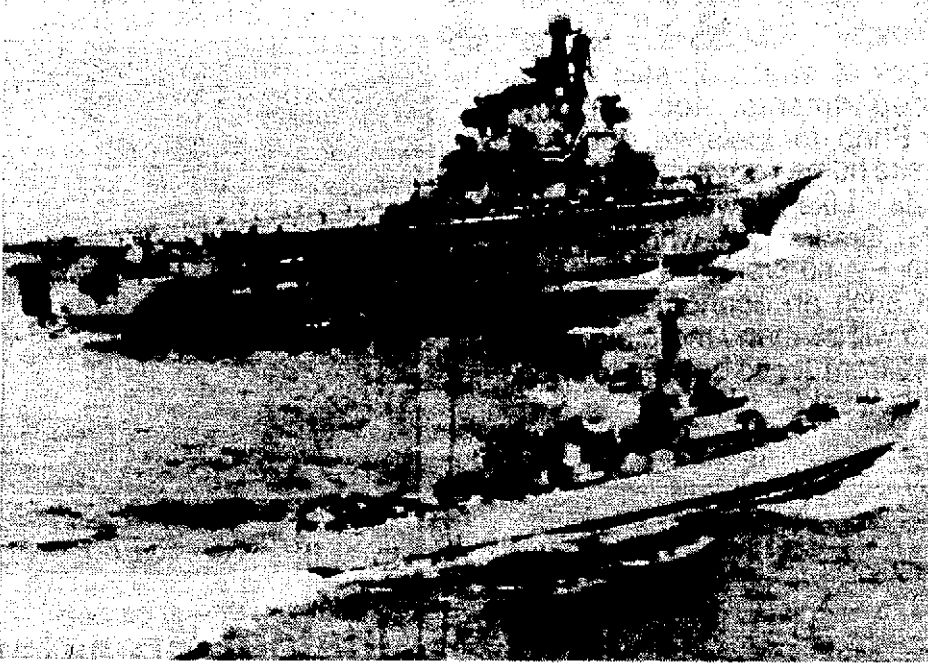

About the only people in Michigan who felt at home with the weekend weather were the pre-season football fans.

It did seem more like fall than summer, as temperatures around Michigan plummeted and the state's usually crowded beaches turned into cold, lonely places.

Cold air from Canada moved into the state Friday night, bringing record low temperatures to several cities.

Traverse City and Muskegon experienced record lows on both Saturday and Sunday. In Traverse City, the mercury dropped to 43 Sunday, beating the old mark of 48 for Aug. 8 set in 1972. Muskegon's new low Sunday of 48 beat the old record set in 1971 by one degree.

Lansing's Sunday low of 45 was one degree lower than the record set there last year.

Heavy Fighting Rages In Beirut

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese security forces today reported "frightful and ferocious" fighting all night along the southern part of the no man's land between Beirut's Christian and Moslem halves.

An estimated 3,000 Moslems and Christians were reported trading rocket and artillery fire. Some close-range combat also was reported.

The sources said at least 85 persons were killed and nearly 140 wounded in the clashes. They estimated total casualties during the night on all fronts at 138 killed and 176 wounded.

More than 1,000 Lebanese Moslems braved sniper fire to escape from the besieged Tal Zatar refugee camp Sunday amid reports that Christian forces were preparing a knockout blow to end their seven-week siege of the Palestinian holdouts.

About 400 families slipped out of the camp in small groups to the neighboring Dekwaneh Christian district, Christian sources said. They said the Palestinian guerrillas defending the camp tried to prevent the flight "but the escape continued unabated."

The Christians charged that the Palestinians "have been using Lebanese families inside the camp as human shields."

Since the Christian capture Friday of the Nabaa Moslem slum quarter, Tal Zatar is the last enclave held by the Palestinians and leftist Lebanese Moslems in eastern Beirut.

A Red Cross convoy evacuating wounded from the camp was mobbed Friday by hundreds of panicky residents who tried to take over the ambulances and trucks.

Security forces reported "limited fighting" in Beirut and nearby mountain towns Sunday, with 58 persons killed and 79 wounded. There were street skirmishes in Beirut's commercial district and at main crossing points between the Moslem and Christian sectors of the city.

Pierre Gemayel, the leader of the Christian Phalange party, met with Saeb Salam, leader of a moderate Moslem faction, to discuss another peace effort. The phalange radio said there would be more Moslem-Christian meetings.

However, Gemayel indicated he would not talk with the Palestinians.

"Whenever a Lebanese meets face to face with another Lebanese, understanding and amity become an inevitable product of their dialogue," he said. "But when strangers and elements of the destructive leftist movement intrude, the inevitable product would be grudge and animosity."

The last cease-fire broke down on Friday.

Nine Dead As Train Hits Bus

By JOHN M. WILLIS
Associated Press Writer
STRATTON, Neb. (AP) — A freight train roared into a dusty crossing, ripping into a bus on its way to Sunday school. Nine persons — seven of them children — died amid glass shards and penny lollipops scattered in the tall grass. There were 17 persons on the bus, 13 of them children. All were from Stratton. The eight survivors were all injured. "It was real bad listening to them cry and seeing them lying there," said town marshal Ron Longsine, the only policeman in this farming town of 400 people. "It's something a person never wants to see." The Rev. Thomas B. Nerren, 44, pastor of the Stratton Church of Christ, was making his regular Sunday morning run with his wife to pick up children. Two stops remained before the bus would have returned to the one-story frame church. Officials said a warning flasher was operating at the railroad crossing.

But the bus "just kept coming," said train engineer Floyd Wesch, 51, of McCook. "I thought for sure the bus was going to stop. But I don't think the driver ever saw me."

"Probably he (the minister) was talking to his wife ... or she was standing in the doorway and he didn't see it," Longsine said. "I think he just pulled right out across and the train hit him."

"It's just chaos, that's all," said Paul Carlson, conductor on the train. "There were just bodies all over, blankets being carried over, little kids crying. It was just hell, that's all."

The 67-car Burlington Northern freight was rolling at 30 to 60 miles an hour, railroad officials said. The Rev. Mr. Nerren was killed outright. His wife, Shirley, 31, died on an airplane enroute to a Denver hospital.

One of their two sons, Thomas, 8, was also killed. So were Cindy Jo Minary, 3, and Debra Minary, 7, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Minary; Julianna Searrow, 4, Steven Lloyd Searrow, 3, and Jennifer Searrow, 7, children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Searrow; and Holly Schoenberger, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schoenberger.

The Nerrens' other son William, 3, was hospitalized in Denver. Doctors said he and the other seven injured are expected to live.

"I'm just thankful it happened up there," said Kenny Criger, nodding toward the crossing as two of his three children played with their dog and kittens barely 200 yards from the crossing. Their house was the next pickup stop. It was late afternoon when Criger said that. Already occasional curiosity seekers were driving past the red, green and yellow lollipops, still in cellophane, glistening in the grass. A few steps away lay hunks of wreckage and glistening bits of shattered glass.

In addition to the swinging red flasher, the crossing is protected by a warning sign. Wesch said he blew the train's whistle as the lights flashed and bells rang at the crossing.

Wesch said the bus "was only going about 1 mile an hour. ... He could have stopped. Then I thought he was going to go across all right. Another 10 feet and he would have made it!"

"Then when I saw him head onto the tracks, I gave a hard, long blast and put on the emergency (brake). But there was no way we could stop. When you're going 60 miles an hour, there's not much you can do."

Investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board were due on the scene today.

Longsine said the bus, bought from the local school district last spring for about $725, was inspected for safety in April. He said the Nerrens came here from Mississippi about a year ago.

Longsine is a popular figure here, and the children call him "Buffalo Bill" — his citizen's band radio name — or "Grampa Ron."

"I won't see those little kids no more — it'll kinda hurt a little bit," he said.

Officials Seek Link In Mobster's Death

MIAMI (AP) — Authorities were trying today to determine if there is any connection between the murder of John Roselli and the slaying a year ago of Sam "Momo" Giancana — two mobsters reportedly recruited in a CIA plot to assassinate Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Roselli's decomposing body was identified Sunday after it was found in a chain-wrapped oil drum floating in Biscayne Bay off Miami. He died of asphyxiation, the Dade County medical examiner said.

Giancana, a Chicago underworld chieftain, was shot to death in his mansion there June 19, 1975.

Both murders were what investigators called "gangland-style" hits.

Dade County detectives Julio Ojeda and Charles Zatrepsalek said they would check records of a Senate Intelligence Committee appearance by Roselli, who testified five days after Giancana's murder that the two had been offered $100,000 by the CIA to join a plot to poison Castro in 1961. He said he agreed to help for free.

Sen. Howard H. Baker, the Tennessee Republican who was vice chairman of the Senate panel which heard Roselli's testimony, said he would ask FBI Director Clarence Kelley "to be fully briefed" on the case.

"I think they (the FBI) should take jurisdiction on the basis of what's happened now," Baker said from his home in Hunts-vile, Tenn. FBI spokesmen in Miami and in Washington said the agency would not become involved unless a violation of federal law turns up.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, the Hawaii Democrat who heads the Senate's new permanent intelligence committee, said in Washington that it was too early to decide on a congressional probe of the case.

Roselli and Giancana were also reported to have been linked with Judith Campbell Exner, who said last year she had "a relationship" with the late President John F. Kennedy. The names of Roselli and Giancana appear in FBI reports released at Mrs. Exner's request for help in writing her memoirs.

JOHN ROSELLI
Dead Body Found

The reports describe numerous meetings between Roselli and Mrs. Exner, now the wife of a golf professional in San Diego. One was in 1962 at a Los Angeles hotel, where Mrs. Exner turned over $600 in cash to pay a bill.

Dr. Ronald Wright, the chief deputy medical examiner, said Roselli, 70, had probably been dead since July 28, the day he left his sister's home in Plantation, north of Miami, for a round of golf. It was his sister, with whom he had been living recently, who reported Roselli missing Friday.

Three fishermen sighted the 55-gallon drum Saturday. It was bobbing in an arm of Biscayne Bay.

"These guys went to an incredible amount of trouble trying to make sure the body was never found," Wright said. "The lengths to which they went to insure that the body would not be found clearly earmarks this as a true gangland-style killing."

Police said holes had been cut in the side of the barrel to make it sink, and Wright said the drum probably had broken loose from anchors after gases from the decomposing body made the drum buoyant.

EGG ADS BANNED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The egg industry may not advertise that there "is no evidence" linking the eating of eggs to heart disease, the Federal Trade Commission says.

Boy Tortured, Slain, Left In Burning Car

DETROIT (AP) — An autopsy Sunday showed that a 17-year-old Mount Clemens boy whose charred body was found in the front seat of his flaming automobile, apparently was tortured before being shot three times in the head.

Police discovered the body of Michael Hamrol when they arrived to investigate a report of a burning car parked on Detroit's East Side.

Investigators said the body was so badly burned it could not be identified until they traced the burned car's registration.

The autopsy report said Hamrol had been stabbed repeatedly in the chest and stomach with a two-pronged instrument and then shot. His body was left in the front seat of the car, doused with gasoline and set afire, police said.

The youth's mother, Helen Hamrol, said he had taken her car Friday afternoon to visit a friend. Police said they have not located the friend.

Mrs. Hamrol said her son had been to Detroit only once before, and she thought it unlikely that he went into the city voluntarily.

Congress Faces A Short Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postcard voter registration, swine flu vaccine, defense spending and a variety of energy conservation programs top a busy but short schedule in Congress this week.

Both branches of Congress plan to recess in midweek — the House Tuesday night and the Senate at the close of business Wednesday — until Aug. 23 following the Republican National Convention.

Nine Dead As Train Hits Bus

By JOHN M. WILLIS
Associated Press Writer
STRATTON, Neb. (AP) — A freight train roared into a dusty crossing, ripping into a bus on its way to Sunday school. Nine persons — seven of them children — died amid glass shards and penny lollipops scattered in the tall grass.

There were 17 persons on the bus, 15 of them children. All were from Stratton. The eight survivors were all injured.

"It was real bad listening to them cry and seeing them laying there," said town marshal Ron Longsine, the only policeman in this farming town of 480 people. "It's something a person never wants to see."

The Rev. Thomas B. Nerren, 44, pastor of the Stratton Church of Christ, was making his regular Sunday morning run with his wife to pick up children. Two stops remained before the bus would have returned to the one-story frame church.

Officials said a warning flasher was operating at the railroad crossing. But the bus "just kept coming," said train engineer Floyd Wesch, 51, of McCook. "I thought for sure the bus was going to stop. But I don't think the driver ever saw me."

QUEEN'S AWARD: Float of Blue Star Tabernacle youth group, South Haven, won both queen's award and civic award in Gladiolus festival parade. Float was among 60 units taking part in annual march.

Coloma Gladiolus Parade Seen By Crowd Of 6,000

COLOMA — An estimated 6,000 people lined the main street of this community Saturday to watch the annual Gladiolus festival parade.

Blue skies marked with only patches of clouds and mild temperatures combined with the pageantry of the parade to bring the throng.

Wavia Noack, the city's mayor pro-tem who rode in the parade, gave the estimate after the marchers, made up of 60 units, had completed the route.

For one float entry, selection as an award winner was an added star in its crown. It has already received honors in four other parades.

The float, Showboat II, was entered by the Hartford

American Legion post, and won the Originality award. It won honors previously in the Blossum parade; July 4 weekend parades in South Haven and Bangor; and a state Legion convention parade also in July.

The Gladiolus parade also had a pair of double award winners.

Both the president's award and the sweepstakes award went to the entry of the Garden Beauty, Inc., South Paw Paw street, Coloma. Its entry was a float loaded with dozens of Gladiolus flowers.

The other double winner among the floats was the Blue Star Tabernacle youth group, South Haven. It won both the queen's award and the civic award.

Other winners were Baroda float, mayor's trophy; Merrill's Lakeview Farm, Eau Claire, a covered wagon pulled by Belgian draft horses, beauty trophy; and Deer Forest entry, wagon containing Llana, driven by Dan Atherton, judges' trophy.

The Cascadian drill team, Jackson, won the marching unit award while the Curry Farm Supply entry of Coloma, won first place in the pony hitch category.

Judges for the festival parade were Joe Bartz, Miss Margaret L. Meyn, and Arthur Kasewurm, Stevensville village president.

Other festival weekend activities included a polka dance at Shadowland ballroom, St. Joseph, Saturday night and an old fashioned picnic and brass band performance, both on Sunday. An estimated 600 people turned out for the polka dance where Frank Yankovic was featured.

MAYOR'S AWARD WINNER: Baroda float entry won mayor's award in Gladiolus festival parade in Coloma, Saturday.

THIEVES ACTIVE IN AREA OVER THE WEEKEND

Benton Harbor police said eight color televisions were among more than $1,000 in goods reported stolen from a city furniture store after police discovered a break-in late Sunday while on patrol.

Police said a panel from an overhead door was kicked in at the Salmon & Son Furniture store, 400 Highland avenue. The break-in was discovered shortly before midnight, police said. In addition to the televisions, three refrigerators and 12 lamps were also reported missing. Police said one television and a stand were found near the store.

Merchandise valued at $350 was reported stolen last Wednesday in a burglary at Salmon & Son.

The theft from an auto of a purse containing two rings and a watch valued at $650 and cash, totaling $40, was reported to Benton Harbor police at 11:40 p.m. Saturday, by Mattie Livers, Route 2, Covert. She told police a man reached into the car on the passenger side while she was seated at the wheel, parked in the 100 block of South Fair avenue.

Other thefts reported to Benton Harbor police over the weekend:

—A portable television and stereo system valued at $330 from the home Ruth Jenkins, 1157 Bishop avenue.

—Three rings valued at $450 from the home of Jimmy Davis, 842 East Main street.

—A television set, record player and tape player, valued at $240, from the home of Helen Coates, 892 Buss avenue.

A Missouri man was arrested by Benton township police Sunday on a charge of attempted breaking and entering after witnesses told police a man apparently injured his hand in breaking a door window at a Milburg store.

Police said the attempted break-in was reported about 9 p.m. at the Red & White store, Territorial road. Witnesses told police a man broke the window, reached inside then pulled his hand back and ran away. Police stopped a car matching the description of one seen by witnesses about 20 minutes later.

Booked at the Berrien county jail after treatment for a cut hand at Mercy hospital, was Roger Lee Goldsmith, 18, South, Mo.

Benton township police early Sunday arrested two men and recovered nearly a dozen bottles of liquor allegedly stolen during a burglary at Wenzloff's IGA store, 1186 Paw Paw avenue.

Booked on charges of breaking and entering were, Paul Fitzner, 17, of 1172 Summer court, and Randy Lee Carpenter, 17, of 833 Paw Paw avenue, both of Benton township. They were arrested at their homes shortly after the burglary was reported by a citizen at 2:31 a.m.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said electronic equipment and an unknown amount of money was stolen during a burglary at Eau Claire high school, discovered by school employees Sunday.

Deputies said entry was gained through two sets of double doors on the west side of the building. It appeared that a pry bar or tire iron was used to pry open desk drawers, deputies reported. Value and description of the stolen goods was not reported.

Another theft reported to Berrien deputies was a $400 grain mixer from the barn of Edward Heffner, Box 24, East Eureka, Eau Claire.

Thomas Goetz, 315 Searles avenue, Fairplain, told St. Joseph township police his home was broken into and two rifles were stolen. Police said a 30-30 and .22 caliber rifles were reported stolen Sunday.

Greg Lee, 20, of 1001 Crystal court, Benton township, sustained two stab wounds reportedly inflicted early Saturday while Lee was in a parking lot off the 400 block of Territorial road in Benton Harbor, according to city police.

Police said Lee was released after treatment at Mercy hospital for wounds on the chest and right arm. Lee told police a man stabbed him while Lee was talking to a woman in the lot about 1:40 a.m. No arrest was made pending further investigation.

DURING REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Luxury Awaiting Ford, Reagan

By BARBARA MCMANON

Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) —

When things on the convention floor get tense, both contenders for the Republican nomination for president will be able to take some small comfort in their temporary luxury accommodations here.

President Gerald Ford and his White House and campaign staffs will command the top five floors of the 3-year-old Crown Center Hotel. The hotel is part of a $350-million urban renovation project on the edge of the downtown area.

Accommodations for the chief executive in the Presidential Suite include 3,000 square feet of living space, roughly double the area of an average three-bedroom house. Multiple balconies offer a variety of views of Kansas City.

The decor is contemporary and plush. Browns and beiges abound. Sand-tone carpeting is used throughout the expansive suite. Velvet sand-tone drapes, linen wall coverings and use of natural fibers emphasize the earth tones.

The dual living room features a fireplace room, where the center of attention is the Italian travertine marble fireplace. Around the corner is the game room section, which features an entertainment center containing an oversize color television and a stereo-radio system. The wet bar is also located in the living room.

The suite boasts two bedrooms and three baths, in addition to a fully equipped kitchen, to be stocked for snacking in the event of long, late-night convention balloting.

A hotel spokesman said little renovation was done to prepare the $325 per night suite for Ford and his family. But some changes were required on the suite down the hall, the Royal Suite, which will be used as the presidential office for about a week during the convention. Desks and some of the presidential trappings, to make it more like the executive office, have been brought in.

Meanwhile, challenger Ronald Reagan, former California governor, will definitely not be roughing it. His $200 per night five-room Presidential Suite at the Alameda Plaza Hotel offers such amenities as six balconies, a large walk-in wet bar off the master bedroom and a full-size kitchen. For entertainment, if time permits, there is a baby grand piano in the living room, although a hotel spokesman admitted he doesn't know if any of the Reagans have the skills required for its use.

But Pat Greene, hotel resident manager, knows the makings of the lavish suite well since he did a large share of the decorating.

But he backs off a bit when asked what style decor the suite is.

"It's really a mixture," he explained. "A few pieces tend toward Queen Anne and a few pieces are mainly Mediterranean Country."

The eclectic collection is done primarily in warm natural tones — brown, rust and beige. Deep chocolate brown carpeting is used throughout the suite.

Kansas Family's Estate Is 'City'

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A sign reads: "Welcome to Kenyon City. Mayor Bill Kenyon. Population: 11."

Kenyon City is not really a city. It's the five acres of land occupied by Kenyon and his family.

The idea of calling the family estate a city came to them six years ago when Kenyon and his family moved into the area.

"Well, we were 11 city folks who didn't know the first thing about country living. We decided to make a fun project out of something that could have been a drag," Kenyon said.

"My daughter and I both wanted to be the mayor," he said, "so I waited until she went on a trip to Hawaii to hold the election. I won 5 to 3."

"We've even got a key to city," he added. "It's about a foot long and covered with aluminum foil. We present it to all visiting dignitaries. We present it to about anybody who visits."

Since his daughter and her children moved to Wichita, the town's population has stood at eight.

ALI TESTIFIES

NEW YORK (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali took the stand as a character witness for fellow Black Muslim Louis 17X Dupree and described the defendant in a cup-killing trial as "a deeply spiritual, righteous man, a peaceful man, a Muslim."

FFA Tour Is Tonight At Hartford

HARTFORD — Some 45 members of Hartford high school's chapter of Future Farmers of America will be conducting tours of their outdoor classroom from 6:30 to 7:30 tonight.

The land is located on 87 1/2 street, just east of the Auto Specialties plant, according to agriculture teacher Robert Thomas.

Demonstration plots show fertilizer uses, weed controls and a variety of plantings, Thomas said.

Cass Blood Drive Scheduled Thursday

DOWAGIAC — The first public blood drive in Cass county in recent years has been scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 12, from noon to 8 p.m. at the Methodist church on Lowe street, Dowagiac.

Blood collected will help replenish the Red Cross regional blood bank in Lansing, according to Douglas Dorman, chairman of the Cass county chapter of the Red Cross.

Blood from the regional bank was made available to Cass county residents in January, 1975. It must be continually replenished by volunteers, however. Other public blood drives are to be scheduled throughout the county. About 1,500 donors a year will be sought.

Adult donors will be accepted up to age 65. Seventeen-year-olds must have parental permission.

First Pre-Qualifier To Win Western

Underdog Stark Champ!

Sports Editor

John Stark, a virtual unknown out of Texas, beat seemingly unsurmountable odds while winning the Western Amateur championship Sunday.

The 20-year-old from San Antonio thrilled record-breaking Point O'Woods crowds and made the impossible dream come true by becoming the first pre-qualifier to win the 74-year-old golf tournament's prestigious title.

"It's unreal," he said by telephone to his family back home minutes after defeating another long shot, Mick Soli, a 22-year-old from DeKalb, Ill., 3 and 1 in the afternoon title match.

The "flabbergasted" junior-to-be at the University of Houston also said considering him an underdog was "an understatement."

While admitting his golf accomplishments before the Western Amateur were nothing exciting, he added that he "didn't deserve an exemption." The biggest events he had won before Sunday were a couple of small college events and the city tournament back home.

Some would call the college business major's accomplishments lucky, but to win the way he did also took a lot of championship character.

Stark played one-under-par golf Sunday while downing Soli in the afternoon and Mike Reid of Kirkland, Wash., in the morning, 2 and 1.

On Saturday, he opened with a 1 up victory in 28 holes over Fred Ridley of Winter Haven, Fla., the current U.S. Amateur champion. In the afternoon, he captured another squeaker by edging Jim Joseph of Homewood, Ill., 1 up.

"I was trying to get some revenge for Keith Fergus, my college teammate," said Stark of his thrilling win over Ridley. "He beat Fergus in the finals of the U.S. Amateur."

In the championship match Sunday, both golfers thought the No. 8 hole, where Stark kept Soli two holes down, was the key. "When I made that birdie putt (about a 20-footer) on No. 8 on top of his (another 20-foot birdie) that really helped," recalled Stark. And Soli added: "It took a little wind out of the sails for me."

A Sunday crowd of 12,500 — just 30 short of the tourney's single day record — had watched Stark fall behind on the No. 2 hole when Soli put his second shot about eight feet from the pin and dropped the putt for a birdie.

A bogey by Soli on No. 3 — he put his second shot in the rough to the right of the green — evened up the match. The 1976 Mid-American Champion from Northern Illinois then fell two behind with a double bogey on No. 5 and a bogey on No. 6. Another bogey on No. 9 put him three down at the turn.

Soli, who played his high school golf in the Upper Peninsula at Marquette, got a hole back on No. 10 by getting a birdie after placing his second shot only about a foot from the pin.

They traded the No. 13 and 14 holes, and Stark won the championship on No. 17 when Soli got a bogey after driving over the green.

Overall, putting was the key for Stark, although there were also very few golfers in the tourney who hit longer tee shots.

"I'm sure I putted better than anyone in the tournament," declared the usually modest

Stark in one of his few boastful moments. He also thought some of his opponents were "hurt" by trying to match his long drives.

Stark had also reached the Sweet 16 in mission impossible fashion.

He squeaked through pre-qualifying at Lake Michigan Hills by one stroke — hitting just seven of 18 greens but surviving by making birdies on No. 15 and 16. He also got the final spot in the Sweet 16 by a mere stroke. Ironically, Andy Bean, now a pro, won the Western Am crown last year after picking up the last spot in the Sweet 16.

Stark, who says he will be back here to defend his title next year, does carry third team All-American credentials. But the 25th place golfer in this year's NCAA says that recognition comes mostly from his college coach, Dave Williams, "having some pull."

Stark's caddy here was John Oshinski, who will be a junior this fall at St. Joseph high school.

Soli, who had a girl caddy, Becky Zitta of St. Joseph, reached the championship match by downing Bob Byman of Raleigh, N.C., the tourney's medalist, 3 and 2 in the Sunday morning semifinals.

On Saturday, he downed NCAA champion Scott Simpson of San Diego, Calif., 4 and 2, and John Fought of Portland, Ore., 1 up in 19 holes.

Other match play results saw first round leader Eddie Mudd of Louisville, Ky., lose to Peter Jacobsen of Portland, Ore., 2 and 1, and second round leader Lance Ten Broeck of Chicago fall to Reid 2 and 1.

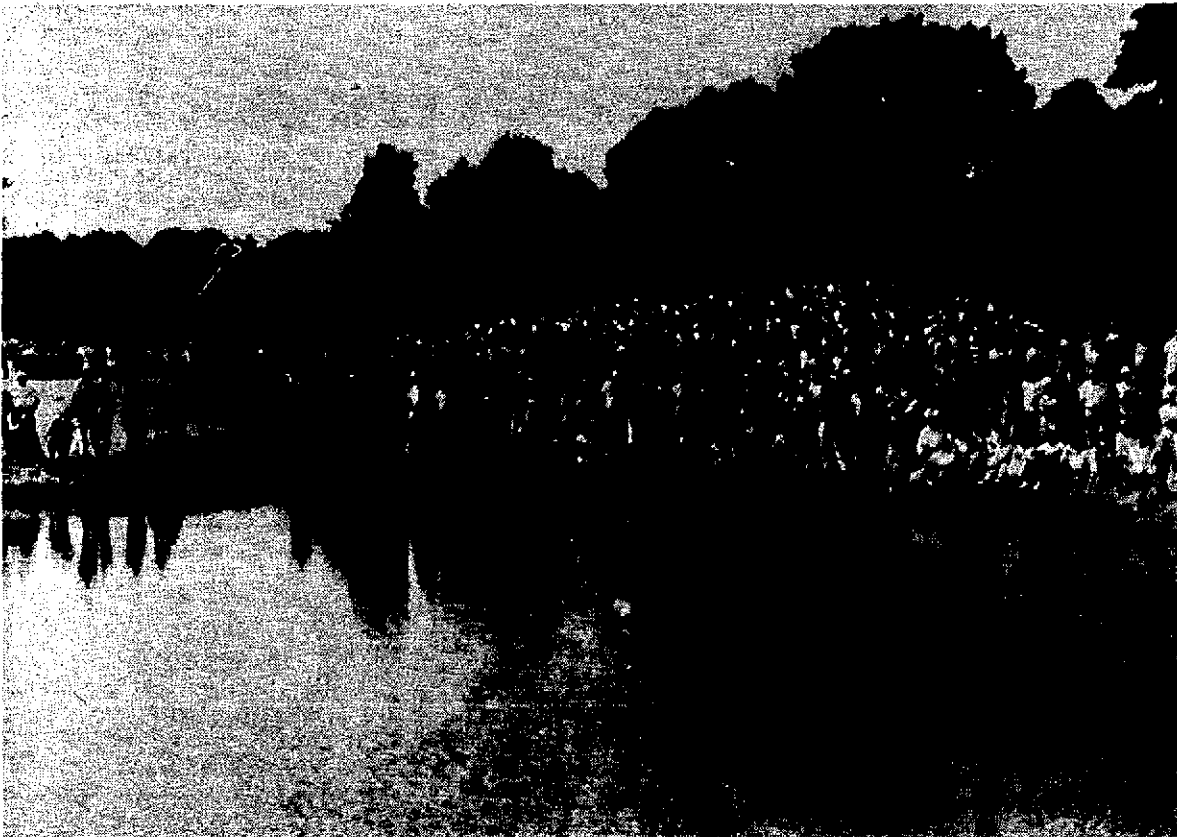

Sunday's big crowd gave the tournament an overall record attendance of 24,642 — topping the previous mark of 24,231 from 1974.

Reds' Morgan Tabs Foster For MVP

Cub Bats Boom Against Expos

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Joe Morgan knows a Most Valuable Player when he sees one, and he sees one in Cincinnati teammate George Foster.

"George is the catalyst," says last year's National League MVP. "The man is making everything happen. He's definitely the Most Valuable Player in the league — you can take it from me. He's doing it every day."

Exactly what Foster has been doing for the Reds is driving in runs and guiding them to a formidable lead in the National League West. Foster once more delivered a game-winning RBI as the Reds whipped Los Angeles 3-2 Sunday and improved their position to a comfortable 13 games over the Dodgers.

The Dodgers still had a fighting chance before being run over by the Big Red Machine four straight times at home over the weekend. Foster was in the driver's seat for Cincinnati, knocking in six runs in the series to boost his major league RBI total to 96.

While Cincinnati was making hay in the West, the Philadelphia Phillies were doing the same in the National League East. The Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 and, coupled with Pittsburgh's 7-4 loss to New York, improved their first-place margin to 14 games.

Elsewhere in the National League, the San Diego Padres whipped the Houston Astros 4-3, the Chicago Cubs routed the Montreal Expos 7-1 and the Atlanta Braves beat the San Francisco Giants 2-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the nightcap 4-1.

Jack Billingham, 8-8, restricted the Dodgers to five hits, two of them home runs by Dusty Baker and Ron Cey, before getting relief help from Rawley Eastwick in the ninth. Billingham also doubled home a run in the fifth when the Reds scored twice off loser Burt Hooton, 7-12.

An inning later, Joe Morgan doubled and Foster singled him home for the eventual winning run.
Pinch hitter Jerry Martin delivered a one-out sacrifice fly in the ninth inning, lifting Philadelphia over St. Louis. Martin's drive off Cardinal reliever Al Hrabosky came after Greg Luzinski singled and Jay Johnstone hammered a ground-rule double off St. Louis right-hander Bill Greif, 2-7.

Leo Foster drove in three runs with a single and double and Mickey Lolich scattered eight hits as New York defeated Pittsburgh. Lolich survived several tough innings to improve his record to 7-10. Jim Rooker, 8-8, was the loser.

Hector Torres' two-out, bases-loaded single in the ninth inning sparked San Diego over Houston. Torres' single to right enabled rookie reliever Butch Metzger to improve his record to 10-9, while J.R. Richard absorbed the loss and fell to 13-12.

Bill Madlock's two-run double and Steve Swisher's two-run homer backed the five-hit pitching of Steve Renko as Chicago stopped Montreal. For Renko, traded to the Cubs by Montreal earlier this season, it was his fifth victory against six defeats.

Jerry Royster holed a run-scoring single with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth inning to give Atlanta its first-game victory over San Francisco. Ken Reitz drove in three runs with two singles and John Montefusco recorded his 12th victory as the Giants won the second game.

Trophy And Ace For Domagalski

CHEBOYGAN, Mich. (AP)—Gary Domagalski of East Lansing fired a seven-under-par Sunday and had one of two holes-in-one to capture the championship flight of the Northern Michigan Open golf tournament at Cheboygan Country Club.

Before Sunday, there had not been a single hole-in-one made in the 23-year history of the amateur event.

Domagalski's two-day total of eleven-under-par 133 also set a course record by one stroke.

Troy's Jim McGregor fired the other hole-in-one. Both were on the 163-yard, par-three second hole.

First Pre-Qualifier To Win Western

Underdog Stark Champ!

By JOHN VANDEN HEEDER
Sports Editor

John Stark, a virtual unknown out of Texas, beat seemingly unsurmountable odds while winning the Western Amateur championship Sunday.

The 20-year-old from San Antonio thrilled record-breaking Point O'Woods crowds and made the impossible dream come true by becoming the first pre-qualifier to win the 74-year-old golf tournament's prestigious title.

"It's unreal," he said by telephone to his family back home minutes after defeating another long shot, Mick Soli, a 22-year-old from DeKalb, Ill., 3 and 1 in the afternoon title match.

The "flabbergasted" junior-to-be at the University of Houston also said considering him an underdog was "an understatement."

While admitting his golf accomplishments before the Western Amateur were nothing exciting, he added that he "didn't deserve an exemption." The biggest events he had won before Sunday were a couple of small college events and the city tournament back home.

Some would call the college business major's accomplishments lucky, but to win the way he did also took a lot of championship character.

Stark played one-under-par golf Sunday while downing Soli in the afternoon and Mike Reid of Kirkland, Wash., in the morning, 2 and 1.

On Saturday, he opened with a 1 up victory in 20 holes over Fred Ridley of Winter Haven, Fla., the current U.S. Amateur champion. In the afternoon, he captured another squeaker by edging Jim Joseph of Homewood, Ill., 1 up.

"I was trying to get some revenge for Keith Fergus, my college teammate," said Stark of his thrilling win over Ridley. "He beat Fergus in the finals of the U.S. Amateur."

In the championship match Sunday, both golfers thought the No. 8 hole, where Stark kept Soli two holes down, was the key. "When I made that birdie putt (about a 20-footer) on No. 8 on top of his (another 20-foot birdie) that really helped," recalled Stark. And Soli added: "It took a little wind out of the sails for me."

A Sunday crowd of 12,509 — just 39 short of the tourney's single day record — had watched Stark fall behind on the No. 2 hole when Soli put his second shot about eight feet from the pin and dropped the putt for a birdie.

A bogey by Soli on No. 3 — he put his second shot in the rough to the right of the green — evened up the match. The 1976 Mid-American Champion from Northern Illinois then fell two behind with a double bogey on No. 5 and a bogey on No. 6. Another bogey on No. 9 put him three down at the turn.

Soli, who played his high school golf in the Upper Peninsula at Marquette, got a hole back on No. 10 by getting a birdie after placing his second shot only about a foot from the pin.

They traded the No. 13 and 14 holes, and Stark won the championship on No. 17 when Soli got a bogey after driving over the green.

Overall, putting was the key for Stark, although there were also very few golfers in the tourney who hit longer tee shots.

"I'm sure I putted better than anyone in the tournament," declared the usually modest

Stark in one of his few boastful moments. He also thought some of his opponents were "hurt" by trying to match his long drives.

Stark had also reached the Sweet 16 in mission impossible fashion.

He squeaked through pre-qualifying at Lake Michigan Hills by one stroke — hitting just seven of 18 greens but surviving by making birdies on No. 15 and 16. He also got the final spot in the Sweet 16 by a mere stroke. Ironically, Andy Bean, now a pro, won the Western Am crown last year after picking up the last spot in the Sweet 16.

Stark, who says he will be back here to defend his title next year, does carry third team All-American credentials. But the 25th place golfer in this year's NCAA says that recognition comes mostly from his college coach, Dave Williams, "having some pull."

Stark's caddy here was John Oshinski, who will be a junior this fall at St. Joseph high school.

Soli, who had a girl caddy, Becky Zitta of St. Joseph, reached the championship match by downing Bob Byman of Raleigh, N.C., the tourney's medalist, 3 and 2 in the Sunday morning semifinals.

On Saturday, he downed NCAA champion Scott Simpson of San Diego, Calif., 4 and 2, and John Fought of Portland, Ore., 1 up in 19 holes.

Other match play results saw first round leader Eddie Mudd of Louisville, Ky., lose to Peter Jacobsen of Portland, Ore., 2 and 1, and second round leader Lance Ten Broeck of Chicago fall to Reid 2 and 1.

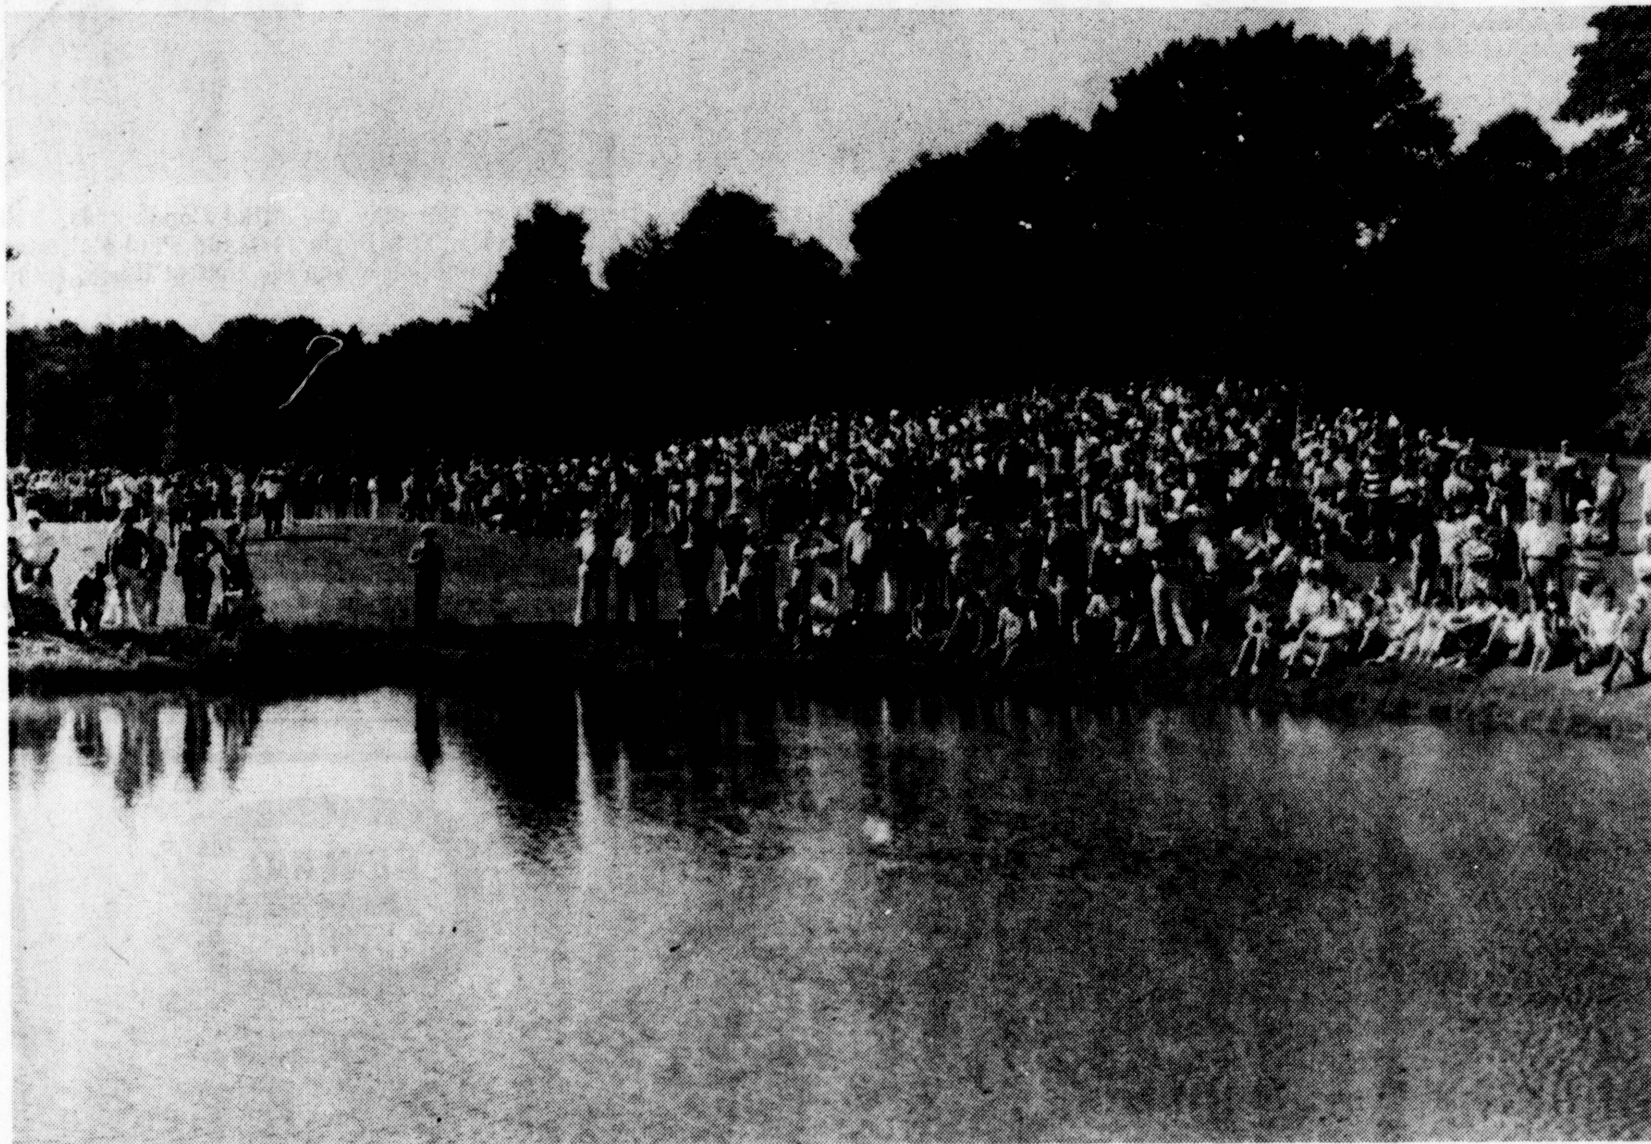

Sunday's big crowd gave the tournament an overall record attendance of 24,642 — topping the previous mark of 24,231 from 1974.

Trophy And Ace For Domagalski

CHEBOYGAN, Mich. (AP)—Gary Domagalski of East Lansing fired a seven-under-par Sunday and had one of two holes-in-one to capture the championship flight of the Northern Michigan Open golf tournament at Cheboygan Country Club.

Before Sunday, there had not been a single hole-in-one made in the 29-year history of the amateur event.

Domagalski's two-day total of eleven-under-par 133 also set a course record by one stroke.

Troy's Jim McGregor fired the other hole-in-one. Both were on the 163-yard, par-three second hole.

Berrien Athletes Capture CanAmer Trophy Again

County Tracksters Dominate Canadians

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

The CanAmer Trophy is awarded to the winner of the team title in CanAmer each year...and it seems that the Americans have a lock on it.

Buoyed by many strong teams, the Berrien County contingent swept to a 3,172.75 to 2,603.75 point win over its Canadian counterparts in the games held in Berrien County Saturday.

It marks the seventh time in the eight-year history of the games that Berrien County has won the team title.

Almost a third of the county's points came from the track team where Berrien more than doubled Brant's total (933.5-431.5). Berrien ended up winning 62 of the 80 age group events.

Andrew Hurst and Cindy Culver were the local triple winners. Hurst took the boys 14-15 year old 100, 220 and long jump while Culver dominated the girls 14-15 220, 440 and long jump.

The Berrien double winners included Malcolm Hayes (9-11), Vernell Hatten (12-13), Michelle Wallace (12-13), Sheila Varga

(14-15), Maverick Burton (16-18), Joe Palazzolo (16-18), John Sykora (16-18), Ruth DeVries (16-18) and Sue Varga (16-18).

The swimming team was equally as impressive as it rolled to a 515-387 victory. John Worthington turned in a superlative performance as he set records in the 200-yard freestyle (1:49.02), 100-yard backstroke (58.42), 100-yard butterfly (55.39) and helped set a new mark in the 200-yard medley relay.

Double winners in the swimming competition were June

Russell (11-12), Scott Tyler (11-12), Diana Grandy (13-14), Kevin Brown (13-14), Kathy Williams (15-18), Audrey Flood (15-18) and Mike Borre (15-18).

In boys basketball, it was no contest, as usual, as Berrien won seven of the eight games. In the senior division, Edward Albert and Ray Thompson led their team to 104-38 and 117-49 victories. Albert notched 18 points in the first game and 20 in the second while Thompson hit for 18 in the first and 21 more in the second.

The initial game saw Albert, Thompson and Larry Bell tie for top scoring honors. Mike Howard and Russell Steele each chipped in with 12 points.

Thompson was high man in the second game while Steele had 14, Bell 11 and Howard and Howie Mutz each netted 10 points.

Mickey Johnson and Ron Page led the junior team to their 72-56 and 65-50 wins. Johnson was high man in the first game with 20 and number two scorer in the second with 22. Page hit for 13 in the initial contest and led all scorers with 26 in the second.

Paul Redford and Terry Pruitt each added 10 points in the first game.

Brad Pongalek had eight points in Berrien's bantam division 28-27 first game win. Pongalek led all scorers in the second game with nine as Berrien squeezed by 34-29. Shadrice Banks had eight points for the winners.

Brant and Berrien split the Rookie division games. Brian Doss and Vincent Greer each netted six points in Berrien's 22-16 win. Brant came back in the second game to score a 35-27 victory even though Doss had 12 points and Greer 11.

The senior girls won both their games by 70-26 and 76-24 scores. The juniors won their games by forfeit.

Wrestling was a sport which was put on a permanent basis this year and the local grapplers showed their prowess by gaining pins in 12 of 18 matches. Mike Simaz (105 lbs.) garnered the only fall in the bantam class.

Getting falls in the intermediate class were Gary Smith (80), Mark Fisher (94), Bill Simaz (108), Jim Ridge (129), Paul McCombs (136) and Jim Murphy (167).

The seniors who had pins included Doug Smith (115), Paul Getz (135), Jamie Lingle (141), Joe Simaz (158) and Jerry Hopkins (167).

Even though Berrien won two-of-three girls softball games, Brant won the team trophy. Berrien won the junior game 11-8 and the intermediate battle 7-5, but lost 17-8 in the senior division. Total score for all three games came out Brant 30, Berrien 26.

Kathy Rodell led the intermediate win with three hits and she also scored three runs. Cindy Lark added two hits for the locals.

In the senior game, Selena Delaney had three hits for Berrien while Debbie Martin, Dorothy Logan, Barbara Willis and Patty Hoge each notched two hits.

Next year the games will be held in Brant County, Ontario, Canada.

Gottfried Captures Title At Kalamazoo

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Larry Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., cleared the age barrier on one leap Sunday to win his second straight singles title in the United States Tennis Association's 16-18 year old boys' championships.

The 17-year-old Gottfried defeated second-seeded John McEnroe of Douglaston, N.Y., 5-7, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, in the best-of-five set final in the 18-and-under division.

Gottfried, who was the No. 4 seed, and McEnroe are first-year players in the 17-18 age category. Last year, Gottfried won the title in the 16-and-under division.

Favorite Tim Wilkison of Shelby, N.C., used a serve and volley game to defeat second-seeded John Corse of Atlanta, Ga., 6-4, 6-1, for this year's 16-and-under championship.

On Saturday, McEnroe and Gottfried took the 18-and-under doubles title after defeating Edot Telscher of Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., and Robert Van Hof of Downey, Calif., in a best-of-five sets final. In 16-and-under doubles play Saturday, it was Wilkison and Murray Robinson of Philadelphia, Pa., over David Dowlen of Houston, Tex., and Billy Nealon of Rochester, N.Y.

Pele Slated At Pontiac

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Pele, often called the world's greatest soccer player, is scheduled to play in an exhibition game against the Dallas Tornado Sept. 6 in Pontiac Stadium.

Pele's team, the New York Cosmos, will play the Dallas Tornado, which is ranked second in the North American League's South Division.

The Cosmos are in first place of the NASL's East Division. It will be the 36-year-old, 5-foot-8 Brazilian's first appearance in the Detroit metropolitan area.

three years ago to join the Cosmos, where he draws a $1 million salary.

Pele said he hopes to heighten Americans' interest in soccer and to teach individualistic American players the concept of team soccer.

"When more Americans learn what to watch — the defense, the footwork, the passing — they won't complain that soccer scores are too low," Pele said.

Kyle Rote Jr., who was NASL rookie of the year in 1973, will be playing for the Dallas team.

Fairplain And Decatur Eliminated

Fairplain and Decatur both suffered losses this weekend to bow out of Connie Mack district baseball action.

Fairplain lost to Hastings 3-2 in 10 innings at Battle Creek Saturday while Decatur was bombed by Portage Central 8-4 Sunday in the finals at Portage.

Fairplain lost 3-2 to Battle Creek Jolin-Graphics Friday afternoon but then stayed alive with a 6-0 win over Pentfield Friday night behind the three-hit hurling of Mickey Ott.

But then Fairplain was ousted by Hastings, which scored the winning run in the tenth on a dropped fly ball in the outfield.

Fairplain stroked 18 hits with Mike Parrish, Pat Robach, Scott Mucia and Gary Bartalone all delivering two. Jeff Phillips took the loss in relief of Bob Matner. Fairplain had tied the score in the seventh on a two-out single by Bartalone.

Fairplain ends with a 17-5 record.

Decatur, already with one loss in the double-elimination affair, bounced back to defeat Portage Bel-Aire 5-0 and Loy Norrix 6-1 on Saturday. Jim Overley tossed a two-hitter in the first game Saturday while Jeff Buller pounded two hits.

In the second game, Decatur rapped 11 hits with Kurt Wiese and John Dentzman getting three singles, Mike High a single and double and Kevin Haun two singles. Rod Austin took the win on a five-hitter.

Decatur then was faced with the task of beating Portage

Central twice on Sunday to win the title. But the winners pounded across three runs in the opening frame to destroy Decatur hopes. Portage Central added two in the second and four in the fourth. Harger held Decatur to three hits with Bob Moore socking a two-bagger. Dentzman took the loss as Central man took the loss as Central pounded nine hits.

Decatur, which ended 15-4, had Wiese finishing with a hefty .508 batting average.

All district winners advance to the state finals starting Tuesday at Marshall high school.

Musso Standout In Bear Victory

WFL Refugees Star In NFL

From Associated Press
They are bittersweet memories: the Chicago Fire, the Birmingham Vulcans, the Southern California Sun and the rest — the World Football League teams which couldn't withstand empty stadiums and empty bankbooks.

Most of the players are trivia questions now, but some survived and made interesting contributions to this weekend's National Football League preseason activity.

There was Mark Kellar, a Fire refugee whose one-yard scoring run produced Minnesota's only touchdown in a 13-10 triumph over the Kansas City Chiefs.

There was Tony Adams, the WFL's leading passer in 1974 for the Sun, who directed the Chiefs' only touchdown drive and set up a Jan Stenerud field goal at the close of the first half.

There was Johnny Musso, the former Vulcan who carried 23 times for 81 yards and caught six passes for 95 more for Chicago in leading the Bears' 27-16 triumph over the expansion Seattle Seahawks Saturday night. He caught a 22-yard pass from Bob Avellini, the former Fire signal caller, for the Bears' first score of the contest.

In other NFL weekend exhibitions Saturday, the Los Angeles Rams roughed the Dallas Cowboys 28-14; the Cleveland Browns blasted the Atlanta Falcons 31-7; the Cincinnati Bengals bombed the Buffalo Bills 31-10; the Green Bay Packers trimmed the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 10-6; the New Orleans Saints topped the Houston Oilers 13-10; and the Oakland Raiders hosted the St. Louis Cardinals 20-9.

The Baltimore Colts beat the Washington Redskins 20-9 in the rain and the San Diego Chargers dropped the New England Patriots 26-17 in

Friday night encounters. The New York Jets host the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Steelers visit the Philadelphia Eagles in Monday night games.

Kellar once set a WFL record by scoring 36 points in a game against Hawaii: three touchdowns rushing, two on pass receptions and one "action point." You remember the action point, right?

Saturday night, Kellar and the Vikings settled for the one touchdown — but it's a point for the "rookie" who is trying to make the club.

Though he dropped a pass on one play, Kellar's chances of making the team weren't hurt any by 13 carries for 46 yards and the touchdown.

Three Garo Yepremian field goals and a second-quarter 43-yard scoring pass from Don Struck to Freddie Solomon helped the Dolphins overcome a 97-yard touchdown runback by Detroit rookie James Hunter on the opening kickoff and raise their preseason record to 2-0. The Lions, 1-2, came within 21-21 before Yepremian put the game away with 42- and 24-yard placements in the fourth quarter.

Wilbur Jackson and Bob Ferrell bulled for short-yardage touchdowns to lead San Francisco, 2-0, past Denver, 0-2. The Broncos were held scoreless until Craig Penrose — throwing his first professional pass — hit Bill Van Heusen on a 22-yard scoring play with 4:42 left.

Before Saturday night's game, Rams Coach Chuck Knox showed his players films of last year's 37-7 loss to Dallas in the National Conference championship game. Memories of "that horror movie" freshly in his mind, quarterback Ron Jaworski completed 10 of 19 passes for 138 yards in the first half to lift Los Angeles, 2-0, over Dallas, 0-2.

Fullback Greg Pruitt scored twice — one on a 38-yard run on the first Cleveland play from scrimmage — to help the Browns, 1-1, trounce the Falcons, 0-2.

Quarterback Ken Anderson and wide receiver Isaac Curtis connected on first-half scoring passes of 44 and 51 yards to boost the Bengals, 2-0, past the Bills, 0-2. Without O.J. Simpson, Buffalo still managed 199 rushing yards on 46 attempts.

Though anything but an aesthetic achievement, the Packers managed their victory over a surprisingly tough Tampa Bay club. "But I'll take an unimpressive victory over a good looking loss any time," said Coach Bart Starr of the Packers, 1-1. The Bucs are 0-2.

Two Fred Cox field goals backed Kellar's touchdown run for Minnesota, 1-1. Kansas City lost its second in a row.

Rich Scary, who kicked two field goals for the WFL Philadelphia Bell two years ago, kicked one for New Orleans with nine seconds remaining to lift the Saints, 1-1, over the Oilers, 1-1.

Charlie Smith's one-yard scoring run in the third quarter provided the winning touchdown for Oakland, 2-0, against St. Louis, 1-1. The Cardinals got their touchdown on a 59-yard pass play from running back Terry Metcalf to wide receiver Mel Gray.

Friday night produced a surprise when rain held up the start of the Redskins-Colts game at Baltimore for nearly one-half hour. When things got underway, fullback Kim Jones scored twice to carry the Colts, 2-0, past Washington, 1-1.

San Diego, 2-0, turned three pass interceptions into scores — two by Don Woods — to beat the Patriots, 1-1.

TROPHIES FOR EVERYONE: In the CanAm games held each year, both the Berrien and Brant county delegations take home trophies. This year, Berrien chairman Oliver Edwards (right) holds the first place team trophy won by the local delegation, while Eric Finkelstein, chairman of the Brant team, holds the second place, or Friendship, trophy. ## Kicks Three Field Goals In 30-21 Win

By LARRY PALADINO

"A kicker in knickers named Garo,"

So precise was he, that anyone could see,

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Detroit fans got a kick out of Miami's opening kickoff, but eventually they were ticked off — by the kicks of ex-Lion Garo Yepremian.

Yepremian, who set a National Football League record 10 years ago with Detroit with six field goals in one game, got back at the club that cast him off by booting three second-half field goals Sunday.

It helped the Dolphins beat the Lions, 30-21, in an exhibition game.

The veteran soccer-style kicker slammed a 30-yarder in the third period to snap a 14-14 tie, halted a key 42-yarder with just 4½ minutes left in the game and put things out of reach with a 24-yard kick 64 seconds from the final gun.

His late flourish, plus some strong quarterbacking from Jim Del Gaizo, took the luster off Detroit rookie James Hunter's 87-yard touchdown run with the opening kickoff.

"It was wide open," Hunter said of the hole up the middle.

So was the game. It took Miami about three minutes to tie the score. No one really took command until the last two field goals by Yepremian, who said the atmosphere and lack of wind in the domed Pontiac Stadium "has gotta help a kicker."

Hunter, the Lions' No. 1 draft choice from Grambling as a defensive back, wasn't called on to run back another kick. Why? "I just thought that once was enough," Lions coach Rick Forzano said with a laugh. "I wanted to see what the other players could do."

They didn't do badly. The Lions wound up with 256 yards in kickoff returns — but the Dolphins accomplished more with their 52 yards on four interception returns, three off Bill Munson.

The first was by linebacker Steve Towle. He picked off a Munson aerial in the early minutes and returned it 35 yards to set up a two-yard TD plunge by Don Nottingham.

Safety Barry Hill, who intercepted a Munson pass earlier, snared another midway through the second quarter, and on the next play quarterback Don Struck hit wide receiver Freddie Solomon with a 43-yard scoring pass.

The other interception was by tackle Randy Crowther against Joe Reed to set up Yepremian's final field goal and thwart Detroit's last good chance to take the lead.

Detroit tied the game 14-14 just 11 seconds before halftime on a quarterback sneak by Munson to climax a 74-yard, 12-play drive.

Greg Landry took over at quarterback for the Lions in the second half and couldn't do much, while Del Gaizo assumed command of the Dolphins. He did better, guiding them to four scoring plays, a 19-yard TD pass to wide receiver Duriel Harris in the third quarter, and the three field goals.

The touchdown put Miami ahead, 24-14, but Detroit got back in it when rookie tight end David Hill made a diving, fingertip catch of a Landry pass in the corner of the end zone at 8:41 of the final period.

Forzano called Hill "a class young man, a good blocker and an excellent pass receiver."

But his overall feeling with Detroit's performance was "in between" being pleased and displeased.

Miami Coach Don Shula, meanwhile, was particularly happy with Del Gaizo, who completed eight of 13 passes for 144 yards.

"He did a pretty good job of running the ball club," Shula said.

The victory was the second for the Dolphins without a loss in the exhibition season, while the Lions fell to 1-2.

Young Upset Winner

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (AP) — Sheila Young of Detroit upset National Senior Women's sprint defending champion Sue Novara, 20, of Warren, Mich., in the National Bicycle Championships.

The two women traditionally have been top contenders in the bicycling competition. For the past two years, Miss Novara won the championship with Miss Young as the runnerup.

Miss Young, however, gained international recognition not as a bicyclist, but as an Olympic speed skater. In the 1976 winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, she earned gold, silver and bronze medals for her performances.

Both Miss Young, 25, and Miss Novara will go to the World Bicycling Championship in Italy in September.

In three final heats Saturday, Miss Novara won the first, and Miss Young took the second and third. She won the final heat by a wheel and a half. In third place was Barbara Amburgey, of Leominster, Mass.

June Brennan, 16, of Detroit was named the junior women's champion. Rene Walls, 17, of Highland Park, Mich., placed second and Francesca Saveri, 16, of San Francisco was third.

In the senior men's match sprint, Lee Barczewski of West Allis, Wis., earned first place with Gilbert Halton of Los Angeles in second. Gary Ash of Los Angeles came in third. Barczewski and Ash were members of the U.S. Olympic cycling team and they competed in last week's summer Olympics in Montreal.

In the junior boy's bicycling, Chris Springer of San Jose, Calif., took first place.

Connie Parakeven of Detroit placed first in the intermediate girl's championship and Jeff Bradley of Duvenport, Iowa, won the intermediate boy's competition.

The National championships, held at the Meadow Hill Park Tract in Northbrook, were sponsored by the U.S. Cycling Federation.

Musso Standout In Bear Victory

WFL Refugees Star In NFL

From Associated Press
They are bittersweet memories: the Chicago Fire, the Birmingham Vulcans, the Southern California Sun and the rest — the World Football League teams which couldn't withstand empty stadiums and emptier bankbooks.

Most of the players are trivia questions now, but some survived and made interesting contributions to this weekend's National Football League preseason activity.

There was Mark Kellar, a Fire refugee whose one-yard scoring run produced Minnesota's only touchdown in a 13-10 triumph over the Kansas City Chiefs.

There was Tony Adams, the WFL's leading passer in 1974 for the Sun, who directed the Chiefs' only touchdown drive and set up a Jan Stenerud field goal at the close of the first half.

There was Johnny Musso, the former Vulcan who carried 23 times for 81 yards and caught six passes for 95 more for Chicago in leading the Bears' 27-16 triumph over the expansion Seattle Seahawks Saturday night. He caught a 22-yard pass from Bob Avellini, the former Fire signal caller, for the Bears' first score of the contest.

In other NFL weekend exhibitions Saturday, the Los Angeles Rams roughed the Dallas Cowboys 26-14; the Cleveland Browns blasted the Atlanta Falcons 31-7; the Cincinnati Bengals bombed the Buffalo Bills 31-10; the Green Bay Packers trimmed the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 10-6; the New Orleans Saints topped the Houston Oilers 13-10, and the Oakland Raiders bested the St. Louis Cardinals 20-9.

The Baltimore Colts beat the Washington Redskins 20-9 in the rain and the San Diego Chargers dropped the New England Patriots 26-17 in

Friday night encounters. The New York Jets host the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Steelers visit the Philadelphia Eagles in Monday night games.

Kellar once set a WFL record by scoring 36 points in a game against Hawaii: three touchdowns rushing, two on pass receptions and one "action point." You remember the action point, right?

Saturday night, Kellar and the Vikings settled for the one touchdown — but it's a point for the "rookie" who is trying to make the club.

Though he dropped a pass on one play, Kellar's chances of making the team weren't hurt any by 13 carries for 46 yards and the touchdown.

Three Garo Yepremian field goals and a second-quarter 43-yard scoring pass from Don Strock to Freddie Solomon helped the Dolphins overcome a 9-yard touchdown runback by Detroit rookie James Hunter on the opening kickoff and raise their preseason record to 2-0. The Lions, 1-2, came within 24-21 before Yepremian put the game away with 42- and 24-yard placements in the fourth quarter.

Wilbur Jackson and Bob Ferrell bulled for short-yardage touchdowns to lead San Francisco, 2-0, past Denver, 0-2. The Broncos were held scoreless until Craig Penrose — throwing his first professional pass — hit Bill Van Heusen on a 22-yard scoring play with 4:42 left.

Before Saturday night's game, Rams Coach Chuck Knox showed his players films of last year's 37-7 loss to Dallas in the National Conference championship game. Memories of "that horror movie" freshly in his mind, quarterback Ron Jaworski completed 10 of 19 passes for 138 yards in the first half to lift Los Angeles, 2-0, over Dallas, 0-2.

Halfback Gregg Pruitt scored twice — one on a 38-yard run

on the first Cleveland play from scrimmage — to help the Browns, 1-1, trounce the Falcons, 0-2.

Quarterback Ken Anderson and wide receiver Isaac Curtis connected on first-half scoring passes of 44 and 51 yards to boost the Bengals, 2-0, past the Bills, 0-2. Without O.J. Simpson, Buffalo still managed 199 rushing yards on 46 attempts.

Though anything but an aesthetic achievement, the Packers managed their victory over a surprisingly tough Tampa Bay club. "But I'll take an unimpressive victory over a good looking loss any time," said Coach Bart Starr of the Packers, 1-1. The Bucs are 0-2.

Two Fred Cox field goals backed Kellar's touchdown run for Minnesota, 1-1. Kansas City lost its second in a row.

Rich Szaro, who kicked two field goals for the WFL Philadelphia Bell two years ago, kicked one for New Orleans with nine seconds remaining to lift the Saints, 1-1, over the Oilers, 1-1.

Charlie Smith's one-yard scoring run in the third quarter provided the winning touchdown for Oakland, 2-0, against St. Louis, 1-1. The Cardinals got their touchdown on a 59-yard pass play from running back Terry Metcalf to wide receiver Mel Gray.

Friday night produced a surprise when rain held up the start of the Redskins-Colts game at Baltimore for nearly one-half hour. When things got underway, fullback Kim Jones scored twice to carry the Colts, 2-0, past Washington, 1-1.

San Diego, 2-0, turned three pass interceptions into scores — two by Don Woods — to beat the Patriots, 1-1.

Interest Rising In Pro Soccer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North American Soccer League is in the final week of its 1976 season with unofficial attendance figures showing a sharp rise of interest in the professional game in the United States.

Last season, the San Jose Earthquakes set a season record of 197,194 fans in 11 games, 95 per cent of its stadium capacity. The league, over-all, lured more than 1.8 million people to its 20 stadiums across North America.

This year, six cities have already broken the San Jose record and total attendance league-wide has passed the 2,220,000 mark.

Seattle had the highest attendance figure with 284,712 fans turning out for their 12-game home schedule at the Kingdome, an average of 23,726. Also among the cities surpassing San Jose's 1975 record were Minnesota, Portland, New York, Tampa Bay and San Jose — all but Tampa well over the 200,000 mark.

The big surprises of the year have been the Minnesota and Dallas teams. Minnesota, which took over the ailing Denver franchise this year, has drawn 235,390 to 11 home games, an average of 21,399.

In Dallas, a hotbed of American-style football, the Tornado has drawn 152,387 in 11 games, up 101,355 over the same span last year.

The individual league-game record of 35,620, set last year in Washington, D.C., was broken twice in a week with 42,611 in Tampa on June 6 followed by a 46,164 gathering in Minnesota three days later.

Another record for professional soccer in this country was established at an exhibition game in Seattle when a sell-out crowd of 58,128 turned out to watch the Sounders against the New York Cosmos.

However, the NASL is not without its problems. The dropoff after these seven teams was drastic. Vancouver and Los Angeles likely will exceed the 100,000 figure before the season ends.

But eight teams — Washington, San Diego, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Chicago, Rochester, Toronto and San Antonio — have drawn only in the 50,000-66,000 range with four showing increases over 1975 figures.

Hartford, Miami and Boston bring up the rear with 37,661, 35,448 and 25,756 respectively, all down from last year.

The largest losers as the regular season drew to a close included Washington, down 31,613 from 1975; Miami, 18,679;

Boston, 17,963; and Philadelphia, 15,857.

NASL Commissioner Phil Woosnam had said before the season opened that "more fans, more top players, better stadiums... These are the building blocks the North American Soccer League is putting in place for 1976."

And indeed, more fans were realized, top international stars like Giorgio Chinaglia of New York and Rodney Marsh of Tampa Bay, among others, were added to rosters. And completing Woosnam's predictions, new or refurbished stadiums were used in Minnesota, New York, Dallas, Seattle and elsewhere.

Marshall Helps Smith Gain Buckeye Net Finals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mike Marshall has another famous patient on the mend — tennis pro Stan Smith.

The Atlanta Braves pitcher, near his doctor's degree in kinesiology (the study of muscle structure) at Michigan State University, has solved the physical ills of such stars as Fran Tarkenton and Billy Kilmer in pro football.

Now it's Smith's turn and the three-month results have the tall Californian brimming with confidence.

"He put me on basic weights and exercise. It's done two things: strengthen the forearms and elbows and help the circulation, healing the right elbow," said Smith before facing Roscoe Tanner for the $87,500 Buckeye tennis crown tonight.

"The key to my success is that I'm getting the ball quicker. When you're more confident, you get to the ball faster. I feel I can hit the big shots for the big points now," added Smith, 29.

The tournament's third seed proved his point in the semifinals Sunday. He disposed of defending champion and second-seeded Vijay Amritraj 7-6, 7-6, winning the tiebreakers 9-7 and 7-5.

Amritraj, India's top-ranked pro, had beaten Smith four of the last five times, including the 1975 Buckeye semifinals. "Stan was more consistent today. He played good serve-and-volley tennis," said Amritraj.

Smith said tonight's finals, nationally televised by the Public Broadcasting Service, will boil down to one thing. At stake is $16,000 for first prize.

"We're both going to serve well," he said. "It will be a matter of who returns best."

Tanner ended San Diego rookie Brian Teacher's best tournament with his typical power. He took just 42 minutes for a 6-3, 6-1 decision, serving six aces and losing but five points off his big serve.

"He was too tough for me," said Teacher, picking up his biggest check of $4,000. "He wins his serve so easily, you're tentative on your own serve."

Tanner, playing out of Kiawah Island, S.C., said, "I was serving accurately to the corners. I got on top early and kept him from getting into his rhythm. My return really felt good, too."

In doubles, top-seeded Sherwood Stewart and Fred McNeil will face Bill Brown and Teacher for the $5,000 first prize Monday night.

Stewart and McNeil, the German, Swedish and French doubles champions this year, needed three sets to oust Francis Gonzalez and Humphrey Hose, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Stan's Still Perfect

BANGOR — Stan's of Dorr emerged as the lone unbeaten team still left in the Bangor Babe Ruth tournament over the weekend.

Stans, which beat South Haven 'B' 8-1 and Hagar 20-8, will meet the winner of the 6 p.m. Hagar-Eau Claire-Sodus game at 8 p.m. tonight for the tournament championship. If Stan's should lose, another game for the title would be played Tuesday night.

In Saturday action, Hagar took Bangor 12-10. Eau Claire-Sodus downed Gobles 7-3, South Haven 'A' ripped Lawrence 13-4, South Haven 'A' edged Cannon-Dendel 3-1 and Lawrence was awarded a forfeit win over Bloomingdale.

In Sunday play, Eau Claire-Sodus nipped Bangor 4-3. Bangor ripped South Haven 'A' 10-0 and Eau Claire-Sodus defeated South Haven 'B' 6-4.

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — People are becoming convinced that the initials of the B.C. Open stand for "Be Careful."

In 1973, flood waters surged over the par-71, 6,868-yard En-Joie Golf Club course. A year later, fire destroyed the clubhouse and violent winds tore limbs from trees, littering the fairways. Last year, the weather turned cold and rains dampened the event.

So it was really no surprise Sunday when rain forced suspension of the fourth round of the six-year-old event, stranding 11 players on the course and leaving leaders Bob Gilder and Bob Wynn on the 17th tee.

After all, Saturday's third round had been washed out, necessitating the scheduling of two rounds for Sunday in order to end the tournament on time. That round was finished without incident, though second-round leader Buddy Allin — winner of $40,000 at last week's Pleasant Valley Classic — lost his advantage to Gilder and Wynn when he ran into putting and bogey problems to finish with a three-over-par 74.

It was left to the elements this morning to see if the $200,000 tournament could be completed and the $40,000 first prize handed out.

with two holes remaining, had earned his Pro Golfers Association card last fall and won his second tour start this year at the Phoenix Open. The 36-year-old Wynn still was chasing his first tour victory.

Gilder had begun the final round at 10 under par and picked birdies at the fifth and eighth holes before parring through the 16th to pull past sagging Allin. Wynn was 11 under after 54 holes and shook off a triple bogey on the seventh by taking a birdie on the eighth and an eagle 3 on the 12th to pull even with Gilder.

Not much later, the rains became unendurable. By that time, Terry Diehl was in the clubhouse — the leader at 274, 10 under par. But both Gilder and Wynn needed only to par the par-3 17th and par-4 18th holes this morning to better that by two strokes.

That left the other nine to battle for paychecks. Ed Sneed, tied with Gilder at 203 entering the round, stood at 11-under through 67 holes; Jerry McGee, also through 67, was at 10 under when rain washed him and Sneed off hole 14.

Canadian George Knudson was at 269 with one hole left. Others who had completed play were Larry Nelson at 275 and Wally Armstrong at eight-under 276.

threw 5 2/3 innings of hitless ball in relief to get the win. Bucholtz had a double in the contest.

Dowagiac won its game on Saturday, topping Benton Heights 13-2 but was eliminated from the tourney when Benton Harbor No. 1 won Sunday's game 5-2. Winning pitcher Kevin Allen had two hits Sunday and Greg Penn had a triple. Chuck Brezin had a triple for Dowagiac.

On Saturday, Benton Harbor No. 2 beat Buchanan 3-0 and Lakeshore East blanked Decatur in five innings 11-0.

St. Joe Advances

St. Joseph won a pair of games over the weekend to advance in the loser's bracket of the North Lincoln Babe Ruth Tournament.

On Saturday, Jeff Little pitched a five-inning no-hitter as St. Joe defeated Watervliet 10-0. Jeff McIntyre had three hits while Conrad Schultz and Bob Bucholtz each smacked a pair of safeties for the winners.

Rick Sadler drove Kevin Hetting in with a squeeze bunt in the seventh inning to give St. Joe a 4-3 win over Benton Harbor on Sunday. Jon Masini

SEATTLE (AP) — Mickey Remund piloted Miss Budweiser to victory in the Seattle Seafair hydroplane race on Lake Washington Sunday, averaging more than 114 miles per hour.

Remund averaged 114.040 mph in the final heat to outdistance the field, Miss U.S. with Tom D'Eath finished second and rookie driver Johnnie Sanders in Sunny Jim took third.

National point leader Bill Muncy in Atlas Van Lines blew an engine on the opening straightaway of the final and did not finish. Billy Schumacher of Seattle driving Olympia Beer dropped out on the second lap with mechanical problems.

For Miss Bud owner Bernie Little, the victory was a long awaited one.

"We've shouldered our share of agony this summer," Little said, "with two sinkings in Washington, D.C., and Detroit, but we fought our way back and this race victory means everything to my crew chief Tom Frankhouser and my driver Mickey Remund. The whole team has waited a long time for this one.... It's long overdue."

The victory was Remund's second in Seattle and his seventh overall on the hydroplane circuit.

The big Rolls Royce-powered Bud threw a prop in one preliminary heat, but came back to win her second preliminary, clinching a berth in the line-up of the winner-take-all final.

NEW SOX LOOK: Chicago White Sox' Jerry Hairston singles in first inning against the Kansas City Royals Sunday in Chicago. Hairston, like his teammates, was wearing for the first time in a game the team's new hot weather uniform, which includes shorts and knee socks. Hairston was the first man to bat in the new uniform. # Sox Show Short-Cut To Success

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Chicago White Sox have found a short-cut to success. Bill Veeck unveiled his team's heralded short pants uniforms Sunday, and the White Sox walked away with a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals in the first game of their doubleheader.

"I like them, they're very comfortable," said Chicago second baseman Jack Brohamer, whose two-run single in the sixth inning was the big hit of the White Sox attack. "Everybody seems to like them."

Especially the opposition. "You guys've seen yet," crowed Kansas City first baseman John Mayberry. He then warned

White Sox outfielder Ralph Garr, "You get over to first base and I'm going to give you a big kiss."

The White Sox abandoned their navy blue short pants between games of the doubleheader, going back to their regular uniforms for the second game. The change of dress may not have been a good idea, since Chicago came out of the nightcap on the short end of a 7-1 score.

Why did they switch?

"The shorts were great, especially for warm weather," said Manager Paul Richards. "But I decided to switch for the second game because it was getting chilly out there."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles beat the New York Yankees 8-5;

the Detroit Tigers swept the Cleveland Indians 2-1 and 15-5; the Oakland A's swept the California Angels 9-3 and 13-8; and the Texas Rangers edged the Minnesota Twins 5-4.

Milwaukee at Boston was rained out.

Terry Forster, 2-8, won the opener, blanking the Royals on six hits in the six innings he worked. Relievers Clay Carroll and Dave Hamilton gave up a run apiece before Rich Gossage finished up.

Chicago scored on a throwing error by Jim Wohlford in the fourth. Brohamer's bases-loaded single in the sixth and RBI singles by Garr and Jim Spencer in the seventh.

Al Fitzmorris scattered eight hits in the second game to raise his record to 14-7, joining Baltimore's Jim Palmer as the winningest pitchers in the American League.

Billy Williams belted a home run and two doubles and Bert Campaneris scored two runs, drove in two and stole two bases in the opener, while Bando, Joe Rudi, Phil Garner and Gene Tenace hit home runs in the nightcap.

Jeff Burroughs' run-scoring single in the ninth inning lifted the Rangers past Minnesota. Jim Sundberg drove in three runs with a pair of singles for Texas in a night game played in near-100 degree temperatures at Arlington, Tex.

Kansas City broke the game open with five runs in the third inning, three of them on Hal McRae's bases-loaded triple.

Baltimore beat New York for the sixth time in a row and drew within nine games of the first-place Yankees in the AL East as Reggie Jackson belted a two-run homer and Tony Muser and Lee May cracked two-run singles.

Jackson tagged Catfish Hunter, 12-12, for his 19th home run of the season in the first inning and the Yankees never caught up.

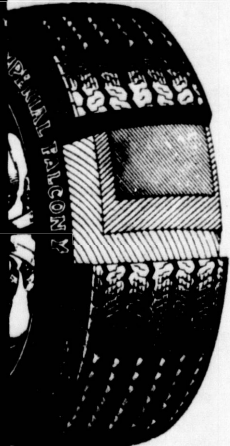

Bill Freehan belted a pair of two-run doubles to key a pair of seven-run innings as Detroit routed Cleveland in the nightcap after squeaking by in the opener on a ninth inning throwing error by Indians relief pitcher Dave LaRoche. Ron LeFlores romped home from second with the winning run when LaRoche threw away Dan Meyer's punt.

Oakland collected 27 hits in the doubleheader sweep over California.

Recovered Trevino Now Eyeing PGA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two weeks ago, Lee Trevino wasn't sure he'd play in the PGA national championship. He wasn't sure he'd ever play competitive golf again. There were indications that his flamboyant, rags-to-riches saga had reached an end.

"I didn't know what was wrong," he said. "But I can tell you this — I was scared. I was really scared. You know how it is. You get to thinking about it and all sorts of things go through your head."

"I hadn't ruled out bone cancer. I was pretty sure I had some kind of permanent damage."

But that's behind him now. The flashy fast-talker is healthy and his old humorous self for the last of the year's four major tests that gets underway Thursday at the famed Congressional Country Club.

It's only Trevino's second appearance in a major event this year. He had to skip both the United States and British Opens — perhaps his two favorite tournaments — due to the back ailment that threatened his career.

He missed eight weeks of competition. "My wife told me she didn't know what to do with me hanging around the house all the time," he said. "That's the longest I've ever gone without playing golf."

The back ailment first was diagnosed as a pulled ligament, Trevino said. "But it kept hanging on too long for that. I was really worried, really scared. I kept going to doctors. I saw doctors in El Paso and Dallas. I saw all kinds of doctors, witch doctors and voodoo doctors...."

"Finally, a couple of weeks ago, my banker told me about this osteopath up in Denver. I went to see him. I was ready to try anything."

"He examined me and gave me a treatment and told me to go back to the hotel and come back again the next day. I went back, he gave me another treatment and we went out to lunch. He told me I could start hitting balls the next day. I couldn't believe it. I went home and the next day I was hitting balls and the pain is gone. Just like that."

"He said the problem was pressure on a point where the backbone joins the hips. He relieved that pressure and it was gone. Three days before that I was supposed to make some presentations at my club (Santa Teresa, N.M.) and I couldn't even walk. Now I'm convinced I missed eight weeks of play unnecessarily."

But he got back in action last week in the B.C. Open in Endicott, N.Y., played four rounds without trouble, and said he's ready to go.

"The back held up fine," Trevino said. "I hit the ball better than I thought I would. And the putting was pretty good, too."

"But laying off all that time, I'm not in real good shape. I'm 10, 12 pounds overweight. My legs are gone. But that'll come back. It just takes work."

He paused and flashed that infectious grin, this time tinged with a touch of humility.

"At least I know there's no permanent damage," he said.

Plangger's Posts Sweep

KANKAKEE, Ill. — George Luther and Rick Plangger made up for Plangger's lack of hits and pitched the local fastpitch softball team to a 1-0 and 3-2 sweep of Kankakee here Sunday.

Luther gave up just three hits in the first game and struck out five batters. Plangger's got his only run in the sixth when Luther singled, Dick Hocker singled and two throwing errors later, Luther scored.

Plangger gave up just two hits in the nightcap while striking out eight batters. The locals again took advantage of an error and a wild pitch in the second inning to score all three runs. Kurt Hocker singled and got the only RBI.

Plangger's will put its 65-34 record on the line Tuesday night at 8:00 p.m. at Plangger's Park where it will play Gundersen Club of Elkhardt.

'Sick' U.S. Women

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — America's best available track and field team had to be wondering today just what is important: winning dual track meets against the Soviet Union or preserving a way of life.

The Soviet squad, counting heavily on its overwhelming dominance in the women's events, belted the U.S. squad 211-157 Friday and Saturday. The Russians now have beaten the Americans 11 times against two defeats and a tie.

It was obvious, however, that the Soviets took the meet more seriously and U.S. coach Bill Thomson said the loss by the women — by an embarrassing 104-42 score — was due to the women's homesickness.

"Our kids wanted to go back home," said Thomson. "Many have been away since the national championships in May and the Olympic trials in June. The Soviets train in a professional manner and we do things helter skelter."

The result was that 12 or more of America's best female athletes, including Olympic javelin bronze medalist Kate Schmidt and sprinter Chandra Cheeseborough, failed to show up here.

Among the stunning performances by the visitors Saturday were a world record by Lyudmila Bragina in the 3,000-meter run and a fast 1 minute, 57 seconds in the 800 by Tatyana Providukhina.

Miss Bragina ran 8:27.1 to cut more than 14 seconds off the previous record held by Grete West of Norway. Back in third

In the 800, for one of the few American bright spots, was Madeline Manning Jackson, with an American record of 1:57.9.

"My mind is my most important asset," said discuss winner Mac Wilkins, when asked if he would train the way athletes in communist nations train. "I might throw farther but I might not because I like my freedom."

The bearded giant threw 217 feet, 2 inches as three of America's gold medal winners from the Olympics won against the Soviets. Besides Wilkins, the others were Edwin Moses in the 400 hurdles in 48.55 and Arnie Robinson the long jump at 25.7.

It is obvious from the past history of this meet dating back to 1968 that the Soviets place a much greater emphasis on it than do Americans. Only once have U.S. women beaten the Russians, in 1968. America's men are now 10-4 against the Soviet men, and the only two American combined victories came in Los Angeles in 1964 and in 1968.

Local Team Wins

MISILAWAKA — Pat Dokhanly drove in two runs in the seventh inning with a double to give the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor McDonald's a 10-9 win over Airport North McDonald's in slowpitch softball played here Sunday.

Jim Kahl got the win and smacked a double and Mike Stanish added another double. The team is now 8-4 on the season.

Recovered Trevino Now Eyeing PGA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two weeks ago, Lee Trevino wasn't sure he'd play in the PGA national championship. He wasn't sure he'd ever play competitive golf again. There were indications that his flamboyant, rags-to-riches saga had reached an end.

"I didn't know what was wrong," he said. "But I can tell you this — I was scared. I was really scared. You know how it is. You get to thinking about it and all sorts of things go through your head."

"I hadn't ruled out bone cancer. I was pretty sure I had some kind of permanent damage."

But that's behind him now. The flashy fast-talker is healthy and his old humorous self for the last of the year's four major tests that get underway Thursday at the famed Congressional Country Club.

It's only Trevino's second appearance in a major event this year. He had to skip both the United States and British Opens — perhaps his two favorite tournaments — due to the back ailment that threatened his career.

He missed eight weeks of competition. "My wife told me she didn't know what to do with me hanging around the house all the time," he said. "That's the longest I've ever gone without playing golf."

The back ailment, first was diagnosed as a pulled ligament, Trevino said. "But it kept hanging on too long for that. I was really worried, really scared. I kept going to doctors. I saw doctors in El Paso and Dallas. I saw all kinds of doctors, witch doctors and voodoo doctors...."

"Finally, a couple of weeks ago, my banker told me about this osteopath up in Denver. I went to see him. I was ready to try anything.

"He examined me and gave me a treatment and told me to go back to the hotel and come back again the next day. I went back, he gave me another treatment and we went out to lunch. He told me I could start hitting balls the next day. I couldn't believe it. I went home and the next day I was hitting balls and the pain is gone. Just like that."

"He said the problem was pressure on a point where the backbone joins the hips. He relieved that pressure and it was gone. Three days before that I was supposed to make some presentations at my club (Santa Teresa, N.M.) and I couldn't even walk. Now I'm convinced I missed eight weeks of play unnecessarily."

But he got back in action last week in the B.C. Open in Endicott, N.Y., played four rounds without trouble and said he's ready to go.

"The back held up fine," Trevino said. "I hit the ball better than I thought I would. And the putting was pretty good, too."

"But laying off all that time, I'm not in real good shape. I'm 10, 12 pounds overweight. My legs are gone. But that'll come back. It just takes work."

He paused and flashed that infectious grin, this time tinged with a touch of humility.

"At least I know there's no permanent damage," he said.

'Sick' U.S. Women

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — America's best available track and field team had to be wondering today just what is important: winning dual track meets against the Soviet Union or preserving a way of life.

The Soviet squad, counting heavily on its overwhelming dominance in the women's events, belted the U.S. squad 211-157 Friday and Saturday. The Russians now have beaten the Americans 11 times against two defeats and a tie.

It was obvious, however, that the Soviets took the meet more seriously and U.S. coach Bill Thomson said the loss by the women — by an embarrassing 104-42 score — was due to the women's homesickness.

"Our kids wanted to go back home," said Thomson. "Many have been away since the national championships in May and the Olympic trials in June. The Soviets train in a professional manner and we do things helter skelter."

The result was that 12 or more of America's best female athletes, including Olympic javelin bronze medalist Kate Schmidt and sprinter Chandra Cheeseborough, failed to show up here.

Among the stunning performances by the visitors Saturday were a world record by Lyudmila Bragina in the 3,000-meter run and a fast 1 minute, 57 seconds in the 800 by Tatyana Providokhina.

Miss Bragina ran 8:27.1 to cut more than 18 seconds off the previous record held by Grete Waitz of Norway. Back in third in the 800, for one of the few American bright spots, was Madeline Manning Jackson, with an American record of 1:57.9.

"My mind is my most important asset," said discus winner Mac Wilkins, when asked if he would train the way athletes in communist nations train. "I might throw farther but I might not because I like my freedom."

The bearded giant threw 217 feet, 2 inches as three of America's gold medal winners from the Olympics won against the Soviets. Besides Wilkins, the others were Edwin Moses in the 400 hurdles in 48.55 and Arnie Robinson the long jump at 25-7.

It is obvious from the past history of this meet dating back to 1958 that the Soviets place a much greater emphasis on it than do Americans. Only once have U.S. women beaten the Russians, in 1969. America's men are now 10-4 against the Soviet men, and the only two American combined victories came in Los Angeles in 1964 and in 1969.

Local Team Wins

MISHAWAKA — Pat Dolohanty drove in two runs in the seventh inning with a double to give the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor McDonald's a 10-9 win over Airport North McDonald's in slowpitch softball played here Sunday.

Jim Kahl got the win and smacked a double and Mike Stanisburt added another double. The team is now 8-4 on the season.

Degrees Awarded To 217 At Andrews Ceremonies

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Andrews university awarded 217 degrees during its summer commencement in Pioneer Memorial church here Sunday.

The degrees included the first two doctoral degrees ever to be awarded women by the university.

Sandra Schriker Negley of Niles, and Hok Neo Wong of Singapore received the doctor of education degrees, as did Stan Showalter. David Birkenstock, receiving the same degree was graduated in absentia.

Dr. John W. Cassell, Jr., president of Pacific Union college, Angwin, Calif., delivered the commencement address.

Dr. Cassell called for the graduates to become involved in the affairs of society. "I am reminded," he said, "of the words of the 18th-century British statesman, Edmund Burke, who once said, 'All that is essential for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing.'"

"Jesus Christ told us to go into all the world and preach the gospel. We are to preach it, we are to apply it. He not only meant geographically but, in my opinion, He meant taking it into all areas of our life — into our homes, our factories, our schools, the arts, music, literature, and into government and politics."

"So direct your energies where they are the most productive," Dr. Cassell continued. "Improve your society by improving the people who live in it, looking ever forward to that day when Christ will return to usher in a truly perfect world."

Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, presiding over his first commencement as president of Andrews, conferred degrees upon 18 from the theological seminary, 91 from the school of graduate studies, 2 from the school of technology, and 106 candidates from the college of arts and sciences.

In addition to the seven doctoral degrees, 102 graduates received master's degrees, and 108 received bachelor's degrees, including four from the Adventist seminary of West Africa, Lagos, Nigeria. According to Dr. Smoot, Andrews has arranged to confer degrees on qualified candidates from the Nigerian college, and today's was the first such presentation. Pastor Craig Willis of Nigeria received the diplomas on behalf of the four graduates.

The commencement ceremonies climaxed a weekend of services for the graduates. On Friday evening, Dr. Mercedes Dyer, professor of education at

Andrews, delivered the consecration address, and Pastor G. Ralph Thompson, vice president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, spoke at the baccalaureate service Saturday morning.

Graduation weekend had more than the usual significance for Gary Kuhn of Benton Harbor, a B.S. candidate in interior design. His wife Susan presented him with a son, Jeremy Kling, 9 lbs., 6 ozs. Jeremy was born at 5:00 Saturday afternoon. Mother and son are reportedly doing well.

Rupert Young, Charlene Kuebler, Geraldine Miller, Charles Morrison, Steven Becker and Paul Haynes.

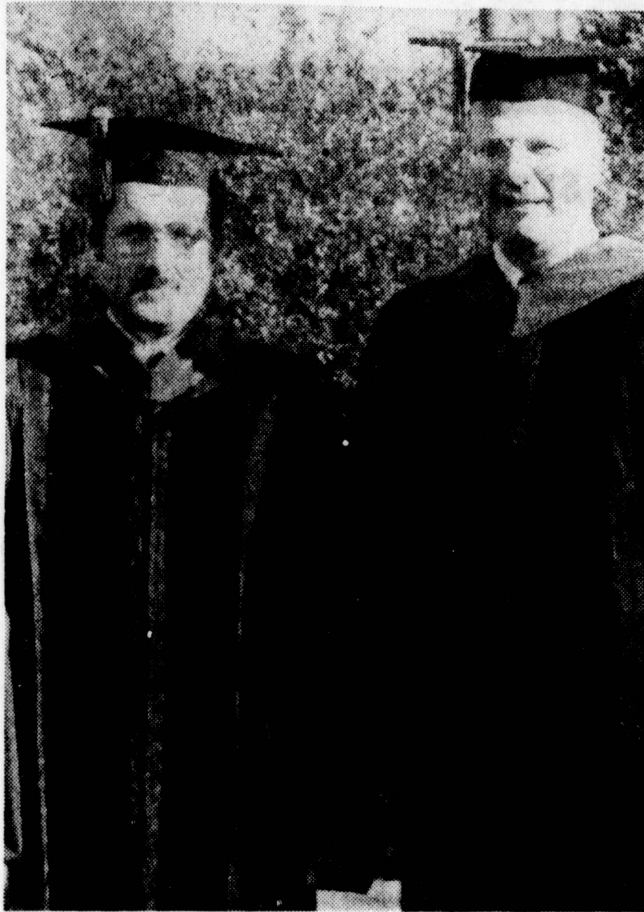

Sawyer, Lynita Seltentich, Three Oaks; and Janeen Conway, Niles.

From Berrien Springs with bachelor degrees were Stephen Biro, Karen Bissell, Gary Doster, Jan Church Hafstrom, Annette Hanlon, Clell Harper, Jr., David Larondelle, Constanx Maxime, Monte Salyer, Loren Taber, Dennis Waite, Lori Aab, Colleen Burlingame, Doris Capicotte, Patrice Cruise, Burgess Grubbs, Kip Kriigel, Darlene Mills, Candice Shad-

duck, Marsha Streelman, Victoria Williams, Jerry Banks, Crystal Hatcher, David Waz-

datsey, and Maurice du Preez. Others receiving bachelor degrees were Gary Kuhn and Alvin Lieberman, both Benton Harbor, Mary Davison, Niles, Allen Mutz and Lois Witney, both St. Joseph, Rita Mae Hall, Stevensville and Carol Ann LaRosa, Sturgis.

PREXIES MEET: Dr. John W. Cassell Jr., president of Pacific Union college, Angwin, Calif., meets with Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, president of Andrews university, Berrien Springs, following AU's summer commencement yesterday. Dr. Cassell was commencement speaker.

BH Pair Escapes Bedroom Blaze

Benton Harbor firemen said Leslie Heber received singed hair and his wife suffered minor smoke inhalation Sunday when fire broke out in a bedroom of their home, 1275 Monroe street. Neither was hospitalized. Firemen, called at 5:40 p.m., said the couple was in the living room when smoke began pouring from the bedroom. Firemen said Heber used a garden hose to try to douse the flames. The couple's two children, ages five and six, were reported unhurt.

The fire was confined to the bedroom, but smoke filled the entire house, firemen said. The apparent cause was listed as a child playing with matches. City firemen at 2:37 p.m. Sunday, washed away gasoline that leaked from an auto parked in the K-mart lot, Riverview drive. There was no fire.

Benton township firemen at 8:05 p.m. Saturday, were called to Point O' Woods clubhouse, Roslin road, when faulty wires in an air conditioning unit caused an odor. There was no fire. Township firemen at 10 a.m. Sunday doused a trash barrel blaze at House of David apartments, East Britain avenue, and reported that no structural damage resulted.

Neighbors: Nixon Not In Seclusion

By LYNDA FILLMORE
Associated Press Writer

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Many Americans think Richard Nixon has retreated behind the secluded walls of Casa Pacifica to live out his life in disgrace, but residents of this oceanside community say it isn't so.

Once the most powerful man in the world, Nixon resigned the presidency two years ago today in the midst of the Watergate scandal.

The night before, he told 100 million television viewers that he was leaving office because he no longer held a base of power.

The White House was left to Gerald Ford, who subsequently pardoned his predecessor.

Media attention to the former president's comings and goings in the past two years has been largely limited to his trip to China last year and his visits to his wife Pat while she was hospitalized for a stroke last month.

And although local residents say they see Nixon taking walks and eating out like any other neighbor, his whereabouts and activities today are unknown.

Nixon spoke to reporters during his Far East jaunt, but his remarks were coolly received in Washington. The former president did not talk publicly again until he chatted briefly with the press in the hospital lobby several days after his wife was hospitalized.

The people of San Clemente seem to accept and even welcome the Nixons as members of the community.

"We didn't see too much of them right after it happened, but as time passed they began to realize they didn't have to hang their heads in shame around us," said one man, who added that he and his wife have seen the Nixons dining out at several restaurants in nearby Newport Beach and even walking down the streets of town.

Friends say the former president spends his time working on his memoirs and reading and that he still greatly enjoys following professional sports, particularly baseball. Occasionally, he takes a stroll along his beachfront property, wearing a windbreaker marked with the presidential seal.

Say Woman Driver Hit Two Men

NILES — City police here said a Niles woman was arrested early this morning for allegedly running into two men with a car she was driving.

Lodged in the Niles city jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was Berneth Jaynes, 22, Niles.

Police said the two injured men, Jimmie Plew, 28, Niles, and Gary Applegate, 22, South Bend, were both treated and released from Pawating hospital, Niles.

The two men told police they were investigating two autos squealing tires in front of Plew's house at 515 Cherry street, about 3 a.m. Two men jumped from one of the cars and attacked Plew and Applegate, police said they were told.

Plew and Applegate told officers they were able to ward off their attackers but were struck by a second auto as they attempted to walk back to Plew's house.

Police said the two men who allegedly attacked Plew and Applegate were questioned but not arrested.

Degrees Awarded To 217 At Andrews Ceremonies

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Andrews university awarded 217 degrees during its summer commencement in Pioneer Memorial church here Sunday.

The degrees included the first two doctoral degrees ever to be awarded women by the university. Sandra Schriker Negley of Niles, and Hok Neo Wong of Singapore received the doctor of education degrees, as did Stan Showalter. David Birkenstock, receiving the same degree was graduated in absentia.

Receiving the doctor of ministry degree were Gordon Gale Bietz, Lenard Dale Jaacks, and Ned P. Maletin.

Dr. John W. Cassell, Jr., president of Pacific Union college, Angwin, Calif., delivered the commencement address.

Dr. Cassell called for the graduates to become involved in the affairs of society. "I am reminded," he said, "of the words of the 18th-century British statesman, Edmund Burke, who once said, 'All that is essential for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing.'"

"Jesus Christ told us to go into all the world and preach the gospel. We are to preach it, we are to apply it. He not only meant geographically but, in my opinion, He meant taking it into all areas of our life — into our homes, our factories, our schools, the arts, music, literature, and into government and politics."

"So direct your energies where they are the most productive," Dr. Cassell continued. "Improve your society by improving the people who live in it, looking ever forward to that day when Christ will return to usher in a truly perfect world."

Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, presiding over his first commencement as president of Andrews, conferred degrees upon 18 from the theological seminary, 91 from the school of graduate studies, 2 from the school of technology, and 106 candidates from the college of arts and sciences.

In addition to the seven doctoral degrees, 102 graduates received master's degrees, and 100 received bachelor's degrees, including four from the Adventist seminary of West Africa, Lagos, Nigeria. According to Dr. Smoot, Andrews has arranged to confer degrees on qualified candidates from the Nigerian college, and today's was the first such presentation. Pastor Craig Willis of Nigeria received the diplomas on behalf of the four graduates.

The commencement ceremonies climaxed a weekend of services for the graduates. On Friday evening, Dr. Mercedes Dyer, professor of education at

Andrews, delivered the consecration address, and Pastor G. Ralph Thompson, vice president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, spoke at the baccalaureate service Saturday morning.

Graduation weekend had more than the usual significance for Gary Kuhn of Benton Harbor, a B.S. candidate in interior design. His wife Susan presented him with a son, Jeremy Kling, 9 lbs., 6 ozs. Jeremy was born at 5:00 Saturday afternoon. Mother and son are reportedly doing well.

Rupert Young, Charlene Kuebler, Geraldine Miller, Charles Morrison, Steven Becker and Paul Haynes.

Graduating from Benton Harbor with a master's degree was William Peyton, and from other towns other than Berrien Springs, Curtis Johnson,

From Berrien Springs with bachelor degrees were Stephen Bito, Karen Bissell, Gary Doster, Jan Church Halstrom, Annette Hanlon, Cliff Harper, Jr., David Larondelle, Constance Maxime, Monte Salyer, Loren Taber, Dennis Waite, Lori Aab, Colleen Burlingame, Doris Capicotte, Patrice Cruise, Burgess Grubbs, Kip Krigel, Darlene Mills, Candice Shad-

duck, Marsha Streelman, Victoria Williams, Jerry Banks, Crystal Hatcher, David Waz-

doskey, and Maurice du Preez.

Others receiving bachelor degrees were Gary Kuhn and Alvin Lieberman, both Benton Harbor, Mary Davison, Niles, Allen Mutz and Lois Witney, both St. Joseph, Rita Mae Hall, Stevensville and Carol Ann LaRosa, Sturgis.

PRESIDENTS MEET: Dr. John W. Cassell Jr., president of Pacific Union college, Angwin, Calif., meets with Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, president of Andrews university, Berrien Springs, following AU's summer commencement yesterday. Dr. Cassell was commencement speaker.

BH Pair Escapes Bedroom Blaze

Benton Harbor firemen said Leslie Hebner received singed hair and his wife suffered minor smoke inhalation Sunday when fire broke out in a bedroom of their home, 1275 Monroe street. Neither was hospitalized. Firemen, called at 5:40 p.m., said the couple was in the living room when smoke began pouring from the bedroom. Firemen said Hebner used a garden hose to try to douse the flames. The couple's two children, ages five and six, were reported unharmed.

The fire was confined to the bedroom, but smoke filled the entire house, firemen said. The apparent cause was listed as a child playing with matches. City firemen at 2:37 p.m. Sunday, washed away gasoline that leaked from an auto parked in the K-mart lot, Riverview drive. There was no fire.

Benton township firemen at 8:05 p.m. Saturday, were called to Point O' Woods clubhouse, Roslin road, when faulty wires in an air conditioning unit caused an odor. There was no fire. Township firemen at 10 a.m. Sunday doused a trash barrel blaze at House of David apartments, East Britain avenue, and reported that no structural damage resulted.

Decatur Welcomes Home Edgar Bergen

BY TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
DECATUR — This Van Buren county community rolled out the red carpet for native son Edgar Bergen who returned this past weekend to help the town celebrate its salute to the nation's Bicentennial. An estimated 5,000 people lined the parade route Saturday afternoon to cheer Bergen who served as grand marshal, along with his ventriloquist dummy Mortimer Snerd. Bergen and Snerd later entertained an estimated 2,000 people during a program at the high school parking lot. Bergen, a top radio star of the 1940s who became a famous humorist with his ventriloquist dummy Charlie McCarthy, was returning to Decatur for the fourth time since becoming an entertainer.

His last visit had been in 1952. Bergen had also visited in 1948 where he entertained 25,000 people during Decatur's centennial year. Bergen spent 11 boyhood years with his parents in rural Decatur before he and his mother moved to Chicago after his father's death. Now in his 70s, Bergen said he still has a special place in his heart for the Van Buren community.

There wasn't any generation gap in Decatur Saturday, as both the very young and the very old enjoyed Bergen and Snerd's trademark presentation.

C. Blaine Rex, Decatur village

Decatur township Supervisor Joseph Miller presented Bergen with mementos of his visit,

Bergen was the guest at an open house Saturday morning at the V.F.W. hall. During his stay, he was the home guest of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Haefner of Decatur. Bergen returned to his home in California Sunday.

Saturday's parade was the biggest in Decatur since the community's 1958 centennial celebration, according to local citizens.

The hour-long parade was interrupted twice, once when a parade viewer collapsed and had to be taken away in ambulance and later when a member of the Decatur high school band fainted and required first aid from ambulance attendants.

Parade Village's Biggest Since Centennial In 1958

WELCOME HOME: Edgar Bergen with one of his famed dummies rides in parade through Decatur Saturday before estimated 5,000 people. Famed entertainer was grand marshal for parade and special guest at program marking community's Bicentennial salute. Bergen at one time lived in Decatur. (Tom Renner photos)

BASKETS OF CROPS: Joseph Miller, Decatur township supervisor, holds basket of celery while Edgar Bergen holds basket of onions given to Bergen in Decatur Saturday. Miller made presentations and Bergen said onions caused him to recall days when as boy he worked in onion field near Decatur.

Kal-Haven Trail To Be Discussed

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — The pros and cons of the proposed Kal-Haven non-motorized trail between South Haven and Kalamazoo will be aired Wednesday night during a meeting of state and local officials at 7:30 at the South Haven township hall.

Local officials whose governmental boundaries fall within the proposed 38-mile long hiking, biking and horseback riding trail have been invited to meet with representatives of the Department of Natural Resources.

The proposed trail would be built on the abandoned Penn Central railroad right-of-way. The cost to acquire property and develop the trail has been estimated at $1.3 million.

The meeting was sought by local officials who are concerned over potential problems such as law enforcement, litter and trespassing onto private property.

Preliminary plans for the park include placing an asphalt or limestone screen path for bikers, while separate paths would be built for hikers and horseback riders. Staging points would be located at opposite ends of the trail, in Kalamazoo and South Haven, while rest areas would be located at five mile intervals.

Interested citizens may attend Wednesday's meeting. A formal public hearing will held later when the project plans are completed.

Migrants Face Decision Of Settling In Michigan

HARTFORD — The question of whether to "settle out" or not crosses the minds of most migrant families that come to southwestern Michigan each summer to help with the fruit harvest.

For many, the idea of staying in Michigan year-round is not an easy question to answer, but these views on the subject were expressed by several migrants at the fifth annual Spanish-American Festival here Saturday night. Some 300 people attended the event at the Van Buren county fairgrounds Saturday.

Mrs. Francisco (Juanita) Garcia of Dowagiac, whose daughter Janie, 15, was named second runner-up at the festival's queen contest, said she would like to settle out in Michigan, but her husband disagrees because the family has so many relatives in Texas.

Jose C. Hernandez, his wife, Isabel and daughter Sylvia, 22, have been making the trek to Michigan for 15 years. The family has worked the last 10 summers at the Robert Hall farm, Hartford.

The reasons the Hernandez family comes north every year are the same economic ones that draw all migrant workers — no work at home.

The Domingo Dimas family of Hartford, settled in Michigan eight years ago. Dimas works at the Sundstrand Corp., Dowagiac, but his teenage children still pick fruit in the summer.

Mrs. Dimas listed three reasons for the decision to settle here permanently. First, they like it here, second, there are more job opportunities and third, they didn't have to take their children out of school, a reason Mrs. Dimas feels is most important. Their two oldest sons, John and Matt, have both gone on to graduate from Ferris State college.

Mary Loya, 15, daughter of Mrs. Paula Loya, Decatur, was crowned Van Buren county's

zales, Mattawan. Third runner-up was Maria Villarreal, 16, daughter of Mrs. Maria I. Villarreal, Lawrence.

SPANISH-AMERICAN QUEEN: Mary Loya, 15, daughter of Mrs. Paula Loya of Decatur, was chosen Van Buren county's Spanish-American Queen at fifth annual Spanish-American festival Saturday night at Van Buren Youth fair grounds, Hartford. New queen is 5 foot 3, has brown hair and eyes and will appear Oct. 3 in Kalamazoo at Southwestern Michigan Spanish-American festival. (George Swift photo)

Three Men Accused Of Robbery

BY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

BANGOR — Bangor police and Van Buren sheriff's deputies arrested three men Saturday night about 40 minutes after a lone gunman held up a gas station here and fled on foot with $413. Police said a .32-caliber revolver was confiscated from a car in which two of the men were riding, and that they are checking to see if money recovered from the vehicle was the same as that stolen from the station.

Police said Tommy Simpson, 17, route 1, 34th avenue, Bangor, was arrested on a charge of armed robbery about 10:40 p.m. after they stopped a car on CR-378 about two miles west of Bangor.

Van Buren Prosecutor Ward (Steve) Hamlin, Jr., this morning authorized warrants charging the other two, Roosevelt Sutton, 23, 501 East Linden, Hartford, and John Williams, Jr., 411 Cass, Bangor, with armed robbery. Both had been taken into custody Saturday night on charges of carrying a concealed weapon after deputies had stopped a car near where Simpson was arrested.

Sutton, also known as "Daddio" Williams, was free on $1,000 bond while awaiting trial on a charge of manslaughter at the time of his arrest.

Bangor police said a lone gunman entered the office of the Distefano Auto Service, 3 West Monroe, through a back door about 10 p.m. and ordered the two attendants, Howard Thompson, 32, route 1, Bangor, and William Copeland, Jr., 25, CR-681, Bangor, to open the cash register. The man then fled on foot after taking the money, police said.

The robber was described as being 5-foot-7, 130 pounds, with brown hair, wearing a denim jacket and faded blue jeans. The gun was described as being possibly a chrome-plated .38-caliber revolver.

Acting on information from an off-duty Bangor city police officer, deputies and Bangor police went to the Tommy Simpson home. Sgt. John Gaborik of the sheriff's department said that when officers first arrived, Simpson was not home but that later a car with two other men in it drove up and dropped him off.

Gaborik said he followed the car and stopped it about one mile from the Simpson home. A search produced a .32-caliber pistol. Police said that in the meantime Simpson had gotten into another car and was arrested as he stopped near where the other vehicle had been halted.

Sutton is currently waiting trial on a charge of manslaughter stemming from the May 19 shooting death of his half-sister, Lady Day Hughes, 11, 411 Cass, Bangor. The girl died when she was struck by a shotgun blast at the Sutton home in Hartford. Witnesses have told police the gun discharged when Sutton tripped across a bed.

At the time of his arrest on the manslaughter charge, Sutton was free on bond while awaiting trial on charges of delivery of marijuana, PCP, and LSD. He had been arrested during a raid by sheriff's deputies in February.

Committee Designation In Error

Mrs. James (Doris) Walton of Berrien Springs is chairman of President Ford's Fourth Congressional District committee. A typographical error in Saturday's Herald-Palladium gave that position to L. Montgomery Shepard. Shepard is chairman of President Ford's Fourth District finance committee which had raised $32,044 or 113 per cent of goal as of July 4.

Decatur Welcomes Home Edgar Bergen

BY TOM KENNER

South Haven Correspondent
DECATUR — This Van Buren county community rolled out the red carpet for native son Edgar Bergen who returned this past weekend to help the town celebrate its salute to the nation's Bicentennial.

An estimated 5,000 people lined the parade route Saturday afternoon to cheer Bergen who served as grand marshal, along with his ventriloquist dummy Mortimer Snerd.

Bergen and Snerd later entertained an estimated 2,000 people during a program at the high school parking lot.

Bergen, a top radio star of the 1940s who became a famous humorist with his ventriloquist dummy Charlie McCarthy, was returning to Decatur for the fourth time since becoming an entertainer.

His last visit had been in 1952. Bergen had also visited in 1948 where he entertained 25,000 people during Decatur's centennial year.

Bergen spent 11 boyhood years with his parents in rural Decatur before he and his mother moved to Chicago after his father's death. Now in his 70s, Bergen said he still has a special place in his heart for the Van Buren community.

There wasn't any generation gap in Decatur Saturday, as both the very young and the very old enjoyed Bergen and Snerd's trademark presentation.

C. Blaine Rex, Decatur village

president, presented Bergen a key to the village and a resolution designating Saturday as "Edgar Bergen Day" while Police Chief Byron Ives presented a plaque commending Bergen for his accomplishments.

Decatur township Supervisor Joseph Miller presented Bergen with mementos of his visit, including a basket of Michigan wines and locally grown celery and onions.

The onions caused Bergen to recall the days of his youth when he worked in nearby onion fields to earn enough money to buy a camera.

Bergen was the guest at an open house Saturday morning at the V.F.W. hall. During his stay, he was the home guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Haefner of Decatur. Bergen returned to his home in California Sunday.

Saturday's parade was the biggest in Decatur since the community's 1958 centennial celebration, according to local citizens.

The parade through the downtown business district was so long, in fact, that the front part of the march had to wait at a crossroad for the end of the parade to pass.

The hour-long parade was interrupted twice, once when a parade viewer collapsed and had to be taken away in ambulance and later when a member of the Decatur high school band fainted and required first aid from ambulance attendants.

KEY TO VILLAGE: C. Blaine Rex, left, Decatur village president, presents key to village to Edgar Bergen during special Saturday program where Bergen was honored. Bergen spent 11 years as a boy in Decatur.

Kal-Haven
Trail To Be DiscussedBy TOM KENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — The pros and cons of the proposed Kal-Haven non-motorized trail between South Haven and Kalamazoo will be aired Wednesday night during a meeting of state and local officials at 7:30 at the South Haven township hall.

Local officials whose governmental boundaries fall within the proposed 38-mile long hiking, biking and horseback riding trail have been invited to meet with representatives of the Department of Natural Resources.

The proposed trail would be built on the abandoned Penn Central railroad right-of-way. The cost to acquire property and develop the trail has been estimated at $1.3 million.

The meeting was sought by local officials who are concerned over potential problems such as law enforcement, litter

and trespassing onto private property.

Preliminary plans for the park include placing an asphalt or limestone screen path for bikers, while separate paths would be built for hikers and horseback riders. Staging points would be located at opposite ends of the trail, in Kalamazoo and South Haven, while rest areas would be located at five mile intervals.

Interested citizens may attend Wednesday's meeting. A formal public hearing will held later when the project plans are completed.

Migrants Face Decision
Of Settling In Michigan

HARTFORD — The question of whether to "settle out" or not crosses the minds of most migrant families that come to southwestern Michigan each summer to help with the fruit harvest.

For many, the idea of staying in Michigan year-round is not an easy question to answer, but these views on the subject were expressed by several migrants at the fifth annual Spanish-American Festival here Saturday night. Some 300 people attended the event at the Van Buren county fairgrounds Saturday.

Mrs. Francisco (Juanita) Garcia of Dowagiac, whose daughter Janie, 15, was named second runner-up at the festival's queen contest, said she would like to settle out in Michigan, but her husband disagrees because the family has so many relatives in Texas.

Jose C. Hernandez, his wife, Isabel and daughter Sylvia, 22, have been making the trek to Michigan for 15 years. The family has worked the last 10 summers at the Robert Hall farm, Hartford.

The reasons the Hernandez family comes north every year are the same economic ones that draw all migrant workers — no work at home.

The Dominga Dimas family of Hartford, settled in Michigan eight years ago. Dimas works at the Sandstrand Corp., Dowagiac, but his teenage children still pick fruit in the summer.

Mrs. Dimas listed three reasons for the decision to settle here permanently. First, they like it here, second, there are more job opportunities and third, they didn't have to take their children out of school, a reason Mrs. Dimas feels is most important. Their two oldest sons, John and Matt, have both gone on to graduate from Ferris State college.

Mary Loya, 13, daughter of Mrs. Paula Loya, Decatur, was crowned Van Buren county's

zales, Mattawan. Third runner-up was Maria Villarreal, 16, daughter of Mrs. Maria I. Villarreal, Lawrence.

SPANISH-AMERICAN QUEEN: Mary Loya, 15, daughter of Mrs. Paula Loya of Decatur, was chosen Van Buren county's Spanish-American Queen at fifth annual Spanish-American festival Saturday night at Van Buren Youth fair grounds, Hartford. New queen is 5 foot 3, has brown hair and eyes and will appear Oct. 3 in Kalamazoo at Southwestern Michigan Spanish-American festival. (George Swift photo)

Three Men Accused Of RobberyBY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

BANGOR — Bangor police and Van Buren sheriff's deputies arrested three men Saturday night about 40 minutes after a lone gunman held up a gas station here and fled on foot with $413. Police said a .32-caliber revolver was confiscated from a car in which two of the men were riding, and that they are checking to see if money recovered from the vehicle was the same as that stolen from the station.

Police said Tommy Simpson, 17, route 1, 34th avenue, Bangor, was arrested on a charge of armed robbery about 10:30 p.m. after they stopped a car on CR-378 about two miles west of Bangor.

Van Buren Prosecutor Ward (Steve) Hamlin, Jr., this morning authorized warrants charging the other two, Roosevelt Sutton, 23, 501 East Linden, Hartford, and John Williams, Jr., 411 Cass, Bangor, with armed robbery. Both had been taken into custody Saturday night on charges of carrying a concealed weapon after deputies had stopped a car near where Simpson was arrested.

Sutton, also known as "Daddio" Williams, was free on $1,000 bond while awaiting trial on a charge of manslaughter at the time of his arrest.

Bangor police said a lone gunman entered the office of the Distefano Auto Service, 3 West Monroe, through a back door about 10 p.m. and ordered the two attendants, Howard Thompson, 32, route 1, Bangor, and William Copeland, Jr., 25, CR-681, Bangor, to open the cash register. The man then fled on foot after taking the money, police said.

The robber was described as being 5-foot-7, 130 pounds, with brown hair, wearing a denim jacket and faded blue jeans. The gun was described as being possibly a chrome-plated .38-caliber revolver.

Acting on information from an off-duty Bangor city police officer, deputies and Bangor police went to the Tommy Simpson home. Sgt. John Gaborik of the sheriff's department said that when officers first arrived, Simpson was not home but that later a car with two other men in it drove up and dropped him off.

Gaborik said he followed the car and stopped it about one mile from the Simpson home. A search produced a .32-caliber pistol. Police said that in the meantime Simpson had gotten into another car and was arrested as he stopped near where the other vehicle had been halted.

Sutton is currently waiting trial on a charge of manslaughter stemming from the May 19 shooting death of his half-sister, Lady Day Hughes, 11, 411 Cass, Bangor. The girl died when she was struck by a shotgun blast at the Sutton home in Hartford. Witnesses have told police the gun discharged when Sutton tripped across a bed.

Ford Hits Connally Critics

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Ford says Republicans who publicly criticize John B. Connally as his potential running mate are harming party unity. He said complaints about the former Nixon administration Treasury secretary or any other possible vice presidential pick ought to be confined to "the procedure I set up" for privately receiving recommendations on the No. 2 position.

Uncommitted Delegate Profile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The uncommitted GOP convention delegates, who have the power to decide the Republican nominating battle, make up a group that is almost all white, mostly male and highly paid, a computer analysis of The Associated Press delegate survey shows.

In many ways, they fall right between the profiles of the backers of President Ford and challenger Ronald Reagan: Slightly more educated than Reagan supporters, but less than Ford delegates. Lower incomes than the President's backers, but higher than those pushing for the former California governor. About 14 per cent are homemakers, compared with 13 per cent of the Ford delegates and 16 per cent of Reagan delegates.

Allegan County Town Fights Battle Of Bridge

By DALE BETWEE
NEW RICHMOND, Mich. (AP) — Some days, it's enough to make a town paranoid.

First, business and industry packed up and left when this Allegan County community burned.

Then the ferryboats and farm rafts stopped coming; the railroad halted passenger service, then freight service, and finally even its mail bag catch and drop-off.

Today, New Richmond is reduced to a short string of clapboard houses lining 56th Street at the point where the road, the Chessie System tracks and the Kalamazoo river cross.

There also is the township hall, a gas station-postoffice, and a crooked sign by the railroad that says "New Richmond."

And so the 25 or so families that are left didn't even complain too loudly when the county took the road away. You can speed along from Fennville to Holland now without so much

Never mind that the 435-foot one-time swing bridge is rusty, rickety and unsafe at most any speed. All of the things, in fact, that the county says it is.

It also is a historically significant bit of early Allegan architecture, say its supporters. When it was built, in the early 1870s, it was the only Kalamazoo river crossing on the western side of the county.

But more importantly, the bridge also is one of only a couple of ways to get out of New Richmond.

"And that's important in the winter time," says Jeannie Slotman. "We're down in a hole here by the river, and sometimes you can cross the bridge and get out that way when you can't to the south."

Others, like Mrs. Harvey Stueker, point out that loss of the bridge would mean an extra two to three miles to Saugatuck or Holland, towns where people here work.

Of the 70 new bridges Allegan has replaced in the past 10 years, New Richmond's is the only one built in another spot, says Fred Neils, road commission manager. Logic argued for the new site, a half-mile downriver, he says.

"We avoided four right-angle turns and two crossings of the C&O Railroad grade by moving the bridge to 56th Street," he says, "not to mention the railroad underpass."

The underpass has been a bother for most of New Richmond's modern history. The railroad crosses the river a hundred feet or so from the bridge, and the road hooks underneath the tracks just north of the river.

Like the bridge, the underpass is only a single track wide, but worse, clearance is only nine feet.

"A lot of harsh words were spoken on the old, one-lane bridge," says Mrs. LaVern Hibbard. "Traffic would meet in the middle, and the drivers would argue over who would back up to let the other pass."

No one has lived in New Richmond as long as Mrs. Hibbard, who was born here around the turn of the century. When she was a girl, her mother took in lodgers in their big green house on the corner and fed the railroad men at night.

She and her husband, one of those railroad men who came to dinner, have lived in the green house since 1923. This spring when they returned from Florida, however, they planted a "For Sale" sign on the front lawn.

The big old house is too much to take care of now, she says, but there also is worry about the old bridge, plus the news this month the Postal Service wants to close the post office.

"If they close the post office, we'd have to put a box by the road, and who'd watch it on the days the checks come?" she wonders.

The four saloons that were an important part of New Richmond in its lumbering past are gone now, but the Hibbards and others will volunteer that "this is still a rough neighborhood."

the only commercial establishment in New Richmond. The grocery did a fair business when she and her husband bought it nearly 30 years ago, but now people buy elsewhere.

Today, she just stocks potato chips and pop. You can buy cigarettes from a machine and gas from one of the two pumps in front. In her cash box are a few dollars and many tabs from people "who'll be in to settle up tomorrow."

But the post office corner still has 52 boxes rented, and many people come in to buy money orders. Also, she says, farm workers know they can have mail forwarded here, and closing would hurt them, too.

AND NOW, THE BRIDGE: New Richmond's 100-year-old bridge over the Kalamazoo river is aging and Allegan county officials say they can't repair it anymore. The 45-foot one-time swing span is rusty, rickety and unsafe at most any speed. Without the bridge, workers going to Saugatuck and Holland would have to travel extra miles each day. (AP Wirephoto)

Allegan County Town Fights Battle Of Bridge

By DALE BETTWE
NEW RICHMOND, Mich. (AP) — Some days, it's enough to make a town paranoid.

First, business and industry packed up and left when this Allegan County community burned.

Then the ferryboats and farm rafts stopped coming; the railroad halted passenger service, then freight service, and finally even its mail bag catch and drop-off.

Today, New Richmond is reduced to a short string of clapboard houses lining 58th Street at the point where the road, the Chessie System tracks and the Kalamazoo river cross.

There also is the township hall, a gas station-postoffice-existence, and a crooked sign by the railroad that says "New Richmond."

And so the 25 or so families that are left didn't even complain too loudly when the county took the road away. You can speed along from Fennville to Holland now without so much as a glimpse of New Richmond. But now it's the old bridge and the post office they want to take away, and people here are crying "enough."

Never mind that the 435-foot one-time swing bridge is rusty, rickety and unsafe at most any speed. All of the things, in fact, that the county says it is.

But more importantly, the bridge also is one of only a couple of ways to get out of New Richmond.

"And that's important in the winter time," says Jeannie Slotman. "We're down in a hole here by the river, and sometimes you can cross the bridge and get out that way when you can't to the south."

Others, like Mrs. Harvey Stueker, point out that loss of the bridge would mean an extra two to three miles to Saugatuck or Holland, towns where people here work.

Of the 70 new bridges Allegan has replaced in the past 10 years, New Richmond's is the only one built in another spot, says Fred Neils, road commission manager. Logic argued for the new site, a half-mile downriver, he says.

"We avoided four right-angle turns and two crossings of the C&O Railroad grade by moving the bridge to 58th Street," he says, "not to mention the railroad underpass."

The underpass has been a bother for most of New Richmond's modern history. The railroad crosses the river a hundred feet or so from the bridge, and the road books underneath the tracks just north of the river.

Like the bridge, the underpass is only a single track wide, but worse, clearance is only nine feet.

"A lot of harsh words were spoken on the old, one-lane bridge," says Mrs. LaVern Hibbard. "Traffic would meet in the middle, and the drivers would argue over who would back up to let the other pass."

No one has lived in New Richmond as long as Mrs. Hibbard, who was born here around the turn of the century. When she was a girl, her mother took in lodgers in their big green house on the corner and fed the railroad men at night.

She and her husband, one of those railroad men who came to dinner, have lived in the green house since 1923. This spring when they returned from Florida, however, they planted a "For Sale" sign on the front lawn.

The big old house is too much to take care of now, she says, but there also is worry about the old bridge, plus the news this month the Postal Service wants to close the post office.

"If they close the post office, we'd have to put a box by the road, and who'd watch it on the days the checks come?" she wonders.

The four saloons that were an important part of New Richmond in its lumbering past are gone now, but the Hibbards and others will volunteer that "this is still a rough neighborhood."

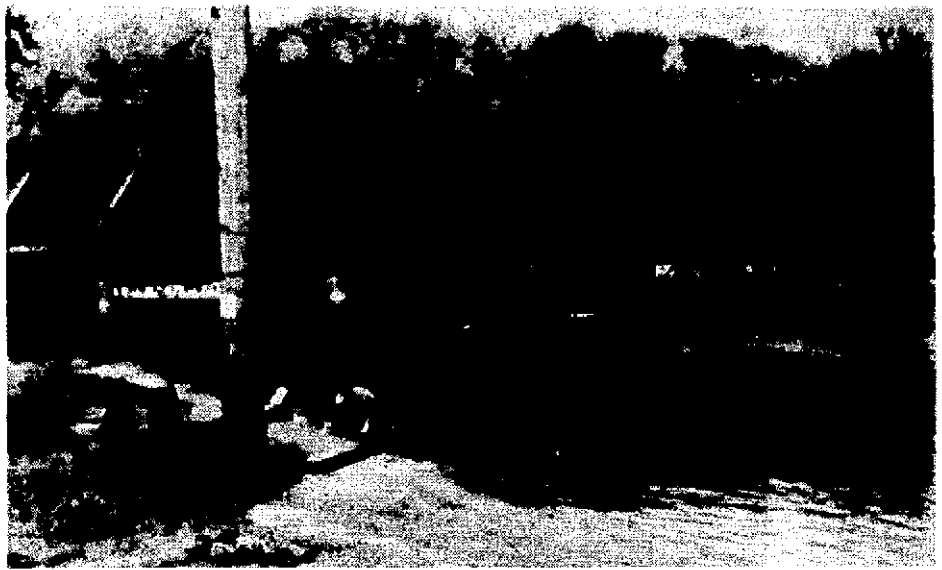

The post office is located in a corner of Mrs. Slotman's store, the only commercial establishment in New Richmond. The grocery did a fair business when she and her husband bought it nearly 30 years ago, but now people buy elsewhere.

Today, she just stocks potato chips and pop. You can buy cigarettes from a machine and gas from one of the two pumps in front. In her cash box are a few dollars and many tabs from people "who'll be in to settle up tomorrow."

But the post office corner still has 52 boxes rented, and many people come in to buy money orders. Also, she says, farm workers know they can have mail forwarded here, and closing would hurt them, too.

"After all," she says, "you can't put a mailbox in an orchard."

Roundup Remains Historic

LEWELLEN, Neb. (AP) — Dale Grace, 59, calls it "a good time for the cowboys and a history lesson for the visitors."

Participants and spectators agree.

Hundreds of people turn out to watch the Grace Land and Cattle Co. roundup, just as they have for almost two decades. Most come from Nebraska. Some travel from Oklahoma and Kansas.

More than 1,000 calves are roped and branded during the annual event. Grace would have it no other way, because that's the way it was done when he was just a young boy.

To him, it is still the heart as well as the heritage of the West.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Aug. 9, the 222nd day of 1976. There are 144 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, the United States dropped the second atomic bomb on Japan, destroying more than half the city of Nagasaki.

On this date:

In 1638, a native of Holland, Jonas Bronck, became the first settler in what is now The Bronx, New York.

In 1842, a border dispute between the United States and Canada was settled in the Webster-Ashburton Treaty.

In 1898, Spain formally accepted peace terms ending the Spanish-American War.

In 1902, Edward VII was crowned King of England following the death of his mother, Queen Victoria.

In 1942, the British arrested the Indian nationalist, Mohandas Gandhi. He was kept in custody until 1944.

In 1973, the U.S. Senate Watergate Committee filed a lawsuit to force President Richard Nixon to produce White House tapes subpoenaed by the com-

Ten years ago: A grand jury in Cleveland reported that racial violence in the Ohio city had been organized and exploited by a small group of trained and disciplined professionals in the business of stirring up trouble.

Five years ago: The worst riots in months broke out in Belfast in Northern Ireland, and at least 13 people were killed. One year ago: 500 people were reported drowned when two river boats collided near Canton, China.

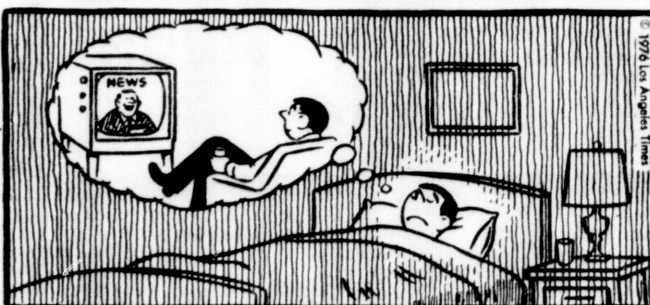

Today's birthdays: Meteorologist Gordon Dunn is 71 years old. Former movie star Charles Farrell is 74. Thought for today: There is always room at the top — Daniel Webster, American statesman, 1782-1852.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the British superintendent of Indian Affairs, Guy Johnson, predicted that the only Indians the American Colonists could count on in fighting would be the small number which had come under the influence of New England missionaries.

JOHN P. ROCHE
A Word Edgewise

Discussing the Republican nomination is getting as risky as predicting the New England weather. Before Ronald Reagan announced Richard Schweiker, the liberal Republican senator from Pennsylvania, as his vice-presidential choice, we were given daily tallies of the "committed" delegates for Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan. However, Schweiker was a "committed" Ford delegate and all calculations are sheer cotton candy as each side launches an all-out campaign for the other's supposedly solid supporters. The reason for this, of course, is that the commitment in most states is purely "moral" — there are no legal sanctions employable against deserters. Indeed, even in states where the commitment is supposedly legal, at least through the first or second ballot, or until released, nobody has ever figured out how to enforce it. In 1952, some delegates legally committed to Estes Kefauver were persuaded to back Adlai Stevenson. There were some screams of outrage from the Kefauver camp, but the wild geese were out of reach — particularly since they rose above law and morality to support the winner.

So it's back to square one and statistical chaos. True, the initial response to the Reagan choices by dedicated conservatives is one of betrayal. Yet the question remains: Now that Ronald Reagan has wrestled with his conscience and won, where are the right-wingers to go? If they were old-fashioned pragmatists, the answer would be easy: If you are going to vote for an opportunist, go for the original, Ford, not the carbon copy, Reagan. If they were cold-blooded realists, they would wink at their true believers and say, "Trust Ronnie, he'll keep that liberal clown on a tight leash."

More and more, the platform debate at the Republican convention moves into the foreground. My hunch is there will be perhaps 500 delegates wandering around in an ideological trance, trying to find a compass reading. There Reagan may preempt the hot issues — notably foreign affairs (by the way, when was the last time you heard of Henry Kissinger?) and the "right to life."

With Carter in irons because of his double vision on abortion (he is personally against it, but would not support a constitutional amendment to overturn the Supreme Court's supportive decisions), and Ford in a comparable dilemma, Reagan has this battlefield all to himself.

Did Mob Steal Fake Lindbergh Baby?

Q: I have always been fascinated by the Lindbergh baby kidnapping and I hear that a new book is coming out that seems to turn all the known facts upside down. What can you tell us? —

JERRY: He's Sallying forth

A: The book, called "Scapegoat," seriously questions much of the evidence in that tragic case. Among the author's startling revelations is the information that the infant found dead was four inches longer than the Lindbergh baby. The author's theory is that the gigantic search for the kidnapped child, with roadblocks everywhere, interfered with rum-running operations in New Jersey, so the mob stole a baby from an orphanage to substitute for the missing Lindbergh baby.

Q: Here's Jackie O. traveling to Paris, Moscow and Leningrad with Thomas Hoving, director of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, and yet there's no talk of a romance. Isn't that a surprise? — S.D., Rochester, N.Y.

A: Not really. Hoving, cultured, well-off financially and thought to have political ambitions, is solidly married to Nancy Bell Hoving and devoted to their daughter Petrea. Jackie went along on the trip in her capacity as a Viking editor. Her publishing house is bringing out a book keyed to the collection of

Q: How come the name of California Gov. Jerry Brown never seems to be linked with a romantic interest? And he's so good-looking. — R.R., Riverside, Calif.

A: Gov. Brown is Super discreet and demands pledges of silence from his aides and dates. We know, for instance, that he has gone out several times with that tall, irreverent actress Sally Kellerman, but none of the governor's buddies will admit it. However, the couple was recently seen in an Italian restaurant in Hollywood and the restaurateur, Dan Tana, confirms that Jerry and Sally were in his place together.

CLARIFICATION: Recently I referred to actress Jan Clayton's outstanding work with alcoholics in California. We want to make it clear that Jan herself is a non-drinking alcoholic and in fact participated earlier this year in Operation Understanding, a Washington gathering of 52 former drinkers who are prominent politicians, athletes, and business or professional leaders. Jan's book on Rodgers and Hart will be published in October.

Q: How are the Concorde supersonic jets making out on their Washington flights? —

H.V. Hays, Kan.
A: After six months of operation both France and Britain are quite happy with customer response to their five-day-a-week service to Washington's Dulles airport. Though the two countries have reduced maximum passenger limits below the designed 100 seats, the SSTs are averaging well over a 75 per cent occupancy rate and the operating airlines are eagerly looking forward to the opening of service to New York.

Q: I saw nude pictures of Jayne Mansfield's daughter in a magazine recently. Is she going with anybody, do you know? — O.M., Amagansett, N.Y.

A: Jayne Marie just got married to an importer named Ron Chapman. The far-out wedding ceremony with everyone in bare feet took place in Malibu Beach. The service was conducted by a representative of the Universal Life church, one of California's more unusual religious movements.

Q: Do you have any idea why Raquel Welch canceled the last part of her cross-country tour? — T.S., Reno, Nev.

A: The strain of the grueling tour plus the shock of the recent death of her father brought Raquel to near-collapse. The star cut her schedule short, and went back to Los Angeles, where she checked into a hospital to rest and recuperate.

Q: I gather that since Shirley Temple Black has accepted a new post, this time as Chief of Protocol in Washington, she's really serious about a political career. What next do you sup-began shooting in 1970, is finally reported to be near completion. Filmed in Hollywood, Connecticut, France and Spain, the movie stars John Huston as an aging director facing the challenge of the "new Hollywood." This could be the big comeback Welles has been striving for ever since his early successes of the 1940s.

Q: I have always been fascinated by the Lindbergh baby kidnapping and I hear that a new book is coming out that seems to turn all the known facts upside down. What can you tell us?

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Mixed At Opening

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, continuing its recent indecisive trend.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down about 2 points in the early going, but advances slightly outnumbered declines in the overall count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow was lowered by dividend-payment adjustments in the prices of several stocks in the average.

Brokers noted little in the economic news to stir the market out of its recent lethargy.

This morning marked the first change in the makeup of the Dow Jones industrial average in 17 years, with Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing being substituted for Anaconda, Anaconda and Atlantic Richfield are planning a merger.

Today's early prices included Morton-Norwich, up 1/4 at 19 1/2; RCA, down 1/4 at 27 1/2; and Southern Co., unchanged at 14 1/2.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average lost .68 to 986 even after being down about 4 points at mid-day.

The average posted a 1.36 gain for the week.

Losers held a slight edge on gainers in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index slipped .04 to 55.46.

Big Board volume was a sluggish 13.93 million shares. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .18 at 103.41.

Missing Aircraft Located

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — A small plane reported overdue at Traverse City was located today at the Tri-Cities airport, the facility's flight service director said today.

The plane, carrying four people on a flight from Duluth, Minn., to Sarnia, Ont., had been expected about midnight last night at Traverse City. Spokesmen at the Gaylord airport said the Piper Cherokee refueled there about 8 p.m. Sunday and the Federal Aviation Administration been checking Northern Lower Michigan airports to find the aircraft when it did not land in Traverse City.

Covert Man Sentenced

SOUTH HAVEN — James Dell, 40, route 1, Covert was placed on probation for one year after pleading no contest to a reduced charge of burning personal property during sentencing in Seventh District court here Friday.

Dell had been originally charged with arson by Covert township police in connection with the burning of an unoccupied building owned by Douglas Mazique of Chicago on CR-378 last Nov. 9.

In other cases, Gregory Williams, 21, 709 South Haven place, South Haven was sentenced to 90 days in the Van Buren county jail after being found guilty of aiding in the concealment of stolen property.

Robert Gordon, 33, route 2, South Haven, demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned on a charge of felonious assault. Gordon was arrested in connection with the alleged assault of a man with a knife during an argument. He was released on $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

Mishawaka Strike Is Over Now

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Auto workers were to return to work today at AM General plants here and in nearby Mishawaka, ending a week-long strike.

United Auto Workers union officials said 901 workers turned out Sunday to ratify the three-year contract by a 7-1 vote margin.

The contract calls for a raise of 21 cents per hour, increased dental and life insurance benefits and a cost of living increase in the annual bonus.

The plants manufacture buses and Jeep mail delivery vehicles.

Niles Star Firm Sold To Chain

NILES — Knight-Ridder Newspapers Inc., have sold the Star Publishing Co., here, including the Daily Star, and the Niles Printing Co., to the Carmage Walls Newspaper group.

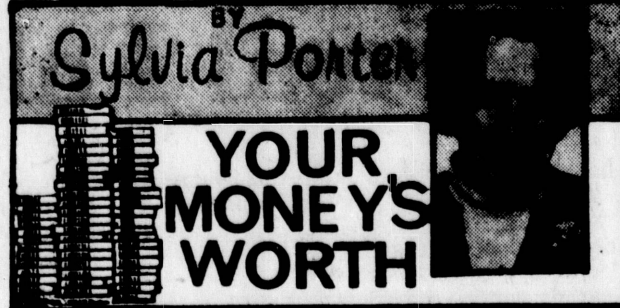

William Applebee, publisher of the Daily Star, said the purchase, effective Aug. 1, was for $2 million and included all assets of the Star Publishing and Niles Printing companies.

Applebee said the purchase was negotiated by Les Daughtry, publisher of the Galveston, Tex., Daily News, a member of the Walls group. The group publishes newspapers in 14 states across the nation, Applebee said.

Applebee said the Star Publishing Co., includes the Daily Star, weekly newspapers in Cassopolis and Edwardsburg, and a free circulation shopping guide for the Niles area. He said the Star Publishing Co., and Niles Printing Co., will now be known as Niles Newspapers Inc.

The two firms were purchased by Ridder Publications Inc., in 1971. Two years ago, Ridder and Knight newspapers merged, forming Knight-Ridder Newspaper Inc.

Applebee said he will continue as publisher. He said there has been a "significant" reduction in staff, but declined further comment.

TIPS ON ACTIONS BEFORE YEAREND

No matter what is the final fate of the monstrosity of a tax "reform" bill on which the House and Senate have been laboring for so long, now is the time to be sure you're taking every proper step to minimize the federal income tax you'll owe for 1976.

Review your tax moves so far this year to be certain you have made no costly errors or omitted essential tax savers.

Plan your tax strategy for the balance of the year to get the maximum benefit out of the tax-savings tips in this week's series of five columns.

The tips you'll read in these five columns will work for you and will not be diluted by anything Congress does or does not do. And there are some areas where the tips actually will be enhanced if Congress approves new tax provisions.

For instance, there is little or no crackdown on itemized deductions as we know them: interest on home mortgages and credit cards, real estate and other state taxes, medical expenses, charitable contributions, etc. This alone opens the way to effective tax planning and impressive tax savings.

To start with a key family benefit: child-care tax breaks. At one time, you, working parents with small children, were forced to take a financial beating. Tax deductions for expenses you had to incur to pay someone to care for your children or other dependents were either badly watered down or, in many cases, completely wiped out.

Starting in 1976, though, you — working parents of a dependent child under age 15 or supporting a household including an incapacitated parent or an incapacitated spouse (wife or husband) can cash in on more and more of these tax breaks. And there's a strong chance that some of you who previously couldn't get any benefit from the "child care" provisions will now get some tax relief.

To be specific, starting this past Jan. 1, you as working parents may earn up to $35,000 a year and still deduct as much as $4,800 of the money you lay out for household help and similar care. (Prior to this year, you could have taken the full deduction only if your combined incomes didn't exceed $18,000 a year. After that, the deduction for one child or incapacitated dependent (an ill parent, say, or a physically or mentally incapacitated spouse). It could be as much as $800 for two or more.

So, even if you continue to take the standard deduction, you too could use the child-care credit. What's more, there would be no income limitations. Even if you, as working parents, earned more than $50,000, you would qualify.

And what if that provision doesn't become law? Then what? You're no worse off than you are now, according to Prentice-Hall. You still are eligible to take an itemized deduction of your child-care expenses up to $400 a month.

Hear Merrill Lynch tell how writing options on your stocks could bring added income

At our next Merrill Lynch Forum, we'll explain a relatively little-known investment technique called Option Writing.

It could help you make money on your common stocks — cash payment for agreeing to sell the stocks in the future.

At the forum you'll learn:

- How much money you could reasonably expect to make — over a period of time.
- How Option Writing can produce a continuous cash flow while helping you cut stock market losses.
- Whether Option Writing is the right strategy for you. The risks involved. How to get started.

You'll also get a free prospectus on The Options Clearing Corporation.

The forum is free. But space is limited. So make your reservations today. Just call (616) 451-3061. Or mail the coupon. But come.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks

Mixed At Opening

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, continuing its recent indecisive trend.

The Dow Jones average of 36 industrial stocks was down about 2 points in the early going, but advances slightly outnumbered declines in the overall count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow was lowered by dividend-payment adjustments in the prices of several stocks in the average.

Brokers noted little in the economic news to stir the market out of its recent lethargy.

This morning marked the first change in the makeup of the Dow Jones industrial average in 17 years, with Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing being substituted for Anaconda. Anaconda and Atlantic Richfield are planning a merger.

Today's early prices included Morton-Norwich, up 1/4 at 18 1/2; RCA, down 1/4 at 27 1/2; and Southern Co., unchanged at 14 1/2.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average lost .68 to 896 even after being down about 4 points at mid-day.

The average posted a 1.36 gain for the week.

Losers held a slight edge on gainers in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index slipped .04 to 55.46.

Big Board volume was a sluggish 13.93 million shares. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .18 at 103.41.

Located

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — A small plane reported overdue at Traverse City was located today at the Tri-Cities airport, the facility's flight service director said today.

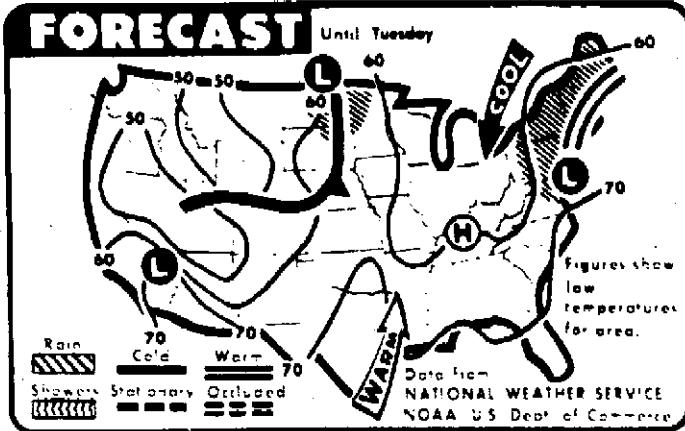

The plane, carrying four people on a flight from Duluth, Minn., to Sarnia, Ont., had been expected about midnight last night at Traverse City. Spokesmen at the Gaylord airport said the Piper Cherokee refueled there about 8 p.m. Sunday and the Federal Aviation Administration been checking Northern Lower Michigan airports to find the aircraft when it did not land in Traverse City.

Covert Man Sentenced

SOUTH HAVEN — James Dell, 40, route 1, Covert was placed on probation for one year after pleading no contest to a reduced charge of burning personal property during sentencing in Seventh District court here Friday.

Dell had been originally charged with arson by Covert township police in connection with the burning of an unoccupied building owned by Douglas Mazique of Chicago on CR-378 last Nov. 9.

In other cases, Gregory Williams, 21, 709 South Haven place, South Haven was sentenced to 90 days in the Van Buren county jail after being found guilty of aiding in the concealment of stolen property. Robert Gordon, 33, route 2, South Haven, demanded a preliminary examination when arraigned on a charge of felonious assault. Gordon was arrested in connection with the alleged assault on a man with a knife during an argument. He was released on $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

Man's Problems Won't Change

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — The president of Michigan Tech says problems of population, energy and natural resources will occupy the attention of most of mankind by the turn of the century. Speaking at commencement ceremonies Saturday at Northern Michigan University, Raymond L. Smith told the graduates that it is a "fantasy" to think of unspoiled nature as long as man insists on multiplying at an ever-increasing rate. He described back-to-nature, do-it-yourself approaches to problems as "romantic notions and wishful dreams that will not succeed in the real world of teeming billions, demanding food, shelter, transportation, amusement and all things we desire and take for granted."

TIPS ON ACTIONS BEFORE YEAREND
No matter what is the final fate of the monstrosity of a tax "reform" bill on which the House and Senate have been laboring for so long, now is the time to be sure you're taking every proper step to minimize the federal income tax you'll owe for 1978.

— Review your tax moves so far this year to be certain you have made no costly errors or omitted essential tax savers.

— Plan your tax strategy for the balance of the year to get the maximum benefit out of the tax-savings tips in this week's series of five columns.

The tips you'll read in these five columns will work for you and will not be diluted by anything Congress does or does not do. And there are some areas where the tips actually will be enhanced if Congress approves new tax provisions.

For instance, there is little or no crackdown on itemized deductions as we know them: interest on home mortgages and credit cards, real estate and other state taxes, medical expenses, charitable contributions, etc. This alone opens the way to effective tax planning and impressive tax savings.

To start with a key family benefit: child-care tax breaks. At one time, you, working parents with small children, were forced to take a financial beating. Tax deductions for expenses you had to incur to pay someone to care for your children or other dependents were either badly watered down or, in many cases, completely wiped out.

Starting in 1978, though, you — working parents of a dependent child under age 13 or supporting a household including an incapacitated parent or an incapacitated spouse (wife or husband) can cash in on more and more of these tax breaks. And there's a strong chance that some of you who previously couldn't get any benefit from the "child care" provisions will now get some tax relief.

To be specific, starting this past Jan. 1, you as working parents may earn up to $3,000 a year and still deduct as much as $4,000 of the money you lay out for household help and similar care. (Prior to this year, you could have taken the full deduction only if your combined incomes didn't exceed $18,000 a year. After that, the deduction

And what if that provision doesn't become law? Then what?

You're no worse off than you are now, according to Prentice-Hall. You still are eligible to take an itemized deduction of your child-care expenses up to $400 a month.

So, even if you continue to take the standard deduction, you too could use the child-care credit. What's more, there would be no income limitations. Even if you, as working parents, earned more than $30,000, you would qualify.

Hear Merrill Lynch tell how writing options on your stocks could bring added income

At our next Merrill Lynch Forum, we'll explain a relatively little-known investment technique called Option Writing.

It could help you make money on your common stocks — cash payment for agreeing to sell the stocks in the future.

At the forum you'll learn:

- How much money you could reasonably expect to make — over a period of time.
- How Option Writing can produce a continuous cash flow while helping you cut stock market losses.
- Whether Option Writing is the right strategy for you. The risks involved. How to get started.

You'll also get a free prospectus on The Options Clearing Corporation.

The forum is free. But space is limited. So make your reservations today. Just call (616) 451-3061. Or mail the coupon. But come.

Time and place:
Thursday, August 12th, 8:00 p.m.
At the Holiday Inn, Dining Room, 100 Main Street, St. Joseph.

At That Moment

HARD TIMES

It began, on a Thursday, on Wall Street. Then slowly, as surely as lights flicking off in an apartment house, the nation sank into that hopeless night called The Great Depression.

The collapse of the stock market that started Oct. 24, 1929, was both a cause and a symptom of what was to follow. The market, a barometer of the nation's dreams, exemplified the limitless optimism of the 1920s. You worked hard, you played hard, and there was nowhere to go but up.

But by 1932, not only had $74 billion in stock values simply vanished like summer smoke; not only had 4,835 banks closed; not only were women prowling the docks in New Orleans searching for rotten bananas while shabby men asked waitresses for a cut of hot water to make tomato soup with the ketchup; not only had 86,000 businesses failed and wheat dropped from a postwar high of $2.90 a bushel to a dime; not only were the nation's wages down almost a half; not only were half a million sand-caked refugees coughing on Route 66 — "the road of Flight" — in their flivvers away from the new desert of the Dust Bowl; not only were ex-brokers selling apples for a nickel on street corners; not only were 12 million Americans jobless; there was something gone that went deeper into the soul, that ached more than hunger. Hope had died. The system had broken down and there was no one to fix it.

In 1930, Herbert Hoover said: "We have now passed the worst." And that same year, a man saw a crowd outside a Charlie Chaplin movie and asked, "Is that a bread line or a bank closing?" And the worst had not yet come.

Out of the nation's despair rose Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He would break with tradition. He would try anything if it worked, and he did. The New Deal ravaged the alphabet in creating a blizzard of new agencies: AAA for farmers, NRA for industry, PWA, CCC, WPA, FCC, SEC, TVA. There were many who cried socialism and saw the programs as giveaways. There was grist for their mill, especially in the Works Progress Administration.

A whole team of WPA writers in New York was set to work on a history of the safety pin. In Washington, 100 men kept busy trailing balloons on strings to chase away the starlings and keep the Capitol clean.

But WPA also funneled $8 billion in paychecks into eight million households — a sixth of the population. It repaired 250,000 miles of roads, repaired or built 1,000 airports.

The Supreme Court would overrule many of the innovations. But a corner had been turned even as the economy slowly revived, and the tin and tarpaper shacks of the Hoovervilles were slowly brushed from the landscape.

The people who suffered through it and survived would bear the scars for their lifetime, but they had lived through a pivot of history. From now on, for better or worse, richer or poorer, wiser or more foolish, the course of the nation would be run and regulated from Washington as never before.

Veterinarian: Acupuncture Can Eliminate Animal Pain

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A Texas A&M University professor of veterinary medicine says acupuncture has worked on humans and there's no reason it can't work on animals.

Dr. Bill McMullen, a large-animal clinician, said in a recent interview that acupuncture can eliminate pain, be used in animal surgery, and one day soon "may become another branch of veterinary medicine."

Research has shown, McMullen said, that needles placed in the proper areas can make life easier for cats and dogs and horses.

"We are only scratching the surface of animal acupuncture now," he said, "but it offers a lot of promise. It will not be a replacement for the current methods of veterinary medicine, but an addition to the practice."

Acupuncture can eliminate the pain of arthritis and offers great possibility in the treatment of shock in animals and in certain operations where an anesthetic might be dangerous, McMullen said.

"I have no doubt but that acupuncture is the real thing," he said.

The A&M professor said acupuncture was first believed by some to be "post-hypnotic suggestion or patient preparation."

"I'd like to know how post-hypnotism works with a horse."

Programs for men's and women's round robin play. Men's leagues. Women's leagues. Junior instructional league. Private or group lessons. Seniors program. The best championship indirect lighting system. A slow playing surface for more enjoyment. Viewing and an observation deck. Half lockers that can be rented for the season. Snack bar.

Tennis, racquetball and handball are all family sports that are super ways of keeping physically fit while having enjoyment, too.

We will provide a conscientious staff, headed up by our managing U.S.P.T.A. tennis professional, Winston Chan-A-Koon, who will be working just a little harder to make your time spent at the South Shore Racquet Club a little more pleasant.

We the owners of the South Shore Racquet Club have built a truly first-class private club for you to enjoy year round and we are sure you will easily see why it will pay you to be a member.

To join just fill out the membership application below and mail with your check to: South Shore Racquet Club, 3630 Tennis Court, St. Joseph, Michigan 49085. Or, if you desire more information, call 429-2101 or 983-6647.

Sincerely Yours,
SOUTH SHORE RACQUET CLUB

Requests for court times will be honored on a first-come-first-served basis. Don't be disappointed. Send in your application now.
